Run Along, Little Pigmy.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE GOVERNMENT once kept out of all business; now it runs every business, including farming. Senator Bailey, of North Carolina, says of the Bankhead cotton bill limiting crops:

"If the Supreme Court passes that, I should know the end of all things had come in America, and I shall prepare for the Socialistic regime and dictatorship."

However, facts count. American farmers in 1933 received in cash $3,271,000,000, an increase of $1,158,000,000 over 1932. Much oratory and Socialism would be needed to wipe out a FACT like that.

This increase of more than a billion included cash of innocent taxpayers, paid by the government to farmers for plowing under crops instead of letting them grow. But farmers are not particular about HOW they get it, if they get it honestly.

Radio should be as free as the printing press. If radio had existed when our Constitution was written, its freedom would have been guaranteed, as freedom of the press was guaranteed, perhaps more emphatically.

CONSCIENCE IS still a real power. James E. Shipley, 24, of Memphis, Tenn., told Houston, Texas, police that he committed a murder five years ago, because he wanted to "lift it from his conscience and be able to sleep again." Said he:

"Every night during five years, in my dreams, I have seen that man lying as I left him. I am glad to get it off my chest at last. Maybe tonight I'll sleep without dreaming."

IN CHICAGO, an old woman convicted of killing her daughter-in-law, shows signs of horror for the first time at the thought of going to prison. Reporters say: "She shudders and faints at the thought of a prison cell." Others could face a prison cell calmly, but would faint at the thought of chloroforming a helpless young woman and killing her with a shot in the back, the crime of which the old Chicago woman was convicted.

Truly, all the animals seem to be locked up in human beings, that are as different one from another as a sheep from a tiger. Consider the hideous Roman emperor, who had his victims tortured close by, as he sat eating, that their screams and yells might add to his enjoyment.

A FEW years ago, when a rare automobile appeared, little boys yelled, "Get a horse." Now city children seeing a horse pulling a carriage marvel, asking why the man doesn't get an automobile.

Not long ago, ships came from Africa, bringing black slaves in hundreds. Arab slave traders caught them, sold them to white men, who thus solved labor problems. Nearly everybody approved. A prayer book in a non-slave state was changed, a picture on the front page showing a black slave in chains kneeling at the feet of the Saviour, was taken out because it might be called "condemnation of slavery." The Supreme Court ruled that anybody who found a runaway slave must return him to his master.

Now Mrs. Hugh Rennert, Jr., asks permission to bring in one little slave, an African pigmy named Gogo, only three feet high. Mrs. Rennert's stepfather, General Munez de Pagdo, bought him when he was Governor of Spanish Guinea. Gogo, real name Gong, a talented little pigmy, waits on the table, speaks Spanish, French, plays the guitar. But he can't come in. Our government says no, no, NO.

MUSSOLINI, NEVER idle, afraid of nothing, intends that Italy shall expand, find room and food for surplus population in Africa and Asia. He is sending General Ezzio Garibaldi, grandson of the great "Liberator," on a long "friendship tour" in Arabia, "spying out the land."

General Balbo, who came visiting us with a big airplane fleet, is in Northern Africa, representing Italy.

The Arabs will respect Garibaldi, who fought so hard on the French side through the war that he eats through a silver tube in his throat, a German bullet having destroyed his eating apparatus, and still carries several German bullets in his body.

MUSSOLINI INHERITS the qualities of ancient Romans that established a "Monroe Doctrine" for Europe against the powerful kings of Asia long before our American Monroe Dostrine was heard of. "They established as a law that no king of Asia would be allowed to enter Europe and conquer any one of its people." (See Montesquieu's History of Rome.)

That is what Uncle Sam says now to Europe concerning South America. France and England between them have nearly established a Monroe Doctrine covering Asia and Africa, for their own benefit. Mussolini does not propose to recognize it.

KARL VON WIEGAND, brilliant correspondent of Universal Service in Berlin, says Uncle Sam turning the Philippines loose as an independent country delights Japan, worries Holland, disappoints Russia. Near the Philippines the Dutch have their East Indian empire, 3,000 miles long, including Java, "where forty-two million people are crowded into space smaller

U.S. Should Pay All Depositors in Closed Reserve Banks

More than one thousand million dollars of the people's money are now tied up in closed banks.

These depositors are among the finest of our citizens.

Most of them are hardworking and economical.

Most of them have dependents to support.

And ALL of them have seen the savings of years swept away by the failure of the institutions in which they had confidence.

This has been one of the greatest tragedies of the depression—the ruin of hundreds of thousands of families by circumstances for which they were NOT TO BLAME.

If any feature of the Government's relief program deserves to come first, it should be the return of these savings to depositors.

Representative Clarence J. McLeod, (Rep.), of Michigan, has introduced a bill in Congress authorizing the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to take over the assets of closed Federal Reserve banks for a ten-year period, meanwhile REIMBURSING DEPOSITORS IN FULL FOR ACCOUNTS NOW FROZEN.

The bill has won the support of some of the most capable members of Congress, both in the House and Senate.

It SHOULD BE PASSED, not only out of simple fairness to the depositors in these banks, but as an ESSENTIAL RECOVERY MEASURE.

But its expenditure would be GOOD BUSINESS.

It would, of course, immediately stimulate purchasing power throughout the country. The effects of this on industry and employment need not be enlarged on here.

It also would permit the assets of these banks, during the next ten years, to be sold at something approaching their real value instead of their present shrunken value. The proceeds of these sales would pay off the Government's advance.

Aid for ten millions of depositors should be a fundamental plank in the recovery platform.

The growing sentiment throughout the country for that aid is based on common justice and common sense.

LINK INSULL TO WAR IN DESERT

Mystery Ship Sighted; U. S. Brings Brother Back for Trial

Associated Press.

After a year and a half of legal battles, Martin J. Insull was back in the United States, definitely in the hands of the law today, a prisoner of police who were taking him to Chicago where he faces charges in connection with the collapse of the Insull utilities "empire."

His brother, Samuel, Sr., however, had authorities at sea—much the same position as he himself was supposed to be despite reports he was financing a desert war to seek refuge in Asia Minor.

PORT SAID, Egypt, March 28.—(AP.)—Reports of fierce border warfare betwen the tribal army of Ibn Saud and the troops of the wealthy Imam Yahia, of Yemen, reached here simultaneously today with the report that Samuel Insull, Sr., Chicago fugitive, may be seeking a refuge in Yemen.

Port consular authorities were notified that the Maiotis, Insull's freighter-yacht, had been located in the Sea of Marmora, but, nevertheless, they started an investigation to determine whether the Chicagoan had slipped through the Suez Canal with the connivance of the captain of some other ship bound for the Red Sea.

If he should elude the watch here and reports are true that his

'PINCHOT' RUM HIT BY M'NAIR

Mayor McNair today blamed "Pinchot liquor" for Pittsburgh's increasing traffic death rate during the first three months of 1934.

In addressing a testimonial luncheon for the city's traffic safety agencies at the Chamber of Commerce auditorium, the mayor said:

"I offer no defense or excuses. I place the increase in traffic accidents here squarely upon the governor of the state who insists on giving the people wood alcohol and a little coloring and calling it whisky.

"If I had my way, there would not be a drop of 'Pinchot whisky' in the city. I am amazed that a man like the governor would stand for it. People go crazy when they get that stuff."

The mayor made his charges after Marcus Dow, of Cleveland, forme pesident of the National Safety Council, said he regretted that Pittsburgh's figures for traffic accidents for the first three months of this year are already 100 per cent ahead of last year. During the luncheon, he presented the mayor with a plaque symbolic of Pittsburgh's second place award in the national safety contest for 1933.

3 Croatians Doomed In Plot to Slay King

BELGRADE Yugoslavia, March 28.—(AP.)—A death sentence was passed today against three Croatians convicted of plotting to assassinate King Alexander at Zagreb, December 16.

At the time of the plot, rumors that it had been perpetrated were denied as baseless.

Co-Ed Vanishes, Letter To Parents Tells Grief

EUNICE J. POLLOCK, 20 . . . SHE WROTE HOME AND VANISHED

International News Service.

CHICAGO, March 28.—Search for Miss Eunice Pollock, brilliant University of Wisconsin student who disappeared from the campus at Madison after being expelled from her exclusive sorority, centered in Chicago today.

Missing for 11 days, it was disclosed that Miss Pollock had written a letter of bitter disillusionment to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Pollock, of Manitowoc, Wis., before vanishing.

LETTER BARES ANGUISH

Her letter of farewell told of the heartache and anguish caused by her expulsion by a secret court of 26 Alpha Chi Omega Sorority sisters. The letter described her determination to sever every bond that had bound her to her past life. The letter read:

"I am running away from this town where I have been happy for two years, but which has become unbearable during the past week.

"You will probably hear many nasty things about me, but God knows that I know that my soul is free from all malice, and I know you think so, too.

"I have almost gone mad with worry during the past week, and have decided that this is the only solution. I have always been a good daughter to you and always shall be, and so there is no need for worry.

PLEADS AGAINST SEARCH

"Don't try to find me, as I will never come home again. I would give my life to have you kiss me goodbye. I guess that is impossible. No matter what happens, remember I love you very dearly and will pray for you each night.

"Circumstantial evidence is against me and so I am going away to forget it all. I am sure I can stand on my own feet, as I have a healthy body, a pleasing smile and am not afraid of hard work. God will help me in this enterprise.

"Remember, dear mother and father, please don't search for me, because I would rather die (I really mean this), than come home after I have taken such a drastic step as I am now planning."

400,000 GET STEEL PAY RAISE

10 Per Cent Increase Benefits Thousands In District

Good news that their pay will be increased 10 per cent, effective Monday, was received today by many thousands of steel workers in the Pittsburgh district and other steel centers.

Both the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation and the National Steel Corporation announced they would put the increase into effect.

While there was no intimation from the United States Steel Corporation and Bethlehem Steel Corporation whether they would follow the action of other companies, an Associated Press survey of the industry indicated a general 10 per cent increase for the nation's 400,000 steel workers is being planned.

NATIONAL TUBE RAISE

Among the companies increasing wages was the National Tube Company, a United States Steel subsidiary. National Tube officials were unable to say whether their increase indicated the corporation would make a similar boost in the pay envelopes.

While there was no official announcement, according to the Associated Press, officials of the Carnegie Steel Company's plant at Youngstown, O., another United States Steel subsidiary, also received word that wages would be increased April 1.

Other companies announcing increases were the Republic Steel Corporation at Youngstown, third largest in the industry, with 22,000

PAY RAISE SEEN FOR MINERS

By JOHN P. COWAN

Sun-Telegraph Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—A new wage agreement between bituminous operators in the Appalachian field and the United Mine Workers of America providing for a 10 per cent increase was forecast here today.

In their conference at the Hotel Washington both sides expressed themselves as optimistic that a final agreement to the scale would be reached today, but refused to disclose publicly the terms.

Philip Murray, international vice president of the U. M. W. A., during the noon recess of the conference today, said:

"We are working for an increase and expect to reach an agreement today. We have succeeded in smoothing out our difficulties, but I cannot say anything more definite than that we are hopeful of winning our point, and that an agreement amicable to operators and miners will be reached. The new scale will go into effect April 1."

Gasoline Prices Reduced Half-Cent

Gasoline prices in the Pittsburgh district were reduced half a cent today by major marketers. The reduction affects all grades and lowers the price of motor grade to 17 cents a gallon, including taxes, at the service stations.

3 TOMS CASE GOES TO JURY

No, Sir, They Didn't Run Monaca Club, Trio Tells Court

By WILLIAM PFARR

Once upon a time there was a place called the Monaca Club, where, if you were so minded, you could get "biffed up" and lose all your dough.

Now some narrow-minded persons got the impression that this place was conducted by the Three Toms.

And this impression was all wrong. Yes!

The Three Toms said so today in Criminal Court. They told this story, and they stuck to it:

Tom Dolan did have 50 per cent of the bar, but he had nothing to do with the gambling end.

Tom Coyne, the Senator's brother, moved by the hunger of the masses, ran a soup kitchen in the front of the Oakland spot and occasionally dropped in, but never cut in on the Monaca.

ONLY SOLD GINGER ALE

And big-hearted Tom (Goose) Goslin only sold ginger ale to the club and now and then bought a beer or gave the boys a play in the gambling room.

Oh, yes—the Goose took the rubber band off the bankroll a few times and loaned Dolan a total of $650.

The case went to the jury at 2:28 p. m. after a short charge by Judge Thomas M. Marshall.

Dolan was quite safe in admitting that he had a chunk of the bar, for the liquor charge against the Three Toms has been repealed. And there only remains the gambling rap.

Mr. Dolan said that before he entered the speakeasy business he was a salesman for an incubator company in Cleveland, the city of incubators.

TOOK THE RAP

He said that Patrick Haley was the big boss—owned the gambling end and the other half of the bar. Mr. Haley, you remember, last year took the rap as the proprietor, along with a half-dozen wait-

Hepburn Sails; Ends Paris Visit Abruptly

HAVRE, France, March 28.—(INS.)—Katharine Hepburn, American stage and screen star, who arrived in France Monday aboard the liner Paris, sailed for the United States today aboard the same vessel after she had checked out of her Paris hotel secretly.

Miss Hepburn, who said she came to France for a rest and had intimated she might go to the Riviera, gave no reason for her sudden return to the United States.

Spy Couple Denied Provisional Liberty

PARIS, March 28.—(INS.)—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon Switz, young Americans held as members of an international espionage ring, were denied their provisional liberty today.

$1,500,000 Left By Poet's 'Allegra'

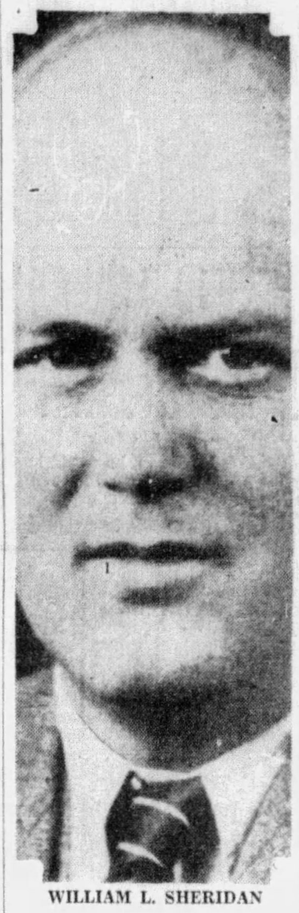
Killed in Crash



WILLIAM L. SHERIDAN

VETERANS' AIDE DIES IN CRASH

William L. Sheridan, 32, of 313 Kenmont avenue, Mt. Lebanon, assistant chief attorney in the Pittsburgh office of the United States Veterans' Administration, was instantly killed when his automobile collided with a Mt. Lebanon street car at West Liberty avenue and Saranac street early today.

Police and railways company officials said his car struck the front of the inbound trolley, the impact throwing him to the street. He was dead on arrival at South Side Hospital.

Sheridan was driving home at the time.

A native of Erie, Mr. Sheridan was graduated from Georgetown University in 1924. He located at Pittsburgh in 1925 and had been assistant chief attorney since 1928. Formerly he was secretary to Ex-Congressman Milton Shreve, of Erie.

2ND DEFEAT HINTED FOR ROOSEVELT

BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—(INS.)—Battered under a terrific barrage of propaganda and influence, the Senate this afternoon was ready to follow the House in overriding President Roosevelt's veto of the bill liberalizing government pay and veterans' benefits.

A poll by International News Service revealed a minimum of 65 votes to enact the bill into law over the President's disapproval. But 64 votes were necessary to beat the veto.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—(AP.)—In a tense atmosphere, the Senate today debated President Roosevelt's veto of the veterans-federal pay bill with factional leaders predicting a close vote on a motion to override.

Atwo-thirds majority of those answering the roll call is required to pass the independent offices bill over the veto.

The House yesterday overrode the veto by a 310-to-72 vote.

Administration leaders, who worked until midnight marshaling their fullest strength, looked for a narrow margin victory for the President, but Republicans expected to vote almost solidly to override.

Galleries overflowed with spectators including scores of government employes and several American Legion and Spanish War Veterans' representatives. Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth and many Senators' wives sat in the private gallery.

PLEA FOR ROOSEVELT

During the heat of debate, Senator Robinson, the Democratic Leader, attempted to rally administration forces to uphold the President's eto with an assertion that the government should not discriminate against a citizen because he did not wear a uniform.

The Democratic chieftain followed Senator Cutting (Rep.), of

Cleveland Seeks Poll To Avoid Bankruptcy

International News Service.

CLEVELAND, O., March 28.—Ohio' larget city, awakening from itt first night under the new economy order, during which nearly every other street light in the city was out, today saw a possibility of saving its tottering financial structure by a special election to decide whether or not to issue $5,500,000 in deficiency bonds.

Way for the special election was believed paved by an act of the Ohio Legislature which approved the so-called deficiency bond bill. When Gov. George White signs the measure, Mayor Harry L. Davis, former Ohio Governor, will call for a special session of City Council.

The latter, in turn, will pass an ordinance authorizing the election and a copy will be served on Secretary of State George Myers, who will fix the date for the balloting. It then will be squarely before the people of the city to decide whether the municipality in which they live shall survive financially.

Because of the large deficit in the budget, drastic economies were put into effect yesterday and last night. The fact that nearly every other one of the city's 23,000 street lights was disconnected gave the illusion that a fog had settled over the city.

Although, according to police, the dim lighting created a potential crime hazard by making operations of footpads and stickup artists somewhat safer, no increase in holdups was reported.

The new economy order cut a total of 548 persons from the city payroll and reduced the working hours of more than 1,100 other employes.

AIR LINES LINKED TO FRAUD BANNED IN NEW CONTRACTS

SPEED RETURN TO PRIVATE OPERATOR

Farley Ready to Ask Bids; Pittsburgh on Proposed Routes

WASHINGTON, March 28.—(AP.)—Temporary contracts with commercial air lines to transport air mail for three months will be let within the next three weeks.

Postmaster General Farley made the announcement today following conferences yesterday with President Roosevelt.

It was said bids would be invited for temporary service over 15 routes, including:

Washington, Pittsburgh, Akron, Cleveland to Detroit—450 miles.

FARLEY'S DECISION

Farley said "no air mail company whose contract has been annulled for fraud and collusion may bid for a temporary contract."

He also barred any company which "has as any of its officers ctors any person who has into or proposed to enter ty combination to prevent aking of competitive bids for carrying the mail, or has made any agreement or given or performed or promised to give or perform any consideration whatever to indu e any other person not to bid for any other mail contract."

Advertisements for bids will be sent out within the next day or two. The bids are to be submitted within 15 days. Successful bidders will be required to start operation within 30 days after obtaining contracts.

AWAIT LEGISLATION

The airmail has been transported for several weeks by the Army following cancellation of contracts with private companies. The temporary contracts will be employed pending enactment of permanent airmail legislation.

Farley said "bids will be invited under the existing law which authorizes the Postmaster General to make temporary contracts for carrying the mails. He added:

"The advertisement will specify the route upon which bids will be asked and, under the law, the bidder will not be permitted to bid a higher rate than was being paid for air mail service over the route when the air mail contracts were cancelled."

SENATE HASTENS BILL

Chairman McKellar of the Senate Postoffice Committee meanwhile said virtual agreement had been reached for approval of the revised administration permanent air mail bill, and that he hoped to report it out today.

No substantial changes have been made by the committee, he said, with the exception of approving an amendment by Senator LaFollette (Rep.), of Wisconsin, which would eliminate subsidies after four years, the mail rates thenceforward to be fixed by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

COUNTY AIRPORT TO SERVE ARMY

Rodgers Field will be abandoned as the United States Army airport and its hangars moved to the new County Airport, the County Commissioners ruled yesterday.

The Rodgers Field lease with the Army was ordered cancelled and a new one drawn with the War Department, allowing this federal branch to use the new field for 10 years at $1 a year.

And at the same time, the new high speed airliners of the TWA lines were voted free landing on the County Airport for 30 days, after a plea of the company for this privilege to see if a new fast service to New York—one hour and 40 minutes—becomes popular.

McGovern supported Commissioner William D. Mansfield in giving the concern the concession after he had objected, stating the aviation companies no longer are pioneers, but are purely commercial companies. McGovern added:

"And what they published in the newspapers about them is not one-two-three of what I know."

destination is Yemen, he would be most likely to land at Hodeia, a Red Sea port of Yahia's kingdom.

The overland route from Djeddah is cut off by the fighting which is centered at Asir in the frontier region.

Reports emanating from the Saudi delegation in Cairo says 130 fighters were killed in the first clash between Saudi forces and the Yemenites.

Imam Yahia has 10,000 well-trained troops and is said to be immensely rich; Ibn Saud depends mostly on his fierce tribal warriors and is, reputedly, in poor financial condition.

BOUND FOR RUMANIA!

BUCHAREST, March 28.—(AP.)—New expectations that Samuel Insull, Sr., now reported proceeding by ship through the Bosporus, might be permitted to land on Rumanian soil, were aroused here today by a mysterious change in the attitude of the Rumanian government.

While, heretofore, a petition of Insull's attorneys had been flatly rejected and precautions had been taken to prevent him landing at a Rumanian port, vigilance was relaxed this afternoon and, in semi-official quarters, it was explained that there "is no extradition treaty with the United States."

The American legation has made no contact with the government in connection with Insull since the SS Maiotis, aboard which Insull is reported traveling, passed through the Dardanelles this morning.

Martin Insull Ordered Deported After Trial

International News Service.

DETROIT, March 28.—Martin J. Insull, the man who once controlled a $40,000,000 business empire, today was adjudged an undesirable alien "likely to become a public charge."

Immigration authorities here issued an order for his deportation to take effect as soon as his pending prosecution on a fraud charge in Chicago is over.

He may remain in America only until he is acquitted or completes whatever punishment may follow possible conviction.

Insull is the brother and business partner of Samuel Insull, who fled to Greece after the collapse of the vast Insull utility interests and is now roaming about the high seas in a chartered ship, a veritable "man without a country."

Martin Insull was seized by immigration officers while enroute to Chicago in custody of two Illinois officers armed with a presidential warrant. At 3 a. m. the Federal agents boarded the Michigan Central train on which Insull and the officers had arrived from Toronto, hauled the protesting prisoner from his berth and placed him under technical arrest for entering the United States without a proper passport visa.

Worn, haggard and suffering from lack of sleep, Insull was taken from the train to a room at a downtown hotel and later to the dingy headquarters of the Immigration Department.

Grizzled, worried and blinking nervously behind his horn-rimmed glasses, the one time master of finance waited patiently on the same battered wooden benches where so many less important aliens have waited to hear their fate. For nearly an hour he waited while a board of inquiry deliberated behind closed doors.

It was nearly 10 a. m. when the board voted to exclude him from permanent residence in the United States.

ers, and served time in the County Jail.

Dolan explained the arrangement this way:

"We'd been fooling around in politics and Haley asked me one day if I wanted to go in there."

And he used the name Howard Johnson, in buying furniture for the spot, because he understood that was the name signed on the rental lease, he said.

Attorney A. M. Oliver, who, with Attorneys John Duggan, Jr., and A. Lincoln Cohen, are defending the three, flatly admitted in opening to the jury there had been a booze violation. But as to Coyne's connection:

"Coyne will tell you he never had anything to do with the place. There were a lot of people that winter who didn't have anything to eat. And Coyne was running a soup kitchen in the front end of this building."

WAVE OF SYMPATHY

A wave of sympathy was stirred for Dolan when he testified that he had never made any money in the joint. With a mild sigh he testified:

"I don't know of any big nights we had, other than what the papers said."

Coyne testified he had to go into the Monaca Club basement because his gas was on the same meter. He said he never "hung around" the club much because he was "too busy."

On cross-examination, Prosecutor Earle R. Jackson asked Dolan about an account book which listed amounts owed the spot by customers—and also listed certain figures under these three headings:

"T. D."
"T. G."
"T. C."

Dolan said the first two sets of initials were his and Goslin's, but the third set—why, he didn't know what that meant.

In fact, he criticized, that last letter didn't look much like the letter C to him.

ERSKINE TO PEN FOSTER OPERA

NEW YORK, March 28.—(AP.)—Another new American opera has been commissioned, this one privately.

Strictly speaking, it is not grand opera, but opera comique. And it will deal with the life of Stephen C. Foster.

John Erskine, whose latest operatic adventure was the book for "Helen Retires," music by George Antheil, has agreed to furnish the book.

The venture is to be entirely American in production, cast and "slant," declares Charles L. Wagner, who has commissioned the work. Although the entire cast will not be chosen until after the work is complete, the Foster is to be John Charles Thomas, the American baritone.

The plan is to open the opera in Pittsburgh, where a new Stephen Foster memorial building is being constructed, next spring.

LUCE CHARGES 'MISHANDLING' OF BANK BILL

Administration Hit For 'Superseding' Congress

WASHINGTON, March 28.—(AP.)—The administration was taken to task before a House Banking and Currency Sub-Committee yesterday for what Representative Luce (Rep.), of Massachusetts, asserted was its failure to carry out the intent of Congress in the Glass-Steagall banking act of 1933.

J. F. T. O'Connor, Comptroller of the Currency, and E. G. Bennett, a director of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, who appeared to testify on the McLeod bill to pay depositors in closed national banks, were questioned by Luce, who asked why liquidation had not been more effective.

Maintaining it was the purpose of Congress that all banks insolvent at the time the act was passed, as well as those that became insolvent afterwards come under the scope of the bill, Luce demanded to know why it had not been done.

HELD OPPOSITE VIEW

O'Connor insisted it was his interpretation that this act applied only to those becoming insolvent subsequently.

Luce said sharply:

"I have studied this act very closely, and I am unable to find the slightest reason why there should be any misunderstanding. I am sure every member of Congress thought this bill clearly provided for them all."

O'Connor retorted:

"Where would the money come from?"

O'Connor contended the act did not provide adequate funds for such a program, but covered only those institutions to come under the insurance feature.

"Well, why didn't you tell Congress so? You must have known that was what Congress intended to do. We have been greatly disturbed, not so much because our will has not been carried out, but because the intent has been entirely disregarded."

DESCRIBES PROGRAM

Bennett, questioned by Luce, described establishment of the Deposit Liquidation Board, which he said was intended to carry out the liquidation of closed banks.

This drew another sharp retort from Luce, who said:

"You have just referred to what is one of the most dangerous things that could happen—to have government departments supersede the direction of the law-making body of the United States."

A. Mittchell Palmer, Attorney General in the Wilson administration, appearing for the second time in support of the McLeod bill, asserted a payment is the moral obligation of the government because "it told the banks not to tell the truth" about its bonds values.

PALMER TAKES ISSUE

Taking issue with O'Connor that for the government to assume the responsibility "would be hazardous" because it would "establish a precedent," the former Attorney General said:

"That leads to the very strongest argument in favor of this payment. After the government insisted that banks have adequate reserves, these reserves were put into the market, many of them in securities on the New York Stock Exchange.

"The smash came and values faded away. The government told the banks that they should not tell the truth about their bond values.

House Vet Veto Blow Cheers Legion Chief

SCRANTON, Pa., March 28.—(AP.)—Edward A. Hayes, national commander of the American Legion, last night expressed hope that the United States Senate also will override the President's veto of the veterans' relief bill.

He expressed himself as being happy that the House of Representatives had disregarded the President's action in vetoing the bill.

Body of Man Killed In Span Leap Found

Recovery of the body of a man who leaped off the Duquesne-McKeesport Bridge Monday was reported today to the Coroner's office by McKeesport police. The body was identified as that of William Johns, 30, of 1700 Abraham street, according to the police.

Senate in Hot Battle To Override Roosevelt Veto of Vet Pay Boost

New Mexico, who urged the Senate to override the veto.

To packed galleries listening to the debate, fully realizing that the verdict hung upon a few votes, Robinson shouted:

"Every citizen is expected to yield his service to his country when it is imperiled.

"One who went to a concentration camp to prepare for service at the front is not to be discriminated against, but is not to get any privilege denied to any other citizen who did his part but did not wear a uniform."

CONFLICT OF VIEW

Robinson said the issue presented a conflict of view "that cannot be acounted for solely on the ground of sympathy for or lack of sympathy for the veterans." He added:

"It is not just, as some have attempted to do, to place the President in the attitude of not comprehending, or of failing to demonstrate a sense of justice or of patriotic recognition of the gallantry of those who have worn our uniform."

Cutting contended Senators voting to uphold the veto could not justify that attitude in view of their previous votes, but Robinson took sharp issue with this view.

He said some had voted for the House amendments previously believing they were better than the more liberal benefits of the Senate, but they were not "stopped from voting to sustain the veto."

CUTTING BEGINS DEBATE

Senator Cutting, New Mexico's Republican Independent and a veterans' leader who supported Mr. Roosevelt for the presidency, began the debate with a plea to override the veto. He said:

"It has been apparent since the economy act was passed that justice for the disabled ex-service men could be obtained only by a two-thirds vote in both houses. This is the test vote."

The Senator expressed hope he would not be accused of partisan politics in opposing the President, asserting he had supported as many Democrats as Republicans during his 25 years in politics.

He also recalled he had supported the election of President Roosevelt, adding:

"I have no apologies to offer for that position. I would do so againfi, if I had the chance. I hope to maintain in the future the personal friendship with the President which has been my privilege for the past 40 years."

Senator Costigan (Dem.), of Colorado, intervened to say:

"President Roosevelt's leadership is not involved. As Chief Executive he is doing his duty as he sees it."

Cutting agreed with Costigan and added he realized a President did not have time to study all the details involved in the message.

DOUGLAS ATTACKED

Cutting criticized the action of Lewis W. Douglas, director of the budget, for what he termed Douglas' opposition to making the presumptive period for determining service origin for injuries and diseases five years.

He said Douglas, when a member of the House, voted to override President Hoover's veto of a veterans' bill extending this period to 10 years. Cutting asked:

"How in the world can there be any consistency in the action of anybody who now comes before us and says five years is too much?"

ROBINSON ANSWERS

Robinson challenged what he called an effort by Cutting to "belittle" the distinction between recurring and non-recurring appropriations.

Recalling the condition of the country a few months ago, he said it was a question then of whether the resources of the country should be commandeered for the needy.

But no one contemplated, he added, that these extraordinary expenditures should be continued indefinitely. He said:

"If business is revived, these emergency relief expenditures will be discontinued. While we ought not to refuse to make just appropriations in order to do justice to the veterans, we are under no obligation to pursue a course that will fasten on the Treasury an expenditure that isn't just and required by sound reasoning."

Robinson said it had been his hope that a compromise would be worked out, but that was found to be impossible.

He added that the President had restored thousands of World War and Spanish War veterans to the rolls pending review and described this as "evidence that he wants to work this out justly."

Senator McCarran (Dem.), of Nevada, breathing heavily, entered the chamber while Robinson was speaking. He had come by airplane from New York to be on hand for the vote.

'HOUSE GONE WILD'

"The House must have gone wild."

This was the way one Democratic Senator described the 310-to-72 vote which over-rode the veto in that branch.

SPEED ADJOURNMENT

On a roll call late yesterday the administration mustered 48 for an adjournment to prevent Senate action on the veto message immediately after it was received from the House. Senator Robinson, the majority leader, conceded some of those favoring putting off the decision until today would vote to override the President.

He figured the vote represented a desire for more orderly procedure.

Thirty-four Senators voted against the adjournment, which was fought by Senators Clark (Dem.), of Missouri, and Long (Dem.), of Louisiana.

Clark charged Robinson wanted time to "reform his lines overnight," but the Democratic leader later predicted to newspapermen that not a vote would be changed by the delay. Nevertheless, American Legion and other representatives were active overnight in a search for ballots.

PARTY LINES DOWN

Two hundred and nine Democrats joined 97 Republicans and four Farmer-Labor members in voting in the House to override the veto. Of the President's 72 supporters, 70 were Democrats and two Republicans.

Said Representative Snell, of New York, Republican leader:

In overriding the veto, the House stood pat on the bill, which calls for permanent restoration to the rolls of 29,000 World War veterans whose disabilities were presumed to have had service origin before the Economy Act. They would get 75 per cent of their former compensation.

It also provides for restoring thousands of Spanish-American War veterans who were eliminated from the rolls because they could not prove their injuries were connected with the service. They also would get 75 per cent of their former pay.

POINT OF ISSUE

President Roosevelt, in his veto message, strenuously objected to the permanent angles of these provisions. He forthwith issued regulations restoring both classes of veterans at 75 per cent—the figure named in the bill—but requiring that their cases be reviewed by the Veterans' Board of Appeals. If disabilities are proved to be non-service connected they would be dropped.

This is the main point at issue between Congress and the President. The latter held out for temporary restoration pending review as against the Senate and House decision for permanent restoration without review.

Dunn, Kelly, Muldowney Vote to Upset Veteran Veto

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Three of Allegheny County's five representatives in the House yesterday voted to over-ride President Roosevelt's veto on increased aid to veterans and higher federal wages. Representatives Dunn, Democrat, Kelly, Republican, and Muldowney, Republican, voted to over-ride, with Representative Brooks, Democrat, alone from this county, supporting the veto.

FISH JOINS IN 'BRAINS' RAP

WASHINGTON, March 28.—(AP.)—A statement that President Roosevelt had established a new form of government was made today in the House by Representative Fish (Rep.), New York, in opposing the administration's reciprocal tariff bill. He called them:

"A kitchen cabinet of professors, radicals and near-socialists."

Following Representative Connery (Dem.), Massachusetts, the first Democrat to speak in opposition to the proposal, Fish said:

"Mr. Roosevelt leans but little on his cabinet or Congress, but on his kitchen cabinet, many of whom are admirers of the system of government in Soviet Russia and are bending their efforts and energies to bring about an approach to that system in America."

New Bonus March Agitated by Reds

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 28.—(AP.)—Plans for a proposed new "bonus march" to Washington, D. C., next week were announced today by Edward Weiman and William Barnett, Communist party officials.

They informed city and police officials "approximately 3,000" men would convene here over the week-end for a three-day convention preparatory to the proposed march.

HOUSE TO PROBE 'BRAIN TRUST' PLOT STORY

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Administration leaders of the House, in conference today, approved the Bulwinkle resolution for investigation of Dr. William A. Wirt's statement that "brain trusters" revealed to him a plan to overthrow the present social order.

The conference was held after the House Rules Committee had granted Representative Bulwinkle (Dem.), of North Carolina, a hearing on his resolution.

Acting Chairman O'Connor (Dem.), of New York, of the Rules Committee, said the resolution probably will be reported for passage tomorrow.

BROAD INQUIRY URGED

Oposing Democratic plans to restrict an investigation of Dr. Wirt's charges, Republican members of the committee had demanded a broad inquiry into all charges of extreme radicalism in the government.

Bulwinkle said he proposed to require the Gary educator to name the "brain trusters" to whom Wirt said he talked last summer and who told him of a plan to overthrow the government and ultimately to supplant President Roosevelt.

If Wirt named men in the administration, Bulwinkle added, they would be called by the committee. He said:

"If there are any such men in the government, this Congress should know it and then get rid of them."

'FLOWING BOWL TALK'

Representative O'Connor (Dem.), of New York, said:

"The story is going around that this happened at a dinner party and in the talk around the flowing bowl about what we are doing and will do in the future, the statements were made."

Representative Mapes (Rep.), of Michigan, said:

"But they are supposed to be in the government."

The declaration of Representative Foulkes (Dem.), of Michigan, that Dr. Wirt's information came from administration men who had engaged in a cocktail party is the only clue to the identity of the individuals.

Foulkes, who did not include Dr. Wirt among the "party," declined to say whether the alleged "brain trusters" were important figures in the government.

Another Democrat, who declined to permit his name to be used, said that it was rumored that some members of the administration made the statements referred to by Dr. Wirt while under the influence of liquor.

ASYLUM LIKELY FOR HEX KILLER

International News Service.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., March 28.—Albert Shinsky, 24-year-old "hex" slayer, apparently will escape the electric chair for the killing of Mrs. Susan Mummey, 64, a widow who he believed had "hexed" or bewitched him.

That was conceded today as District Attorney L. E. Enterline presented a petition to Judge Henry Houck in the Schuylkill County Court asking for the appointment of a lunacy commission to examine Shinsky.

It was believed in court circles here his confinement to the State Hospital for the Criminal Insane at Fairview, near Scranton, was now only a matter of course.

Whether he be declared sane or insane, she has announced she will "stick" by him.

Should Shinsky be found sane by the commission, which the court is expected to appoint tomorrow, he will be called for trial at the May term.

Byrd Settles in Shack For 8 Months Winter

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, March 28.—(AP.)—Via Mackay Radio)—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd put the final touches today on a little shack where he will spend eight months with a battery of thermometers for company.

It's all in the name of science. Alone in this tiny portable house at a winter advance base 123 miles south of Little America, he plans to study Antarctic meterological phenomena until the end of Oc-

e will be perils aplenty e cold, depressing darkness, storms. Yet, said Byrd as he departed by plane:

"I hope no one will make anything of what I am about to do. I am making no sacrifice of any kind."

He urged the 55 men at Little America not to become concerned should his radio fail. After all he smiled:

"I am not a radio operator, so the radio will probably fail."

In his absence, the men at Little America will be under command of Dr. Thomas C. Poulter, senior scientist.

Soon, with his shack sunk below the snow surface, all but the wireless antenna, the spinning wind-meter cups and the silver weather vane will be covered.

"Please explain to the other men that I have not said goodbye to them individually because I never say goodbye."

Silver Fight Renewed Before Senate Group

WASHINGTON, March 28.—(AP.)—A charge that the gold disease is "wrecking civilization" was made before the Senate Agriculture Committee today by Representative Fiesinger (Dem.), of Ohio.

Fiesinger, who appeared to explain his bill for government purchase of silver, said gold must be given competition in purchasing power "by bringing silver into the picture."

He said the object of his measure is to bring back the purchasing power of gold to the 1926 price level and establish a purchasing power for a given weight of gold in terms of commodities. He said:

"The reason gold does not have a normal purchasing power is because of the extreme demand on gold. We can not find enough new gold to remove this demand."

The Ohioan told the committee that silver would be used as a gold equivalent under his bill by taking silver into the monetary system on a basis of its value in the world markets.

He told the committee that every time it appeared something might be done for silver, the country is flooded with opposition propaganda of organizations making tremendous profits now through cheap labor in other countries, because of the low price of silver.

Senator Wheeler (Dem.), of Montana, member of the committee, said the situation has resulted in tremendous profits for manufacturers in other countries while factories and mills in this nation stand idle. The Senator said:

"I doubt if there is sufficient silver in the world to go as far as I would like to see us go in this matter."

ACCUSED CITY DETECTIVE ADMITS KEEPING DIAMOND

FELLOW SLEUTH AND LAWYER LINKED

3 Face Further Hearing In Plot Charged By Ex-Officer

City Detective Edward McEntee admitted keeping the most valuable diamond of seven gems taken in a holdup, Capt. Anthony Block testified in North Side Police Court today.

McEntee was held over by Magistrate Howard B. McNutt until Saturday when McEntee and two others accused along with him of compounding a felony will be given further hearings. They are Attorney Albert A. Martin, of the Plaza Building, and City Detective James McCoy.

McEntee did not testify at today's brief hearing. He is at liberty under $2,500 bail.

After a lengthy questioning yesterday by Precinct Detective Frank Dodson in the presence of Police Supt. Ben R. Marshall, Detective Inspector Louis Leff and Capt. Block, McEntee admitted keeping the pin and having the diamond removed from it and set in his ring and the diamond from the latter placed in the pin, police said. McEntee kept it only because he did not know from whom it had been stolen, he is said to have told them.

AMONG THE LOOT

The stickpin was among the jewelry valued at $600 taken from Louis Seibert, of 1672 Perrysville avenue, in a stickup February 15, police say.

'MYSTERY MAN'

According to White, he had bought the holdup loot unknowingly from a man who came to his club. He later admitted to McEntee and McCoy, who were investigating the holdup, that he had bought the stuff. White was held for court charged with receiving stolen goods.

Skeptical of White's story, North Side police questioned him further. He then admitted, police said, that "Carney" was a myth and that the name had been suggested to him by McEntee.

Magee, Kane in Clash Over Proposed Police Quiz

Following a clash over how Councilman John J. Kane's proposed police probe should be conducted, Councilmen are all going to get a chance to present their plans for an ideal investigation Tuesday.

Kane's bill to form a police investigation committee was laid over yesterday.

Stating that it was not broad enough in scope and did not provide a basis for technical reform, Councilman William A. Magee led the opposition to the form of Kane's measure.

KANE GIVES GROUND

As proposed, the bill would create a Police Research Commission of five members to investigate police affairs, and recommend to Council appropriate measures to correct evils and abuses.

Kane, however, in the face of an attack by Magee, repeatedly declared he did not care about any particular provisions or form in the ordinance. His whole concern, he stated, was that Council approve the principle and adopt some method to carry it through.

COUNCILMEN CLASH

Kane said it was his intention that every phase of the police department be covered. Magee objected that under the proposed set-up it couldn't be done.

Bitterness on the part of Magee and Councilman Charles Anderson over the appointment of Edward A. Schofield as budget controller cropped up frequently in the discussion. Magee said money that could have been used on this commission had been thrown away on Schofield.

Anderson wanted to know if Schofield couldn't make the investigation and voted against laying the motion over because he hadn't been consulted about the appointment.

Fatal Auto Crash Probed by Coroner

Following an autopsy on the body of Joseph R. Maurer, 47, of O'Brien street, Millvale, who died today in St. Francis Hospital, Harry Hawthorne, of 807 Lilac street, Pittsburgh, was ordered to post bond pending an inquest in connection with an automobile accident.

Maurer was struck by an automobile at North avenue and John street, Millvale, February 24. Hawthorne was alleged to have been the driver.

Officer Must Explain Wild Taxi Excursion

Driver Says Warnock, Drunk, Held 3 At Bay

William Warnock, a "Peck's Bad Boy" of the police department, will have to tell the Police Trial Board all about the wild taxi ride he is alleged to have forced three persons to take at the point of his revolver. Warnock who was in uniform and on duty at the time, is alleged to have been drunk.

Technically Warnock, a subpatrolman is reported to have commandeered the taxicab last Saturday night and is cited for conduct unbecoming an officer and being under the influence of liquor while on duty.

His superiors say they have been told that he poked his revolver into the ribs of Emil Nedobylek, cab driver, and for 30 minutes held him and two passengers, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Tolusciak, virtually prisoners.

POLICE HALT RIDE

Warnock was suspended by Lieut. William Lilliburne when he was taken to the Lawrenceville Police Station late after railroad police ended his taxi ride in the traffic circle of the Pennsylvania Station.

Mrs. Tolusciak ordered Driver Nedobylek to stop his cab at Bigelow boulevard and Herron avenue while she talked with a friend. Warnock walked over to the driver, drew his gun and got into the cab, police were told.

When Mrs. Tolusciak reentered the cab, Warnock is reported to have objected to her going to meet her husband at 3055 Brereton avenue. He consented later but refused to leave the machine.

DRIVER ESCAPES

Warnock's aversion to going places allegedly returned later when Edward Tolusciak got into the cab, and the patrolman is reported to have pressed his gun into the driver's side and refused to let the cab move for half an hour.

Then he relented and ordered the driver to Center avenue Police Station. En route he changed his mind and ordered the cab to Central Station.

ESCAPES CAPTOR

Driver Nedobylek instead drove the cab to the traffic circle at the Pennsylvania Railroad Station, ignored Warnock's revolver and jumped out of the cab and summoned railroad police who took Warnock to Central Station. He was later turned over to Lieut. Lilliburne at the Lawrenceville station. The driver and passengers were told to appear at the Police Trial Board hearing next Wednesday.

Swift Heiress Elopes With Young Broker

CHICAGO, March 28.—(AP.)—Their runaway marriage forgiven by the bride's parents, Geraldine Swift, 22-year-old daughter of Gustavus F. Swift, packing house president, and her husband, Albert Thomas Taylor, 26, brokerage employe, were honeymooning today somewhere in Chicago.

Taylor's father, official of the Stratton Grain Company, St. Joseph, Mo., said he had been informed of the elopement by telegram and that the couple had returne:' to Chicago.

The bride was educated at Florence, Italy, and made her debut in November, 1930.

SLEUTH KILLS MAN ACCUSED AS BANDIT

Three Other Negroes Nabbed After Kremer Protects Father

The deadly aim of a newly appointed city detective had sent one accused robber to the morgue today and led to the arrest of three others in an attempted holdup of a Hill district store owned by the policeman's father.

The slayer of the supposed bandit is Detective Edmund Kremer. He was in his father's store at 2117 Rose street last night when four Negro robbers entered and opened fire on William Kremer, his 73-year-old father. The detective fired back, his bullets felling one of the robbers and routing the other three.

A short time later, Homicide Detective Frank Morgan arrested Chester Robinson, 21, Negro, of 133 Elm street, who, police said, confessed he was a companion of the slain man. Robinson implicated two others, Rupert Welsh, 20, and Edward Clark, 30, who were seized.

The slain suspect was identified as Henry Perry, alias Nardeaux. The police said Simpson confessed a series of other robberies and led police on a tour of the Hill district, pointing out the places they had robbed. Three more arrests are to follow, Detective Morgan said.

Detective Kremer, turned over to Coroner W. J. McGregor following the shooting, was released on his own recognizance pending an inquest.

In telling of the shooting, his father said:

FATHER'S STORY

"One of the men walked in alone and asked for some candy. While I packed it in a bag, several other men walked in. The man who asked for the candy walked to the back to see who was in the back room. Then he returned and pointed a revolver at me. I ducked behind the counter and he fired at me. The bullet went through the floor."

Detective Kremer, who lives with his father, was in the kitchen in the rear of the store at the time. To his wife, Mamie, the newly-appointed sleuth had remarked that the men looked suspicious. He had seen them enter. When he heard the first shot he rushed into the store.

His wife related:

"Ed ran into the store when he heard the shot. As he opened the screen door, the man began to fire at him. Ed started to shoot, too, and hit one. Then the men who were with him ran out. The man who was shot staggered out."

Police found the dead man in the street, about 75 feet from the store, with a revolver near his left hand.

EGG ROLL PARTY TO BE GUARDED

Preparations for the safety of the children attending Mayor McNair's Easter egg party in Schenley Park Monday were announced today by the Mayor's office.

Benches will be provided at the park band stand and the adjoining roadway will be roped so that the ground may be used exclusively for the children.

The Mayor will be present to greet the children and plans to autograph as many eggs as possible. There will be no speeches.

The party is patterned after the White House Easter egg roll in Washington. A program of music by a Civil Works Administration band and other amusements are planned for the event.

Damages Refused Automobile 'Necker'

MANSFIELD, O., March 28.—(AP.)—A woman who permits a man to drive an automobile with one arm around her is guilty of contributory negligence and can't collect damages if an accident results, Judge C. H. Huston had ruled today.

The court issued instructions for a directed verdict when testimony revealed that Ralph Lomax, from whom Ruth Stuff asked $25,000 as a result of injuries received in a collision, had one arm around Miss Stuff when the accident happened.

High pressure, central over the lakes (Detroit, 30.58), overlies the central valleys, and another high covers the Canadian Northwest (Prince Albert, Sask., 30.74), and disturbances are central off the North Carolina coast (Hatteras, 30.00), off the North Pacific coast (Seattle, Wash., 29.71), and over Wyoming (Yellowstone Park, 29.84). Rains or snows continue this morning from New England southward over North Carolina, and it is snowing over the Northern Rocky Mountains and Southern Alberta; elsewhere weather is generally fair. It is colder over the states east of the Mississippi, Montana and the Canadian Northwest, and warmer over the Upper Mississippi Valley, the plains and the central and Southern Rock Mountains.

River Conditions.

Rainfall was moderately heavy over the Monongahela River yesterday, and moderately heavy amounts fell over portions of the Allegheny basin. The rivers are rising throughout the district. Stage at Franklin is 5.1 feet. Lock No. 7 (Monongahela) 22.8; Pittsburgh 16.5. Dam No. 4 12.5, No. 6, 14.1; No. 10, 13.9, and No. 12, 14.8. The dams are down. The rivers will continue to rise. Between 18.0 and 18.5-foot stage indicated at Pittsburgh by about 10 o'clock tonight.

PRESIDENT LEAVING WASHINGTON BY TRAIN LAST NIGHT

ROOSEVELT OFF FOR SEA TRIP

The familiar white yacht Nourmahal, of Vincent Astor, weighed anchor at 10:20 and pointed down the St. John's River for the ocean.

Standing by the rail, Mr. Roosevelt waved his hat in response to a rousing farewell from a crowd on the dock. His eldest son, James, was by his side.

A glance at the morning papers was as close as the President came to attention to national affairs before starting out. Mr. Roosevelt's jaw stuck out when mention was made of the House vote over-riding his veto of the veterans' pay bill, but he declined any comment upon it.

Listening to Nila Explains Gandhi's Failure to Eat

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

We met a celebrity yesterday who really knows how to talk to newspapermen. She's intelligent, too.

Her name is Nila Cram Cook. She called one of our reporters an Apollo and then married a sailor.

She was handmaiden to Gandhi in India. We were hoping that she would tell us how we could get the government contract for the Mahatma's uniforms.

We didn't understand much of her language. It was all about starlight on the water, roses growing on hat racks and sunshine in paper bags.

If that's the way they talked around Gandhi we know why the old boy wouldn't eat food. He was busy stuffing it in his ears.

MRS. ROOSEVELT BUYS NEW GARB

NEW YORK, March 28.—(AP.)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt made a hurried visit to New York yesterday to do some Easter shopping. She returned to Washington last night.

It was said that Mrs. Roosevelt will wear for Easter the same Eleanor blue used in her inauguration outfits.

One ensemble she bought was described as navy blue pin-dotted wool with swagger coat, etched with quilted scallops and lined with the same Eleanor blue crepe as that of the silk blouse. It includes also a navy blue, medium brim hat of fine baku, trimmed with inserts of belting ribbon of the same color, and a handbag of woolen to match the suit.

A second ensemble included a suit of light blue mossy crepe with a feather print design of black and a long yoked cape of black, lined with the same material as the dress. An under-arm bag of initialed ringpig and a hat of black straw, tricorn with taffeta petals, completes the outfit.

WILL REWARDS KINDNESS OF NEIGHBOR

'Next-Door Samaritan' Gets Lion's Share Of $8,000 Estate

An active adherence to the Old Testament charge, "Love thy neighbor as thyself," today brought an early reward to Mrs. Loretta Byrnes, whose neighborly kindness to Harry E. Woodside, Hulton road, R. F. D. No. 1, caused him to leave an estate of $8,000 almost entirely to his next door Samaritan.

The estate includes 20 shares of United States Steel Corporation stock, and two shares of First National Bank of Verona stock, his late home and 7¾ acres of land.

GETS OIL INCOME

Woodside's will dictates that the sale of all oil from the Woodside farm accrue to Mrs. Byrnes and that an insurance policy made payable to his aunt, Sarah B. McCalla, be turned over to her, with the statement:

"For caring and nursing my aunt when none of her own relatives would care for her."

Mrs. Byrnes is named executor of the strange will, which likewise provides that she dispose within one year of Woodside's death, of a 15 acre tract of land on which there is a dwelling, and pay to his father, Robert H. Woodside, and his step-brother, Stanley A. Woodside, $300 each within six months after the sale.

LEAVES BROTHER $2

The will reads, in part:

"I request that Mrs. Loretta Byrnes also take care of and keep my dog, 'Pal,' as long as he lives. This will to stand as I have made it, and not to be broken."

Woodside also requested that Mrs. Byrnes visit and put flowers on his grave and the grave of his uncle and aunt at least three times a year.

WOMAN WILLS $64,500

In two short, crisp paragraphs Elisa Gibson left an entire $64,500 estate to her adopted daughter, Dorothy Ann Keith Gibson, 1509 Shady avenue. Miss Gibson was named executor.

Lewis and Harry Lenhart were named executors for the $17,600 estate of their father, George W. Lenhart, the estate to be divided in equal shares between the two sons and a daughter, Mrs. Lucy C. Beggs.

DR. E. S. WALLS FOUND DEAD

Dr. E. Slifer Walls, 51, well known eye and ear specialist with offices in the Highland Building, Penn and Highland avenues, died in his apartment in the Bayard Manor Apartments, Bayard street and North Craig street, early today. He was found on the floor of his living room by Dr. Henry Kitlowski, of 5534 Center avenue, his assistant, who had responded to Dr. Walls' call for aid over the telephone shortly after 1 a. m.

Dr. Kitlowski told morgue attaches that Dr. Walls called him saying he was suffering from indigestion, and asking that he come at once. Unable to gain entrance, he enlisted the aid of the superintendent of the building, forced the door, and found the physician on the floor. Dr. Alexander Caldwell, living nearby, was summoned and pronounced Dr. Walls dead.

Dr. Walls, who was unmarried, was born in Lewisburg, Pa., and had practiced in Pittsburgh 20 years. He was a graduate of Bucknell University and the medical school of the University of Pennsylvania. He leaves his father in Lewisburg; a brother, John Walls, in Baltimore, and a sister in Cornwallis, N. Y.

Council Favors Bill Killing 'S. P.' Charge

A bill repealing the suspicious person ordinance has been affirmatively recommended by Council in Public Safety committee. The ordinance, permitting arrest of persons on suspicion with no specific law violation alledged, has long been under fire as unconstitutional.

Slain Movie Man Named As 'Perfect Lover'

International News Service.

HOLLYWOOD, March 28.—Eric Madison, movie man, who was shot and killed in his apartment, was "a man of many loves," police learned today as they pushed their investigation into the Hollywood murder mystery.

While Madison's beautiful widow, Mrs. Nellie Madison, was held in jail on suspicion of murder, and her counsel declared she had a "perfect defense," detectives heard a pretty film actress, Mary Jane Lee, describe Madison as a "perfect lover."

Police were seeking a "mystery man" who Mrs. Madison said had accompanied her to a store to purchase a pistol Saturday, a few hours before Madison's bullet-riddled body was found. Police declined to reveal the name of the man they sought to question.

A few hours after Madison's body was found, Mrs. Madison was arrested in an isolated mountain cabin into which she had fled in Madison's expensive automobile. She denied she had killed him.

The actress, who under the professional name of Loria Lee, was chosen as a Wampas baby film star in 1926, said that she was engaged to marry Madison two years ago. She said:

"He wooed me with a violin. He played divinely. We were introduced by mutual friends and we fell in love with each other almost immediately.

"Then he came to visit me and I found out much about him. He was awful when he was drinking.

"Finally I decided to break our engagement. He flew into a rage and tried to choke me. Then he went away. That was the last I heard of him."

ROOSEVELT TO REOPEN FAIR AT CHICAGO

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Utilizing the latest wrinkle in remote control, President Roosevelt will reopen the Chicago World's Fair on May 26, when his "shadow" presses a switch turning on the vast lighting system on the shores of Lake Michigan.

The novel method of reopening the glittering panorama of art and science that comprised the Century of Progress last year was revealed at the White House following a conference with the President by Rufus C. Dawes, brother of the former Vice President and president of the fair, and Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of the exposition.

METHOD OUTLINED

Lohr revealed that the President had agreed to appear in a sound motion picture some time between now and May 26, when he will be photographed in the act of pressing a button controlling the lighting system at the fair.

On the reopening day, the picture will be flashed simultaneously on three separate screens at the fair and as the picture portrays the President pressing the button, the action automatically will transmit an electrical impulse flashing on the exposition's lighting system.

IMPROVEMENT MADE

Lohr added that he hoped to persuade Mrs. Roosevelt to appear in a similar picture, which would be so operated as to turn on the waters of the great fountain at the fair.

About five million dollars has been spent for improvements at the fair, Lohr said, with the expectation that great crowds would again trek to the exposition this year.

CHURCH HOLD NIGHT SERVICE

Tenebrae, the Roman Catholic service of darkness which is a characteristic ceremony of Holy Week, will be held in Epiphany Catholic Church, Washington place this evening.

According to the Rev. Lawrence A. O'Connell, pastor, the service typifies the growing darkness of earth at the death of Christ. Twelve of 13 lighted candles will be put out one by one during the singing of the Psalms. The last candle is not extinguished, but hidden, signifying that death could not really obtain dominion over Christ though it appeared to do so, the Rev. O'Connell explained.

The combined junior and senior choirs will sing Pslams each evening at 7:45 o'clock.

Officer Exonerated In Death of Youth

Charles Taylor, police radio car operator, was exonerated by a Coroner's jury today in the death of Carl Kulecik, 21, of 2603 McCord street, March 6.

Taylor testified he accidentally shot Kulecik while the youth was attempting to elude arrest. He fired into the air, Taylor said, then tripped and a bullet struck Kulecik.

WOMEN TAKEN IN DONORA RAID

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 28.—Six persons, including two young women, today faced hearing on charges following their arrest in a raid by state police on an alleged "numbers" office at Donora.

The troopers arrested Harry Miller at his taxicab office. Others taken into custody were [illegible] Clayton and Clara Albensi, said to have been stenographers in the establishment; Tony Kubis and Charles W. Trew, all of Donora, and William Griffin, of Bentleyville.

Miller was released in $1,000 bond on charges of conducting a lottery and sale of a lottery. The others were released under $300 bail each.

A quantity of paraphernalia and more than $300 in cash was reported found in the rooms by the raiders.

'SELF-KIDNAPER' FACES TRIAL

PHILADELPHIA, March 28.—(AP.)—William J. Metzger, 18-year-old medical student, faces trial in Federal Court on a charge of attempting to extort $5,000 from his mother by threatening his own kidnaping.

Federal agents who arrested the youth yesterday after his indictment say Metzger wrote extortion letters to his mother, Mrs. Gustav A. Bein, of Upper Darby, in the hope that he would not have to return to college in Cleveland for the second semester. The first note, signed "Joe," read:

"We want $5,000 or your son will be kidnaped."

Metzger transferred to the Cleveland institution from a Gettysburg college, the agents said, after pleading with his mother to make the change "to protect himself."

Sleep-Walking Fall Breaks Patient's Hip

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., March 28.—(AP.)—Walking in her sleep and, as she explained later, dreaming she was picking blackberries, Mrs. Mary Simmers, 78, fell from the porch roof of the Memorial Hospital.

The woman, a patient in the institution, was returned to her bed. An examination disclosed she suffered a fractured hip.

REALTORS TALK WELFARE AID

Representatives of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board will go to Harrisburg tomorrow to attend a conference of the Pennsylvania Emergency Relief Board on plans for financial assistance in caring for welfare tenants in Pittsburgh.

Eric H. Biddle, relief director, is planning to study a proposal from the realtors whereby federal and state relief funds would be expended for current taxes, fire and liability insurances on properties where relief tenants are being housed rent-free.

J. Roland Brady, executive secretary of the Real Estate Board, discussing the plan, said that City Council indorsed a resolution in favor of the board's plan earlier in the week. He predicted favorable action provided sufficient pressure be brought to bear on relief officials in Harrisburg.

Educator Describes Breakdown of Canal

The development of the Beaver and Lake Erie Canal, its construction, operation and final breakdown due to railroad competition, was described last night by Lloyd A. M. Corkan, principal of the New Brighton High School, at a meeting of the Historical Society of Western Pennsylvania. Judge Ambrose B. Reid and Dr. Marion Hathway, of the University of Pittsburgh faculty, also spoke.

CITY RAMP SUIT TO BE TRIED AGAIN

Recognizing that "political exigencies" seem to have affected the city's defense in a land damage action, Judge Elder W. Marshall today granted the city a new trial in the case, which involved a Liberty Bridge condemnation award.

The Pittsburgh Terminal Warehouse and Transfer Company won a verdict of $151,355 against the city. Judge Marshall granted a new trial on condition that the city pay the plaintiff's expenses in the first trial.

Stating that the city's defense was presented with such feebleness that it was evident the case had been inadequately prepared, Judge Marshall said that a client ordinarily must abide by the result attending the efforts of his counsel, but added:

ELECTION HELD FACTOR

"We feel, however, that the taxpayers of Pittsburgh may rightfully complain, even to the point of asking for a new trial, when the vicissitudes of a political election have removed the reasonable protection of their interests which previously they had enjoyed."

The opinion added:

"Political exigencies seem to have caused the removal from office of every solicitor skilled in the trial of cases of eminent domain save Mr. Benner (Thomas M. Benner) and Mr. Diamond (Harry Diamond). For some unknown reason neither of these gentlemen was directed to try or even assist in trying this case."

DELAY PLAN FAILED

The opinion pointed out an effort was made to postpone the trial until the new staff of solicitors could become familiar with their duties and the suit about to come to trial, but this effort was unsuccessful.

The damage action resulted from the building of a ramp at the Liberty Bridge and the Boulevard of the Allies. Viewers had awarded the company $66,646 for damages.

MRS. SHIRAS, JR. SEEKS DIVORCE

Mrs. Winfield K. Shiras, Jr., prominent Pittsburgh and New York society woman, will be eligible to file suit for divorce against her husband in a few days in Reno, Nev., an International News dispatch announced today.

Mrs. Shiras, the former Josepha Watjen, of Greenwich, Conn., has been living on a ranch south of Reno for the necessary six months, according to the dispatch.

Her husband is the son of Winfield K. Shiras, Sr., of 4841 Ellsworth avenue, prominent Pittsburgh attorney and club member.

Shiras said that his son is now living in Greenwich and had recently been associated with the Yale Review, publication of Yale University, at New Haven, Conn.

FLORAL EXHIBIT OPENS SUNDAY

The city's annual spring and Easter flower show will be open to the public from next Sunday, April 1, through April 15, at Phipps conservatory, Schenley Park, and West Park conservatory, North Side.

A variety of rare roses, exhibits of amaryllis, schizanthus, primulas, cinararies, water lilies, cactus plants, and a landscape garden will be displayed at Schenley Park.

A playground and recreation center will be the special feature at West Park, together with exhibits of a number of rare plants.

'MYSTERY' STRIKES TRACED TO REDS

'Secret Cells' of Communists Spur Discontent

By RALPH M. EASLEY
Chairman Executive Council, the National Civic Federation
As Told to EARL REEVES

The public has been bewildered by hundreds of "mystery strikes" throughout the country during recent months. Large numbers of "demonstrations," many of them riotous, also have occurred. Numerous so called "anti-war congresses" have been held.

"Secret cells" of Communists fomented many of these strikes. Communists organized many of the demonstrations and congresses. Orders for such activity, together with detailed tactical instructions, came from Moscow.

Such activity can be directly traced to an "OPEN LETTER TO ALL MEMBERS OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY" issued following an "EXTRAORDINARY CONFERENCE" held in New York, July 7-10, 1933.

That document, sharp in "self-criticism," LASHED party members, committees, sections, units, "fractions" and "factory cells" into "determined, persistent and organized activity."

PARTY IN U. S. 'THREATENED'

It is our information that this conference was called and the letter issued after the Communist International of Moscow had again threatened to discipline and reorganize the Communist Party, U. S. A., unless heroic effort was made to correct delinquencies pointed out by Moscow.

Stalin, head of the Third International and of the Soviet, did so discipline the American party in 1929. He removed Jay Lovestone as its leader and installed William Z. Foster.

The public tendency to discount and belittle Communist activities is so strong that I would like to press home here the fact that Stalin considers the United States a key point in his world revolutionary plan.

Thre years ago Stalin pronounced the German and French Communist parties to be the strongest in the world, outside of Russia.

Note what has happened since.

COMMUNISTS 'LED' FRENCH DISORDERS

The riotous crisis in France during the past February presented precisely the sort of chaotic situation WHICH COMMUNIST TEXTBOOKS OF REVOLT INSTRUCT MUST BE BROUGHT ABOUT AS A PRELUDE TO REVOLUTION.

It is during such chaos that Communism, organized to the last man, seizes power. Before the French demonstrations ended, the Communists HAD COME INTO OPEN LEADERSHIP OF THE DISORDER.

Stalin knew the "revolutionary strength" existing in Germany and France. After he had scolded American party leaders in Moscow in 1929, he said:

"I think, comrades, that the Communist Party of America is one of the few Communist parties in the world upon which history has placed tasks of decisive importance from the point of view of the international revolutionary movement. I think the moment is not far off when a revolutionary crisis will be unleashed in America. When the revolutionary crisis comes in the United States IT WILL MEAN THE BEGINNING OF THE END OF WORLD CAPITALISM."

SEEK TO SATISFY STALIN'S DEMANDS

It is REPORTED to us that the recent Communistic frenzy of strike action, riotous demonstrations and agitation HAVE CONSTITUTED AN EFFORT OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY, U. S. A., TO JUSTIFY ITSELF IN THE EYES OF STALIN, ITS MOSCOW MASTER.

It is a matter OF ESTABLISHED RECORD that—

First — As recently as January, the Third International of Moscow issued instructions to all Communist parties, including that of America, regarding "secret cells," "underground work" and "illegal work."

Second—In a document translated into six languages, WITH THE NAME OF THE UNITED STATES AT THE HEAD OF THE DISTRIBUTION LIST, Moscow gave detailed instructions regarding the formation of the secret Communist organizations. It is through THIS secret organization that strikes, riots and agitations OF RECENT MONTHS have been instigated and managed.

Recent Communist demonstrations have followed the Moscow plan of tactics TO THE LETTER.

Third—The New York "extraordinary conference" ordered: "The consolidation and strengthening of the revolutionary trade unions, especially revolutionary unions of MINERS, STEEL AND METAL, TEXTILE AND MARINE WORKERS, and systematic work IN the reformist trade unions (meaning A. F. of L. and non-Communism independent unions), above all among the reformist unions of miners and RAILROAD WORKERS, with a view to organizing a broad revolutionary trade union opposition."

'VICTORIES' IN KEY TRADES HAILED

Accounts of victories in the key industries, WHEREIN THE NATION COULD BE CRIPPLED, appear regularly in the Daily Worker.

Fourth — Openly, the Communist press, day by day, fights the American Federation of Labor as being "Fascistic," a "strike-breaker," and a 'partner of Wall street."

Meanwhile, secretly, Communists work WITHIN the A. F. of L. to prevent negotiated agreements. A. F. of L. records regarding the detail of this are voluminous.

Fifth—Demands are purposely made impossible, and "issues" obscure, because SETTLEMENT IS NOT DESIRED. Strikes are used to create desperate conditions favorable to REVOLUTIONARY RECRUITMENT, and to "develop solidarity and class-consciousness" among workers, Communist or non-Communist.

Sixth—The New York 'extraordinary conference" ordered: "The transformation of the Daily Worker into a really revolutionary mass paper, into an agitator and organizer of Communist effort."

Its circulation has more than doubled. It does not merely report, it DIRECTS Communist action. It is planning now to print a HALF MILLION COPIES of a special May Day issue.

Seventh—Documents and publications show that, seeking always to cause disruption of ANY and ALL kinds, at ANY and ALL times, and thus disrupt the fabric of existing society, Communists in America, during the past few months HAVE USED AS DUPES:

JOBLESS DEPENDED ON TO STIR REVOLT

The unemployed, who are looked upon as a great revolutionary opportunity.

Stalin, in Moscow, Rules Party in America

Union members, who are aroused not only against their employers, but against their own union leaders.

Ex service men, the bonus being represented as "back pay" which the government withholds.

Teachers, pastors, students and pacifists — in so-called anti-war agitations which really are attacks upon national defense.

Jobless youth, on whose adolescent emotions they play skilfully.

CWA workers, on questions of pay and continuation of jobs.

CCC workers, who are "victims of militarized, forced labor."

In fact, ANY disaffected individual or element.

The objective is to whip up ANY kind of discontent, because discontent advances the cause of revolution.

(This is the third of a series of articles on the startling progress of industrial Communism in the United States. The fourth will appear in an early issue of this newspaper, probably tomorrow.)

U. S. TO COMBAT RED MAY DAY

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Widespread Communist demonstrations are planned throughout the country for May Day, the Department of Justice learns.

Preparations have been made by federal agents to handle the demonstrations, it is learned, and precautions have been taken to prevent violence or destruction of property.

Agents are to be concentrated at points where the greatest Communist activity is expected. The list of localities where such demonstrations are being planned is for the present withheld by the Justice Department.

Police and Firemen Win Four Days Off

Police and firemen have won their fight to retain four pass-days a month. Council yesterday killed an ordinance cutting the number of pass-days to two by laying it on the table.

Fatal Wreck Laid To Speed of Train

In its official report on the probe of the North Side train wreck, in which 11 persons were killed, the Public Service Commission yesterday blamed the train's high speed for the disaster. It made no mention to the theory that Engineer W. M. Shaw was dead or seriously ill at the throttle. The report also contained a recommendation that an automatic speed control system should be installed in this section.

Miners Plan Huge Meeting April 1

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 28.—(AP.)—Plans are under way for a huge mass meeting of miners April 1—the date on which present working contracts with the operators expire.

Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of Pennsylvania's Governor, has accepted an invitation to address the coal diggers. The committee in charge is inviting not only miners but union workers of all crafts employed in the soft coal fields of Southwestern Pennsylvania.

ARMS BOYCOTT URGED ON U. S. BY BRITAIN

By WILLIAM HILLMAN

LONDON, March 28.—The British government has taken official steps to sound out Washington on whether the United States would agree to accept and take part in boycotts and other economic sanctions to be imposed for violation of any world disarmament treaty, Universal Service has learned.

The British are seeking to ascertain from President Roosevelt the attitude the American government would adopt should European nations agree to a disarmament convention with the economic boycott as a means of guaranteeing execution of the arms treaty.

Such an economic boycott is now definitely being considered by the British as the solution to the French demand for further commitments of other nations for the guaranteeing of French security. Upon this hinges the vital problem of bringing about the disarmament agreement that has been hanging fire for years.

CRISIS FOR AMERICA

Upon the American answer one of the most momentous decisions since the Versailles treaty may depend.

The British government, it is understood, is faced by three alternatives:

1—Complete failure of disarmament negotiations because France refuses to countenance a treaty without "security" guarantees;

2—Granting security to France in the form of economic sanctions, preferably by boycott; and

3—The framing of some sort of alliance with France.

The alliance which might involve a modern "Entente Cordiale," is favored by powerful Tory members of the British cabinet, providing France agrees to a disarmament convention and aerial parity for Great Britain.

Other members of the cabinet prefer economic sanctions rather than military engagements, and take the stand that in this case, they might place upon the United States the burden of the final decision, thereby shifting responsibility upon America for the settling of the European arms problem.

FRENCH FORBID SALE OF ARMS

International News Service.

PARIS, March 28.—Alarmed by Communist and Nationalist appeals to arms, the Ministry of Justice today declared war on clandestine arms in an effort to prevent the outbreak of civil war in France.

The sale of guns of all character, bombs and gas bombs was forbidden by governmental edict.

Secret service men even adopted a plan of surveillance of the great Creusot arms manufacturing region, centering about Lyons, fearing guns manufactured there might be secretly placed in the hands of either the Communist or Reactionary Nationalist organizations.

The frontiers also are being carefully watched. It is suspected particularly that several motor-loads of arms have been slipped through the Belgian border in the vinicinity of Liege.

Islam Grotto Group Honors McMahan

More than 200 persons last night attended a banquet at the Musicians Club, Penn avenue, in honor of the sixtieth birthday anniversary of Louis H. McMahan, secretary of Islam Grotto. Speakers were Ben F. Metz, Fred C. Hopton, monarch of Islam Grotto; William C. Arther, Otto A. Zange, chief justice of the Grotto, and Mr. McMahan. J. Clifford Franz was toastmaster. A program of music and entertainment followed the dinner.

Mr. McMahan

Former Dry Agent In Secret Service

Ira I. Brogan of Mt. Lebanon, a former member of government prohibition enforcement forces in this district, has been appointed a member of the United States Secret Service and assigned for duty under Chief W. A. Landvoigt in charge of the Pittsburgh district.

For several years he served as an agent in a special investigating unit of the Prohibition Department in Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia and following repeal was transferred to the Federal Alcohol Beverage Bureau from which he resigned to join the Secret Service.

Stop Getting Up Nights

When kidneys are clogged they become weak—the bladder is irritated—often passage is scanty and smarts and burns—sleep is restless and nights are miserable—trips to the bathroom are frequent. The right and prompt way to stop this trouble and restore healthy action to kidneys and bladder is to get from any druggist a 35c box of Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules. Take as directed—you won't be disappointed, but be sure and get GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules—the original and genuine—a grand kidney stimulant and diuretic.

Injured by 'Bomb'

MRS. JENNIE SCHAFFER

SECOND 'BOMB' INJURES 12

The "bombing" last night of the Roosevelt Theater, 1938 Center avenue, the second in six days, which resulted in injury to 12 patrons, was being investigated by the bomb and arson squad today.

Phosphorus, apparently inflamed by friction, routed several hundred patrons from the theater, according to Police Capt. John H. Schnurr. Several, sitting in the front rows where the flame shot out, were burned and the others injured in the stampede for the exits.

M. Browar, owner of the Roosevelt, said he would ask District Attorney Andrew T. Park's help in an investigation.

Among those injured were Mrs. Rose Pearlman, 30, of 704 Anaheim street, and Mrs. Jennie Schaffer, 23, of 221 Dinwiddie street, and 10 Negroes. They were McKensey Bush, 32, of 43 Roberts street; Florence Gaither, 18, of 2631 Wylie avenue; Edith Ryans, 27, of 1846 Webster avenue; Tentious Lukas, 25, of 2943 Mulberry way; Ernest Mayfield, 26, of 2201 Wylie avenue; William Givens, 16, of 2515 Wylie avenue; Roosevelt Jamison, 22, of 1830½ Watson street; Woodson Washington, 17, of 625 Francis street; George Shinn, 15, of 2940 Orbin street, and James Runner, 22, of 2237 Humber way.

LONDON, March 28.—(INS.)—Damage amounting to $85,000 was caused by fire which swept the Italian liner Martha Washington in drydock at Triest today, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch.

'PARTY QUEEN' STAGES RAID FOR MATE

International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 28.—William May Wright, former stock exchange broker and society man, was given a surprise party by his wife, Cobina Wright, who is known for her original party ideas, and as a result her divorce suit against him has begun.

It was all a merry, merry procedure.

Cobina was entertaining some friends of course—when her private detectives phoned her. She and her husband had been separated for some time. Invited Cobina to her friends'.

"Come on folks."

The whole gay troupe trekked downtown to Wright's apartment where, according to an affidavit from Cobina, they found Wright with Miss Myrtle Gardner, an artist's model.

NOT GRACIOUS 'HOST'

The guests did not stop to take off their befurred evening wraps and silk toppers. Wright was not as gracious a surprisee as he might have been.

Indeed, according to another affidavit, this one from Miss Gabrielle Gray, private investigator, he flatly refused to be surprised into accepting divorce papers at a later date when Miss Gray says she trailed him to a hotel on Park avenue.

Wright did not seem to get into the spirit of the thing at all, his wife's papers reveal. For, the next Sunday, when process servers caught him as he was about to depart for a costume party, he made a wild dash through Grand Central Terminal in a 10-gallon hat and cowboy trousers.

STILL HE REFUSES

They caught him, but flustered as he was, he refused to accept service on a court holiday.

So Cobina's attorney, Robert M. Bozeman, petitioned to permit service by publication, and the complaint was filed at the Supreme Court building, and the whole laughing chase came out, after all.

Cobina, who hails from Oregon and used to be one of New York's most lavish hostesses in pre-crash days, is a well-known giver of charity balls, arranger of private parties, etc. She makes a business of it, much as Elsa Maxwell does. What she calls her "society circuses" have always been famed for originality.

Spanish Reds Call Revolutionary Strike

JUNIOR PATROL

Don't forget, fellows, while you eat your Easter candy, that it is a solemn day, too. Really, a holy day. The day the Lord was raised from the dead, and lived again.

Now here is a letter from Janice Cahen, of 736 Walnut street, Latrobe, Pa. She sends seven pledges for her patrol, and now she only needs three more to be elected captain.

And this swell letter, along with 20 pledges, comes from June Perkins, of Adah, Pa. She writes:

"We are going to build a clubhouse this summer. Please send my membership cards and pledges to me so that I can give them out at the next meeting. I have nine boys and 10 girls in my club."

Boy, that's fine, June, and when you get a clubhouse built, you'll have more fun than ever. Be sure to send us a picture of you and your members working on the house. And write and tell us what you are doing to help others.

This letter is from Pearl and Sylvia Rosenson, of 1012 Chartiers avenue, Plymouth Apartments, McKees Rocks, Pa. They say:

"We have already sent in nine pledges and now we are inclosing 23 more pledges. Each of us is going to have a club of her own. All our members are from McKees Rocks except one, Maxine Jane Rosenson, my cousin from East End."

Sylvia has sung over the Junior Patrol radio program many times. We are certainly glad to hear that she and her sister are going to start a patrol.

One Slain, Suicide In Anti-Semite Riots

BERLIN, March 28.—(AP.)—A violent anti-Semitic demonstration at Gunzenhausen in Bavaria was reported today to have resulted in the death of two Jews—one committing suicide by hanging and the other dying from four knife wounds.

Eleven Jews were arrested during the demonstrations, reported to have been staged by Nazi storm troopers Sunday after a Jew expectorated on a trooper's uniform. All of those arrested were released later.

employes benefiting; the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, 15,000 employes; Inland Steel Company, 9,000 employes, at Indiana Harbor and Chicago Heights, and the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate Company, Mansfield, O.

The Associated Press said 44,000 employes were affected by today's announcements. Approximately 55,000 will benefit by increases announced yesterday.

WEIRTON RAISES PAY

About 17,000 Jones & Laughlin employes will be affected by that company's action. Approximately 18,000 National Steel workers in the Weirton Steel Company plants at Weirton and Clarksburg, W. Va., and Steubenville, O., and other plants at Detroit, Buffalo and New York will have their pay boosted.

Ernest T. Weir, chairman of the National Steel Corporation, said:

"As far as our company is concerned, increased economies in production and much improved operating schedules make this wage increase possible at this time."

Weir said it was his belief that the industry would continue to operate on the 40-hour week. The wage increase does not affect the executive, administrative or clerical forces.

Announcement of the Jones & Laughlin increase was brief. It said:

"The Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation announced through their employe representation plan today that effective April 1, 1934, all hourly, tonnage, piece and combination rates will be advanced approximately 10 per cent."

UTILITIES FIRM RAISES PAY

International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 28.—The utilities today joined the nation-wide procession of higher wages in industry, touched off by the action of the automobile and steel makers in the last week.

Public Service Corporation of New Jersey was the first power and light company to take action, announcing a 5 per cent wage rise to take effect April 1 for all employes of operating companies. This restores part of the 15 per cent pay cut made by the company, which began July 1, 1932.

The company today pointed out increased operating expenses due to NRA but declared operations in the first three months of the year were better than in the same 1933 period, and said it was motivated "in keeping with the spirit of the times and with the efforts to stimulate the return of better economic conditions by adding to the purchasing power of the people."

Dr. Jackson Elected By Medical Congress

S. S. PENNSYLVANIA, AT SEA, March 28.—(AP.)—Dr. Chevalier Jackson, of Philadelphia, yesterday was elected president of the Pan-American Medical Association at concluding sessions of the fifth congress aboard this ship.

Having visited Havana, Panama, Colombia, Venezuela and Porto Rico, the congress will arrive back in New York on Friday morning.

Duce Honors Ocean Fliers and Families

Medals also were presented to the families of the two fliers who were killed on the expedition, Lieut. Squaglia and Sergt. Quintavalle.

U. S. Paves Way For Enlisting Aid Against Weirton

WASHINGTON, March 28.—(AP.)—Legislation to permit the Attorney General or Department of Justice to appoint special attorneys and counsellors to assist in the prosecution of the case against the Weirton Steel Company was introduced yesterday by Senator Ashurst (Dem.), of New Mexico, and referred to the Judiciary Committee.

The resolution proposes that nothing in existing laws relative to banning officers or employes or former officers or employes of the United States from acting as counsel, attorney or agent for another, before any branch of the government "shall be deemed to apply to attorneys or counselors to be specially employed, retained or appointed by the Attorney General or under authority of the Department of Justice to assist in the prosecution of the case of the United States vs. Weirton Steel Company, and any other case or cases, civil or criminal, involving said company, its officers or agents, arising under the NRA or any code of fair competition adopted pursuant thereto."

BOATS PICKET SHIPYARD

International News Service.

CAMDEN, N. J., March 28.—Believed to be the first of its kind in American labor history, a watercraft picket line patrolled the Delaware river today a few feet offshore from the New York Shipbuilding Corporation's yard.

Meanwhile, spokesmen of the 3,000 company employes striking for higher pay and shorter hours remained adamant in their refusal to participate in arbitration negotiations to be conducted by a board of six men appointed yesterday by National Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson.

Striking workers at a mass meeting last night rejected Gen. Johnson's plan and authorized Francis G. Hunter, local secretary of the industrial marine and shipbuilding workers union, to say:

"We have lost faith in government arbitration procedure."

The strike has interrupted work on two U. S. Navy cruisers and four destroyers and has halted execution of construction contracts estimated to be worth $43,000,000.

MISSOURI POLL RIOTS KILL 4

KANSAS CITY, March 28.—(AP.)—Big Tom Pendergast's Democratic machine rode through to overwhelming victory today after a blood-stained election marked by four killings, scores of sluggings and machine gun terrorism.

A drive by Citizen-Fusionists, led by Dr. A. Ross Hill, former University of Missouri president, to oust "Little Tammany" from control of the city, failed by a wide margin. Hill, running for Mayor, got only 81,749 votes against 141,177 for the Democratic incumbent, Mayor Bryce B. Smith, on the face of unofficial complete returns.

The Fusionists were able to elect two men to the Council. The Pendergast forces swept the six other Council seats as well as two municipal judgeships.

The total vote of 225,000 smashed all records, being greater even than the 1932 presidential vote.

The election day dead include a deputy sheriff, a Negro Democratic precinct captain, a bystander fatally wounded in the gun fight involving the deputy, and a participant in the same fight.

NRA SHAKE-UP IN CHARGE OF HARRIMAN

WASHINGTON, March 28.—(AP.)—A complete shake-up of NRA, transforming it finally into a machine to administer the nearly 400 coded industries, has been started by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson.

New orders to Johnson's staff of 1,900 have placed the process of transformation in charge of W. Averell Harriman, a youthful special assistant. He is the son of E. H. Harriman, the railroad builder, and is himself an industrialist of wide responsibilities. He is one of the newcomers to NRA.

The biggest change ordered was the creation of a litigation division to handle all court cases in the name of the Department of Justice.

This was aimed at more speedy disposition of cases, not possible at the Justice Department because of a limited staff. The new division will be under the legal department, headed by Donald R. Richberg, one-time labor spokesman, who is Johnson's general counsel. All the other alterations likewise were drafted for greater speed.

The reorganization made all deputy administrators responsible for quick disposal of all nonenforcement complaints on codes under their jurisdiction.

Harriman will take charge of the prompt formation and efficient operation of code authorities, advising the industrialists as to what is expected of them. He will overhaul the compliance machinery of NRA, except for the field staff, newly reorganized under the National Emergency Council.

NRA AUTO BODY TACKLES JOB

DETROIT, March 28.—(AP.)—The presidential plan to harmonize captial and labor in the automobile industry went into effect today in an atmosphere of good will.

The board will seek adjustment of the question of representation, discrimination and discharge.

Dr. Leo Wolman, Columbia University, neutral member, will represent the President; Richard L. Byrd, Pontiac union official, will represent labor, and Nicholas Kelly, Chrysler Corporation counsel, manufacturers.

From manufacturers came the promise of Roy D. Chapin, president of the Hudson Motor Car Company, that "industry intends to go through with it."

Speaking for workers, Arthur E. Greer, official of the Hudson local, remarked:

Pair Near Death in Scenery Hill Crash

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 28. (AP.)—Narrowly escaping death as their automobile turned over three times near Scenery Hill, the Rev. E. H. Greenlee and Mrs. Greenlee are recovering from severe bruises. The Rev. Mr. Greenlee, 72, is the retired pastor of the Scenery Hill Methodist Episcopal Church.

Seek Man Who Shot His Wife 7 Times

Police today were searching for Isaac Crone, Negro, of Harwick, alleged to have shot his wife seven times in the hands and arms during a quarrel in their home. The injured woman was taken to Citizens' General Hospital in New Kensington, where it was said her condition was not regarded as critical.

Service Commission In Woodruff Tribute

HARRISBURG, March 28.—(AP.)—The Public Service Commission paid tribute to the memory of George W. Woodruff, commission member, who died last week, in a resolution adopted at an executive session yesterday.

Laughing Child Plays Unaware Of Doom

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 28.—(Universal.)—Four-year-old Willie Mae Miller, doomed to die because of incurable leukemia, talked and smiled in her childish way today, unaware that death was creeping closer every minute.

As she played with her dolls in her room at a hospital here and as her grief-stricken parents watched over her, hundreds of so-called cures for the disease for which the medical world knows no cure came in through the mails and over the phone.

There were even those who suggested that the blood of an ox or the lining of a goose liver be used. Willie Mae is the daughter of a Memphis couple.

MOVE FOR TAXI PARLEY FAILS

NEW YORK, March 28.—(AP.)—Major taxicab companies have rejected the proposal of the city administration and the NRA Regional Labor Board for a plebiscite of drivers to settle the cabman's strike.

At the same time yesterday, the companies proposed setting up a supervisory board of nine members to regulate the industry.

The companies' rejection of the plebiscite and counter-proposal were contained in a letter to Mayor F. H. LaGuardia. Company union leaders turned down this proposal.

The New York City grand jury meanwhile continued its investigation of strike rioting. Two police captains in whose districts occurred some of the violence that repeatedly has marked the dispute between operators with their company unions and the strikers, appeared before the secret sessions of the grand jury, along with six drivers who were victims of the strikers' assaults.

Hotel Strike Leader 'Ganged,' he Charges

Harry Reich, organizer of the William Penn Hotel strike, was assaulted and beaten by four or five men Monday night, he told newspapermen yesterday. The incident, which allegedly occurred on Cedar avenue, near Lockhart street, North Side, has not been reported to police, he said. Reich said he preferred to make "my own investigation."

Girl Glass Workers Ask Reinstatement

Glenn W. McCabe, national president of the Window Glass Cutters' League of America, in a letter yesterday requested H. S. Wherrett, president of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, to reinstate 40 girls recently dismissed from the Ford City plant of the company. Wherrett promised an early reply to the communication.

RELIEF HEADS TO CONFER

James L. Stuart, Allegheny County Civil Works Administrator, and George P. Mills, county relief director, plan to be in Harrisburg tomorrow to attend a conference of relief and CWA administrators, where detailed instructions on the new relief work division program will be announced by Eric H. Biddle, Pennsylvania administrator.

With less than half of the 24,000 men on the CWA payroll working, Mr. Stuart said only 250 out of a total of 400 projects nearing completion under CWA auspices were being operated. The CWA program ends tomorrow night. All work will suspend until Monday, when the newly-created relief works division, designated to give work only to those on relief, begins its activities.

1-Hour CWA Strike To Protest Layoffs

Ben Carothers, Communist, and organizer of the Unemployed Council, announced today that Civil Works Administration workers will hold a one-hour strike between 1 and 2 p. m. tomorrow. The strike, Carothers said, is to protest layoffs, wage cuts and discontinuance of various CWA jobs. Several thousand workers, representing about 25 jobs, he said, will participate in the strike.

Pittsburgher Kills Prized Fox; Dies

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., March 28.—Funeral services were held at Valley Bend today for Warwick Pritt, 65, Pittsburgh merchant, found dead of heart attack while fox hunting.

Pritt and his wife were proprietors of a fur and gown store in Pittsburgh. He had gone hunting for a particular kind of red fox for a customer, which he killed shortly before he fell dead.

Editor Says City Leads in Recovery

Bervard Nichols, editor of the "Pittsburgh Business Review," yesterday told members of the Pittsburgh Advertising Club that recovery, which lagged here at the beginning of the business upturn, is now making faster gains in Pittsburgh than anywhere else in the country.

The outlook for the next few months is extremely favorable he added.

Display Windows Permitted in Rum Stores

It's all right with the State Liquor Control Board if the state liquor stores want to display their wares in show windows. District Supt. Philip W. Gundelfinger was informed the stores may decorate their windows if they wish, but it was stated at the district office that none will be dressed up at present because few of the stores have facilities for window displays.

Add contagious tunes: "Music Makes Me" . . . They'd have you believe that Polly Moran went to the Zoo and three pelicans died laughing!

The E. Lubitsch-Leila Koerner baby-talking is getting sluggish . . . Whitney Bourne of the lorgnette division is teaching James ("Shuck") Cannon how to forget to remember . . . It's an heir over at the M. K. Pelletreaus . . . Helen Vinson, the screen siren, has the Ives—first name, Bert . . . Anheuser-Busch, the brewers, are planning the largest five-ring circus ever presented. It will be a free show at the World's Fair in Chicago . . . Huge ball-bearings in the fingers of motormen's gloves were used by striking cab pilots to break jaws . . . Allyn Reese of the Nut Club nightingales is going to Reno to be loosened from her tire manufacturing husband.

Remember the Manhattan Music Hall which lasted six days? Well, 1,100 yards of silk to decorate the stage were purchased by an undertaker, who uses the stuff for shrouds—Ma-Ma!!! . . . Florence, the hat-checkidder at the Vendome Club, is practically Barbara Stanwyck . . . It's a boy at the H. Wordell's of the F. Rich crew . . . Glenda Moorhead and Thomas Lowe blended March 1 . . . J. Carisi, largely responsible for the Chamberlin-Levine flight, is now an editor of a model airplane mag. There are two million model plane enthusiasts (nuts to you) in the U. S. . . . Henry Fondra, now in "New Faces," was Margaret Sullavan's husband . . . Scallions to night club managers who dock the $40-a-week chorines for coming in 15 minutes before curtain time—instead of 30 minutes, but when the star torch singer arrives 20 minutes late nothing happens.

Gruesome coincidence: The day Lilyan Tashman passed on—Edmund Lowe's new picture, at the Rialto, was titled: "No More Women" . . . For the first time since 1919 Equity's ticket has been split by the rank and file, who merely want representation from their own kind—not from stars who no longer have to "take it" . . . Talk about Milton Berle! And nerve! One dress firm has patented the wordage: "Blessed Event!" We shall see . . . This column's sympathy is with Mary Astor, the movie artress, whose parent humiliated her in print over money.

Carroll Plans Production On Coast

By JIMMY STARR

HOLLYWOOD, March 28.—Hello! Earl Carroll, the last of the main stem and big-time musical producers to follow Horace Greeley's wheeze about "go West, young man, go West," has learned many things from his brief stay in the land of the galloping tintypes.

Earl's entrance in the celluloid village was staged by Paramount with glowing 24-sheets plastered all over town, much blowing of trumpets and a beauty contest that turned out floppo. Despite this overdone exploitation routine, Mr. Carroll did get a few bright ideas.

Although he wasn't prepared to make a formal announcement, your snooping reporter (that's me—heh, heh!) grabbed off a couple of nifty scoops. Carroll is planning to start his new "Sketch Book" in Hollywood, produce it here, route it around the country, eventually winding up on Broadway.

Carroll has set down these rules: A beauty chorus of Hollywood's loveliest (including the dozen cuties he choo-chooed out here for the "Murder at the Vanities" flicker), two-week play dates (no more, no less—positively) in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Denver, Chicago—and into New York for the bang-up season, to run as long as you like!

Tom Lenihan breaks an old fountain pen on this one—Tin Pan Alley has written songs about nature and every kind of a moon, but it took Jimmy (Schnozzle) Durante to glorify the California fogs. It was an inky black one, he confessed t'other ayem, that gave him the title of the smash hit, "Inka Dinka DEW!"

With the oldtimers—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Carey (remember those good old hard ridin' horse opera days?) brought their youngsters to the fights t'other eve. Margaret Mayo, wife of Frank Mayo, is now a ranch guest of the Carey's.

Wanderings around Hollywood . . . The Bing Crosbys are shopping for a second baby buggy! . . . Max Hoffman, Jr., put his Boop-a Doop wifey, Helen Kane, on a Panama Canal boat for a vacation and then hopped a choo-choo for New York . . . George Burns is driving EVERYBODY DAFFY with that slow double talk gag . . . Carman Lombardo got ribbed POLENTY while doing some recording for "Many Happy Returns" at Paramount. Every time he started to leave the set to wash his hands, the director sent him back to the bandstand. After TWO HOURS, Carman made a wild dash for the exit door, while the ENTIRE company fell down with hysterics . . . Not that you care a lot but Dolores Del Rio has to drag around a gown weighing 25 pounds for a scene in "Madame Du Barry."

June Gale doesn't know this, but her sister, Jean, lost June's purse with that TORRID love letter in it! . . . Buddy Green and Sammy Stept have a new American tango ditty called "Marcelina" that has PRACTICALLY everybody getting hot-cha! . . . Diana Wynyard, the actress from the country of the dropped-aitches (England, you silly,) says that "America is a land of Gadgets!" Yes, indeddy — by gadget! . . . Betty Blythe, the old time super-vampire, is playing a bit in "Money Means Nothing," for Monogram . . . Ethelreda Leopold, a new Warner player, is QUITE Jean Harlow-ish with her platinum-blonde-ness . . . Ah, shades of those dear, fond yesterdays—

Julanne Johnston (once Doug Fairbank's leading lady), Phillips Smalley (ex-hubby of Lois Weber), Wilfred Lucas (former Triangle star and husband of Bess Meredith) are playing "extra" in "Cleopatra" for Cecil B. DeMille at Paramount.

"Countess"

Fay Wray has the leading feminine role, opposite Paul Lukas, in "The Countess of Monte Cristo," coming to the Davis and Regent screens Friday, along with Summerville & Pitts in "Love Birds."

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

The showing of the Will Rogers comedy, "David Harum," in the Fulton, will not end today but will continue through Friday. The succeeding picture, George White's "Scandals," will open Saturday with a cast including Jimmy Durante, Rudy Vallee, Alice Faye and George White himself.

* * *

John Shubert, junior member of the producing firm — the Messrs. Shubert—that is presenting the new Rudolf Friml operetta, "Annina," is one of the three authors of the book, the others being Rowland Leigh and William Thiele. "Annina," with Marie Jeritza as its star, will be the Easter week attraction at the Nixon, opening next Monday. It will be Mme. Jeritza's first appearance here except as a concert singer.

Wallace Munro, advance agent for Dennis King, who will be seen in the Nixon the week of April 9 in "Richard of Bordeaux," brought along an interesting envelope when he paid an official visit to this department in behalf of his client. It had contained a letter from a dramatic aspirant in Bucharest, Rumania, who wanted to get a part in "Richard of Bordeaux." Addressed simply to Dennis King, London, it had to go far to reach him. It was delivered to the New Theater, London, where Mr. King had been appearing in the play, and was forwarded to Paris, where he had gone on a vacation. It arrived there the same day he returned to London, en route to America, and was sent back to the English capital. Delivered to his apartment the day after he had embarked for New York, it was readdressed to "Richard of Bordeaux" Company, New York City, and was delivered to him on the stage of the Empire Theater in that city. How long did it take? Three weeks. Mr. Munro takes this record to be complimentary to the postal services of Great Britain, France and America. Of course he wouldn't whisper that Mr. King must be something of an international figure, and thus give the department a clue to the identity of the man for whom the letter was intended.

The next production of the Irene Kaufmann Settlement Players will be "Uncle Tom's Cabin," now in rehearsal, May 22 and 23. It is under the direction of Louis Isaacs, and will be the first local presentation of this old-timer in many years.

Phillips to Explain Utilities Tax Views

Frank R. Phillips, president of the Philadelphia Company, will present the public utilities' viewpoint on taxation, rates and services tonight before the Allied Boards of Trade. The meeting will be held in the Congress of Clubs.

Civic Players In Premiere

The premiere of a new play by Carroll Fitzhugh, "The Silver Wedding," presented by the Pittsburgh Civic Playhouse, occurred last night in the Hotel Schenley Theater. Directed by Herman Liveright, it presents the case of a couple who have ceased to care for each other, but keep up the illusion of love for the benefit of their daughter, a naive grown-up.

The cast includes Rosemary Carver, in the lead, William Roos, Martha Arnold, Wilmer Swartley, Reginald Stanborough, Will Disney, Dorothy Kaufman, J. Robert Jahn, Betsey Patterson and Harold Langsdorf.

The play will be repeated tonight.

This is the second premiere production of the Pittsburgh Civic Playhouse, the first having been the introduction of Helen H. Mason's "Three to Make Ready."

Zasu Pitts, Cow Owner, Donates Milk

The one star in Hollywood who keeps a cow is Zasu Pitts. This was revealed when she went over from a neighboring set to watch Claudette Colbert work in "Cleopatra." For a year now, Zasu and Claudette have been neighbors in Brentwood, but they had never met.

Finding herself at Paramount to work in "Private Scandal," Zasu seized the opportunity to introduce herself. She learned that Claudette was drinking milk every few hours to gain weight and surprised the star by offering to supply a quart a day from her own Jersey.

Duel in Hollywood Is Reported

That Hollywood saber duel appears to have been held despite police attempts to stop it. At least, the film director, who was supposed to be one of the combatants, is reported having a badly hacked up torso. Seven stitches were taken in one cut across his chest, it is said. His opponent, rumor avers, was a former German officer in the World War.

ASPARAGUS RECIPE WINS AWARD

Prudence Penny's Choice Also Leans To Mushrooms

Markets are fascinating places, rows on rows of fresh-looking meats, vegetables, fruits, flowers—whatever your heart desires—and your purse can afford. It's fun to go shopping in one, to pick out your supplies for the next few days.

Even our grocery stores have a market air nowadays. No need for you to visit a half dozen shops for one meal's supplies; foods are time-savingly centered for you.

After you've spent some time picking out the best of foods, you don't want to spoil them by improper cooking. Foods have their hidden values which we want to retain. That is why Frances Skehan, a prize winner, prefers her way of cooking asparagus. She writes:

"The succulent asparagus supplies lime and magnesium to the system as well as iron and vitamins. It is notable as a blood stimulator and purifier. My method of cooking preserves to the greatest possible extent its valuable properties."

Certain of your recipes have similar values. Send them in to Prudence Penny, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. She daily awards one $5 prize and 10 $1 prizes to the best recipes received. With her mail as large as it is, she is able to return no recipes.

Five Dollar Prize Winner

MRS. LOUISE GAZZE,
815 Lowry avenue, Jeannette.

STUFFED MUSHROOMS

Sixteen large fresh mushrooms
One-third cup mushroom stems and caps chopped
One-third cup ham, cooked ham
One-half cup butter
One-third cup onion
One and one-third cups soft bread crumbs
One-third cup parmesan cheese
One tablespoon parsley
One and one-half cups tomato sauce
Salt, pepper and celerie
Wipe, peel and remove centers from mushrooms. Put bits part. Melt butter and chopped mushroom caps and stems, ham and onion. Cook and one-third cup soft bread crumbs, salt and cook three minutes. Add one tablespoon grated parmesan cheese, one part of tomato sauce to moisten mixture. Three-fourths each mushroom with the mixture, surround with remaining sauce, and cover with rest of crumbs and cheese mixed together. About 20 minutes before serving time place in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) until heated through and browned. Serve with a little of the sauce on the side of each mushroom.

Ten $1 Prize Winners

76 South Pickering street, Brookville.

EASTER EGGS

One jar cherries (red), cut in pieces.
One medium size can crushed pineapple (drain).
One pound nuts, cut in pieces.
About three and one-half to four boxes powdered sugar.

Mix cherries, pineapple and nuts together. Add to sugar, mix all well until enough to form into eggs. Shape and let stand over night in cool place. Makes about 20 eggs. In morning melt bitter chocolate in top of double boiler (about three-fourths of cake). Add piece of paraffine (about one-fourth of cake) and a little vanilla. Dip eggs one at time, place on wax paper until cool.

JOSEPHINE SARCONE
61 Harwood street, Mt. Washington.

BEAN LOAF

One pound dried beans, soaked and boiled.
Two cups fine bread crumbs.
One tablespoon of salt.
One-half teaspoon pepper.
Chopped parsley.
Two eggs slightly beaten.
One onion, chopped.
One cup left over mashed potatoes.

Wash beans and let soak over night in cold water. Drain. Cook beans until tender adding boiling water. Let cool, to nearly dry. Drain off water, save for sauce. Add bread crumbs, seasonings, parsley, grated onion and potatoes. Form into loaf and place in pan. Bake for 30 minutes. Strips of bacon may be placed over loaf to season it.

SAUCE

Two cups water drained from beans.
Two tablespoons butter.
Two tablespoons flour.

Mix bean water and ketchup in saucepan. Add butter. Add flour mixed to a paste, stir until sauce thickens slightly. Add seasoning to taste. Serve over bean loaf.

MRS. WM. ROTHERMUND,
621 Elm street, Bridgeville.

HEALTH SALAD DRESSING

One pint plain mineral oil.
Two egg yolks.
Three and one-half tablespoons vinegar.
One teaspoon sugar.
Three-fourths teaspoon mustard.
Three-fourths teaspoon salt.
Pinch of pepper.

MRS. N. C. BARNHART,
Sewickley, R. D. No. 3.

BLACK WALNUT CAKE WITH BUTTER CREAM ICING

One-half cup soft butter (not melted).
Three-fourths cup granulated sugar.
One egg.
One and one-half cups flour.
Two teaspoons baking powder, sifted.
One-half cup milk.
One-half cup black walnuts cut fine.

Sift dry ingredients into mixing bowl. Stir in the milk, then the eggs, not beaten, then butter, last the nuts mixed with a little of the flour. Add vanilla. Beat from two to four minutes. Bake in two-inch square pan 15 minutes in moderate oven.

BUTTER CREAM ICING

One and one-half cups powdered sugar, one-quarter cup butter, softened, soft sugar in bowl, add softened butter and enough milk to make a smooth paste and a few drops of vanilla. Spread on cake while cake is still warm. In making cake, walnuts may be omitted.

FRANCES SKEHAN,
2937 Edgar street, Carrick.

ASPARAGUS CAMILLE

Cut asparagus into fine pieces. Place in buttered baking dish over a layer of whole wheat bread crumbs. Dot over with butter and repeat until dish is full then pour over all the yolks of four eggs beaten with four tablespoons of water. Bake 20 minutes.

MRS. J. BANYAS,
245 Hazel way, West Homestead

PICALILLI

Cut together one peck green tomatoes, one head cabbage, eight onions, three peppers, one cup salt. Mix salt with the above, let stand over night, in morning drain off liquid. Add two quarts vinegar one pound brown sugar, one-fourth pound mustard seed, two tablespoons cinnamon, two tablespoons black pepper, one-fourth teaspoon cayenne pepper. Tie the following spices in a small bag:

One tablespoon cloves.

Boil together 30 minutes, then can.

MRS. A. L. BINGHAM
Kennedy Place, New Brighton, Pa.

APPLE CREAM TARTS

Prepare and bake the required number of pastry shells. They are slightly larger baked outside muffin pans, although they may be baked inside and pricked well with a fork before putting into oven. Cook eight good sized apples (Baldwins cook well) and put through sieve. Add one and one-half cups sugar, juice of one lemon and one-half level teaspoon cinnamon. Cook this until thick, then add the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs. At serving time fill pastry shells with this mixture and pile on each slightly sweetened whipped cream. Decorate each with a bit of green or yellow candy.

MRS. DAVID COOPER,
220 Erin street.

CARROT & SWEET POTATO TSIMESS

One pound fat beef.
Three medium size sweet potatoes.
One small onion.
Salt and pepper to season.
Two tablespoons sugar.
Four tablespoons flour.

Peel and cut sweet potatoes in halves, slice carrots and place in a pot together with sweet potatoes, meat and onion. Season and cover with cold water. Cook for two hours over slow fire, keeping well covered. Make a loose paste of flour and cold water. Add to the carrots and sweet potatoes. Place in oven and brown.

VIRGINIA CRYTZER CAIN,
903 Ormond street, Tarentum

ASPARAGUS

After the asparagus is washed (be very careful to wash out all the stubborn grains of dirt) it is tied together with a clean white cord. Place the bunch upright in a double boiler (the bottom in about one and one-half inches of boiling water. Invert the top of the double boiler over this bottom part so as to form a tall steamer-like kettle. Then steam the asparagus until the lower part of the stalk is tender (20 to 30 minutes). In this way the tops remain whole and do not cook away into mush. Carefully lift out or hot platter, drain off the water, cut the string and serve either on toast with white sauce and a little parsley and paprika, or simply sprinkled with salt and melted butter.

MRS. J. D. FISHER,
607 Blackburn avenue, Sewickley.

MEXICAN PECAN CANDY

Two cups brown sugar.
Two cups whole pecans.
Three-fourths cup cream.
Two tablespoons butter.
One teaspoon vanilla.

Cook brown sugar, cream, butter and pecans until it forms a soft ball in cold water. Remove from fire and beat until creamy. Drop by spoonful on greased paper.

A Day

By MARK HELLINGER

Renunciation

VIOLET wasn't your typical, scheming gold-digger. Neither was George, by any stretch of the imagination, a gay philanderer. As a matter of fact the little affair that he was carrying on with his stenographer marked his first detour from the straight and narrow during the entire 10 years of his married life. From which statement you can readily gather that our hero was no ordinary individual.

George would have gladly married Violet had it been possible. Not alone because she was growing more and more insistent on that score, but also because he was genuinely fond of the girl. Too, she seemed to represent all the things that he had missed in life. All the gaiety, all the youth that had passed him by while he was accumulating his wealth.

But there was Annie, his wife, to be considered. She had married him when he was well on the path to financial success. She had enjoyed his money and the things that his money had bought her all these many years. It was hardly possible now, when he was rich beyond their wildest dreams, that she would give him up.

It seemed like a first-class problem to George, and there appeared to be no solution to it. It angered him especially since he was quite sure that Annie cared for him only because of his money. As long as he had money he would have Annie.

At that point of his reasoning George emitted a howl of joy and snapped his fingers gleefully. There was the answer that he had been seeking. Without his money Annie would have no further use for him. It was a simple matter, then, to merely explain to her that he had lost everything. He'd settle a modest sum on her and be free to rush to his own true love, Violet.

There wasn't the slightest chance that Annie would suspect he wasn't telling the truth. She had never shown even a faint interest in his affairs. It mattered not a whit to her how he got his money. It had always been enough that he got it.

And along these lines George laid his plans. On a day when the newspapers carried accounts of a radical slump in the stock market, he decided to break the news to Annie that night.

George had never realized that he had a definite talent toward things theatrical. Yet when he seated himself at dinner that evening he was forced to congratulate himself. He was a broken-spirited man to the wife. He pushed away the food that was served him, and for many minutes sat staring morosely at nothing whatever.

And, of course, Annie could not fail to notice that there was something wrong.

"George," she chided, "why aren't you eating? What is it? Did something happen at the office today to upset you?"

"Something happen! Upset me!" The man laughed hoarsely. "Yes, my dear, something certainly happened."

Then he resumed his former occupation of staring straight ahead.

"Tell me," his wife began. "You must tell me. I want to know. What did happen, George, to make you act like this?"

George breathed a long sigh. Then he groaned.

"Very well, my dear, I will tell you, but I must warn you that it isn't going to be pleasant. It'll be a shock, Annie, but here it is. I'm ruined? They took me to the cleaners, the men who have been trying for years to do it, and I'm sunk."

Annie was silent for many moments. Then she said in a strained voice, "Well, that is unfortunate."

Her husband raised his head and gazed at her sadly.

"It's disastrous," he agreed. "And, my dear, while we're on the subject, I may as well finish. I'm a failure, Annie, and no woman would wish to remain married to a failure. I have no right to expect you to suffer for what is entirely my fault. So this is what I've decided.

"I have a little money left, perhaps twenty thousand. That will be yours. Yes, Annie, I shall give you that as a little parting gift, and then we'll say goodbye. You'll meet someone else who is truly worthy of you. And I, loving you as I do, will be very happy for you."

The man's speech halted with a noble gesture. He planted a kiss upon his wife's brow and then put her resolutely from him.

"Now go," he bade her. "And when you come downstairs again, my dearest, I will have the money for you."

Annie said nothing as she left the room. When the door closed behind her, George executed a few fancy dance steps. Just as he had expected, Annie had fallen for the gag. He was rid of her at last, and at the comparatively small cost of twenty thousand dollars. If she had known the truth, it was quite certain that she would have nicked him for his entire roll.

Ten minutes passed and then twenty, and George, in great glee, heard Annie coming down again. He rushed to the hall to speed her on her way.

But Annie wasn't carrying any bags. She wasn't dressed for the street. She went to him and put both her arms around his neck.

"George," she whispered, "I'm not going. It's strange. I did intend to leave you. I was going to tell you so this very night. You see, I believed, for some silly reason, that you no longer loved me.

"But now I know better. You proved that to me when you were willing to give me the last cent you had in the world. And for that reason, I'm going to stay with you forever and ever."

Mr. Pearson, employed by the Carnegie Steel Company at Homestead for more than 40 years, leaves his wife, Mrs. Lottie Anthony Pearson; a daughter, Miss Dorothy Pearson; three sons, Thomas, Earl and Harold; a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Wain, and nine grandchildren.

Mrs. Jennie S. McClain.

Funeral services for Mrs. Jennie S. McClain, of 3342 Allendale street, will be held in H. L. Speer's funeral home, 2927 Chartiers avenue, Sheraden, at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow. She died Monday.

Mrs. McClain leaves two daughters, Mrs. Edith Mantler and Mrs. Kathleen Conley, and one son, Harry McClain. Interment will be in Mt. Vernon Cemetery.

Mrs. Mary M. Pitcairn

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Miller Pitcairn, former Pittsburgher, who died at her home in Beverly Hills, Cal., Monday, were held in that city today. Mrs. Pitcairn, the widow of Robert Pitcairn, leaves two sisters, Mrs. Charles R. Sundenberd and Mrs. Harry M. Lindsay, of Bellevue, and a brother, Morris T. Miller, of Pittsburgh.

Joseph C. Steinmiller.

Requiem high mass for Joseph C. Steinmiller, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Steinmiller, of 2426 Maple avenue, will be celebrated in the Church of the Annunciation, at 9 a. m. tomorrow. He died Monday.

For two days, an automobile stood in front of a restaurant here accumulating police tags. Then investigation disclosed that the owner whose name was withheld, played bridge one night and walked home with friends, forgetting his car.

GLOBE TROTTING

Hello, ladies and gentlemen.

I have been reading a book on psychology lately and from its pages I got a swell idea on how to make spring house cleaning a joy instead of drudgery.

You may wonder how psychology is going to take the place of a carpet beater when the rugs are being hung out on the line. I wonder, too. So far I haven't read far enough to get a solution for that phase of the problem, so we'll forget that.

Where the psychology comes in is in the cleaning up of the odds and ends.

Instead of going about that job as a house cleaning proposition, go after it on an inventory basis and list all the things that some other person less fortunate than you might be able to use.

After the things are listed and gathered together, notify me and I'll see that they get sent where they do the most good.

How is that for two birds with one stone.

Here's a specific place where help is needed. A letter from a Braddock globe trotter tells that her children haven't enough clothes to wear now and soon another youngster will be here and so far the distressed mother hasn't a stitch to cover the expected citizen.

I don't know how much time we have to act. In fact, I don't even know what young babies are supposed to have ready for their arrival; but I do know that some of you do.

So if you have what a new born baby needs in the line of blankets and clothes, will you advise me right away so that I can send a Sun-Telegraph truck for it, if you can't bring it in?

* * *

This is to inform the veterans that the names of all ex-soldiers who have applied for a bonus from the state and can't be found by the postoffice will be announced by the Globe Trotter.

A Wilkinsburg globe trotter reports that yesterday the morning gloom was chased away on the Pennsy local from Wilkinsburg when an absent-minded commuter tendered the conductor a street car check and on the conductor's refusal to accept was ready to put up an argument.

Red Cross Seeking Infantry Captain

An attempt is being made by the Pittsburgh Chapter of the American Red Cross to get in touch with Capt. Ralph C. Becker, who formerly lived at 5648 Callowhill street, Pittsburgh. A statement from the Red Cross said he was a member of Company H, 326th Infantry.

Nature's Way A GENTLE FLUSH

Avoid Laxatives That Constipate!

Ever hear of "cathartic constipation?" Medicine laxatives cause it. Most of them work by irritating the membranes of the digestive tract—and when taken regularly lose their effect. Soon the laxative-constipation habit has you in its grip!

That's why more than 50,000 physicians recommend Pluto Water. For Pluto is not a drug or medicine laxative but a saline mineral water. The same amount each time—no need to increase it—always performs, does not gripe, gives positive results in less than one hour. It cannot give you the laxative habit!

Pluto Water is gentle — but speedy. It promptly opens the pylorus valve — permitting the flush to enter the intestines without anxious hours of waiting.

The proper dilution—one-fifth glass Pluto in four-fifths glass hot water — is practically tasteless. Take it whenever sluggish — get results within an hour — and end that laxative habit! In two sizes: Splits (8 ounces), 25c — large bottles (3 times the quantity), 50c. At all druggists.

RADIO HIGHLIGHTS

Ben Williams' Short Story Dramatized

Sometime ago I urged Ben Ames Williams, one of my favorite short-story writers, to dramatize "They Grind Exceeding Small" and other stories of quaint New England characters for radio broadcasting.

Ben replied that he felt that such persuasion should rightly come from the broadcasting companies, and I turned persuasively to the networks.

Tonight, "They Grind Exceeding Small" makes its appearance on the Columbia-WJAS network at 9 o'clock.

The story, originally published in the Satevepost, concerns the life of a miserly New England skinflint who had a change of heart. The cast is headed by Stephen Fox and Ray B. Collins of the dramatic department.

* * *

Yawning graves, haunted houses and other eerie phenomena of the ghost world provide the neck-prickling material for a new series of dramatized narratives by Elliot O'Donnell, inaugurated over NBC-WCAE tonight at 10:30.

The first of the series, "The Ghost of Hermitage Castle," has its locale in a bleak section of Scotland.

* * *

"Me gustaria ir a casa," sighed homesick young Carlos Gardel, South American baritone. (Which is the Argentine way of saying "Ay Tank Ay Go Home, Now.")

He booked passage to Buenos Aires, only to have NBC-KDKA listeners swamp his ship with mail, asking for more of his langurous love songs.

So, Carlos "theenk he steeck aroun' aw'ile," and sings over KDKA tonight at 8:45.

* * *

* * *

Jack Pearl (The Baron) and Fred Allen of the barren bean, regale the WCAE listeners tonight at 8 and 9 o'clock, respectively.

* * *

Ben Williams

"They Grind Exceeding Small," first of a series of short stories by Ben Ames Williams, is dramatized over WJAS tonight at 9 o'clock.

Local Highlights On WJAS Tonight

Notes About Radio Stars, Stations

By AIRCASTER

Freddy Rodgers' return to the pioneer station as soloist on a daily program (10:15 a. m.) has caused a considerable amount of favorable comment.

The program brings together on the air three of Pittsburgh's radio veterans; Fred with his baritone songs; Glenn with his giggle and Elsie with her talk about frills and furbelows.

Tomorrow morning the veteran trio celebrate an anniversary, staging a surprise party for the radio listeners and causing the several radio editors to rise and shine and get downtown before noon, for once.

* * *

NBC has had a monopoly on the aerial acrobatics in the past, but this year CBS-WJAS takes not only a ringside seat, but features a microphone pickup in a lion's cage.

* * *

Floyd Gibbons returns to the air after a long absence this afternoon from 2 to 2:30 over WCAE.

The rapid-fire talker is neard over an NBC network of 31 stations with Secretary of Commerce Roper. The occasion is the awarding of prizes to Pittsburgh and other cities winning the Second annual Traffic Safety Contest.

* * *

The state of Pensylvania ranks second in the number of radio sets in use . . . 385,900. New York state has nearly twice that number. The total for the United States is approximately 18,000,000 sets.

* * *

Button, Button, Hoosgutta Button and Smith, press agents for Ray Knight and his Cuckoos, inform me that Ray, these spring days is developing a great love of Flora and Fauna.

When I questioned Flora recently, she admitted he was a great lover, but Fauna was a little reticent.

DOCTOR'S ORDERS: "LIMP NOT, MY LADY"

In the Easter Parade!

Let's talk simply. Why will any woman limp? Because of extremely stylish shoes she wouldn't give up. And there's the rub!

Archlock shoes make limping unnecessary. They fit both the feet and the eyes! Whether you have a perfectly normal foot, require arch support, or have foot ailments commonly attributed to rheumatism (according to Dr. Hiss, Orthopedic Surgeon)—Archlock shoes will make your feet happier!

The styles, as well as the construction, result from Dr. Hiss' 15 years' prize experience—during which 20,000 women told him what they like in fashion—as well as in comfort!

Patented Archlock Shoes, $8.50 and $10

Secret Agent X-9 Clue Contest

Clue No. 3

Secret Agent X-9 and Inspector Henderson were working on the suicide-murder riddle that surrounded the death of Arthur Jameson, famous lawyer, whose lifeless body was found in his apartment an hour before.

In falling to the floor, Jameson had crashed into a teatable set for two. A bullet had entered his right temple and the fatal gun was clutched in his right hand. A fragment of the ash tray which he had been using was found in the kitchen and a postmarked letter to Laura Romaine, a woman of questionable past, who was Jameson's sweetheart.

The contents of the letter could be interpreted to mean that Jameson had either contemplated suicide or breaking off the love affair with the woman.

Secret Agent X-9 started an inspection of the rooms of the apartment—first entering the kitchen. A dainty apron that had been worn lay over the back of a chair. There was a bowl with some flour in it and various indications of the preparations of a meal. In the oven was a pan of freshly-baked biscuits, two of which had been removed—evidently the ones that were found, half-eaten among the tea things in the living room. Altogether the kitchen presented a peaceful, domestic scene.

In the corner of another room, the secret agent discovered a key-ring. On it were three keys and the insignia of a local lodge. None of the keys fitted the locks of the doors in the apartment.

"They might be keys to Jameson's office," suggested Inspector Henderson.

"They might," X-9 admitted. From a bookshelf he took down a volume of "American Lawyers Who's Who," and looked up the name of Jameson. Next, he looked up the name of Arthur Fowler, the dead man's partner, who had told the authorities Jameson had cheated him out of a large sum of money.

"Never mind about the woman," he said. "Fowler's the one I want to question!"

What caused Secret Agent X-9, first—to eliminate Miss Romaine as a suspect and, second—to shift his suspicions to Fowler?

The solution will be printed on Saturday, April 7.

$25 in Cash Prizes for The Best Solution of 'The Lawyer Found Dead'

The purpose of the "Secret Agent X-9" three-chapter serial stories is for the boy or girl reader to find the hidden clues and solve the mystery in a letter of not more than 100 words. The most nearly correct solution will be awarded a cash prize of $5 and the 20 next best solutions submitted will be awarded $1 each.

This contest is open to all boys and girls living in the reading area of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

Your solution must be in the office of the "Secret Agent X-9" Contest Editor, Sun-Telegraph Pittsburgh, Pa., before midnight, March 31. The prize winners will be announced in the Sun-Telegraph, Saturday, April 7.

"The Lawyer Found Dead" is the fourth of a series of contest mystery stories, each to run three days—Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The prize awards for each week will total $25 in cash—$5 for the first best solution and $1 each for the 20 next best. Open to boys and girls up to 17 years of age.

A Smart Frock for the Junior Wardrobe

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

A frock designed for the activities of a smart young girl. Isn't it the very thing for school and such, during the spring, and for sports in the summer season? The details go tailored in "grown-up" manner—the smart collar and revers, and the double-breasted closing. Sleeves perk out youthfully and pleats lend lots of animation to the skirt. It might be made of pique, linen, broadcloth, shantung, or one of the new novelty cottons. If daughter, herself, wants to make it—and she surely will—the sewing instructor will be an indispensable guide for her.

Pattern 1513 is available in sizes 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16. Size 12 takes $3\frac{3}{8}$ yards 36-inch fabric.

Send 15 CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

THE NEW SPRING, 1934 EDITION OF THE PATTERN BOOK features all the best spring styles for adults and children. Send for your copy of this interesting, helpful book and be chic this spring. PRICE OF BOOK, 15 CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER, 25 CENTS.

"YOU LEARN WHAT Safety is worth ON A JOB LIKE MINE!"

A CERTIFIED INTERVIEW WITH MISS DOLENA MacDONALD OF BOSTON, MASS.

1. "I know it doesn't pay to take unnecessary risks. It was only natural for me to inquire about safety features."

"That's why I Bought a Plymouth . . . it's got Hydraulic Brakes and a Safety-Steel Body"

IT'S SECOND NATURE for a nurse to think about safety first. Every day she sees the consequences of the other fellow's careless driving.

So when Miss MacDonald set out to buy a new car this year, safety was uppermost in her mind. And after looking at "All Three," she picked Plymouth.

She feels safer with Plymouth's Hydraulic Brakes . . . and she is safer. For they are always equalized. They stop her more quickly, and without dangerous side-skidding or swerving.

Miss MacDonald also liked Plymouth's Safety-Steel Body. Common sense told her that a body of steel reinforced with steel is stronger and safer. And she found Plymouth alone, in the lowest-price field, offered her both of these modern safety features.

Think about safety when you buy your next car . . . and think about comfort, too. Plymouth's Individual Wheel Springing, plus Floating Power engine mountings, give you a smoother, more comfortable ride than you've ever had before in a low-priced car.

• • •

Any Dodge, De Soto or Chrysler dealer will be glad to give you a Plymouth demonstration—without any obligation to you. And don't forget that Plymouth has the lowest-priced 4-door six-cylinder sedan in America. Duplate Safety Plate Glass throughout at the lowest extra cost in the industry.

2. "The mechanical brakes on my old car often made the car swerve . . . then I'd have to have them adjusted."

3. "How different with my new Plymouth! I merely touch the pedal and the hydraulic brakes take hold evenly. They always stop the car quickly—and without side-skidding or swerving."

4. "Brakes aren't the only thing. It amazes me the way Plymouth's new independent front springs just 'walk' right over bumps and ruts."

5. ABOVE—Miss MacDonald and her new De Luxe Plymouth Coupe. Plymouth prices begin at $495 f. o. b. factory, Detroit, Michigan, subject to change without notice.

FIRM ADOPTS JOB INSURANCE

CHICAGO, March 28.—(AP.)—A $1,000,000 plan of "employment assurance" was voted yesterday by the directors and stockholders of the William Wrigley, Jr., Company at the annual meeting.

The plan, as explained by Philip K. Wrigley, president, provides for payment of a percentage of the average wage to any employe laid off by the factory. The percentage paid, he said would be on a sliding scale, with workmen in the lower brackets receiving as high as 80 per cent of their wage during the idle period, and higher paid men lower percentages.

Wrigley explained:

"The idea is to give employes the same 'backlog' of income that stockholders have in the surplus of the company. The company has always tried to be fair with its employes, although in some of the code meetings recently I have been called radical.

"We have life insurance plans, free hospitalization, and other factors in good working conditions. Our factory wage minimums are $22 for men and $18 for women; the code says $15.

"However, in a survey a year ago, we found that the employes still had one source of worry. It was not the amount of pay, but its permanence, that bothered them. This plan is an effort to strengthen this weak point in our policy of accepting the responsibility of large industries to the workers. It is not being radical; it is being fair."

MILLIONS SEE AMERICA OF YESTERDAY

America of yesterday is being viewed by millions in America of today—in order that America of tomorrow may never forget the principles upon which this nation was founded.

Millions of women, through the National Council of Women; through the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary, the Elks clubs, the Lion clubs and military and civic organizations from coast to coast; and a million boys through the Boy Scouts of America are devoting thought to the meaning of America as the days go by.

In Greater Pittsburgh district alone, such organizations as the Allegheny County Federation of Women's Clubs with its more than 100 affiliated groups, V. F. W. Auxiliary of 37 groups, Catholic Daughters of America, United Daughters of the Confederacy, public and Pittsburgh Diocese parish schools, already are actively participating or planning to set up special committees for their members. Many other groups studying active participation plans.

SEARCH FOR TEXT

All this effort is being put forth to help the Mount Rushmore National Memorial Commission find a text of 600 words, that will serve as a permanent memorial, to be carved by the genius of Gutzon Borglum the sculptor, high in the Black Hills of South Dakota.

Under the sponsorship of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and associated Hearst newspapers, a nationwide competition is going forward. Every man, woman and child in the United States and its posessions is eligible for the cash awards of thousands of dollars and scholarships, as well as the honor of influencing that final carven message to posterity.

Today, in another column, there is the second article of a series of nine special features—each dealing with one of the nine episodes in the national development which MUST be treated in the final winning test. These episodes are covered in the rules which are printed every Sunday in the Sun-Telegraph.

MILLIONS TO AID

Join America's millions in this stupendous effort to secure from the united effort of a nation, a nation's valuation of its own ideals. And remember that as President Roosevelt, who is chairman of the final committee of awards, has said:

"It is not the mere acquisition of territory that was the significant thing in the country's growth—it was the human spiritual growth that these additional opportunities stimulated that was the vital American achievement."

No fancy writing is necessary. No wide knowledge of history is required. If you will read each day the special articles by Henry Woodhouse on each of the nine subjects to be incorporated, you will have all the historical background that is needed. The rest is inspiration. It is YOUR country! It is YOUR memorial. It is YOUR competition — and you should prepare RIGHT NOW to take your own active part in it.

Your chance to win is as good as anybody else's!

EMMA GOLDMAN TO GET HALL

Emma Goldman, deported from the United States some years ago for radical activities, can speak in North Side Carnegie Hall, and it'll be all right with City Council.

David Cadugan, librarian at the hall, yesterday told Council he had a request for her to speak there the evening of April 11. An affirmative vote was given without debate.

Mrs. Goldman is in the country for a limited time by government permission. Dr. William J. Van Essen, Socialist county chairman, will attend the meeting.

CONSTITUTION HELD 'MOST PERFECT' LAW

52-Word Preamble Model for World Documents

[EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of articles by Mr. Woodhouse on the nine episodes in American history that are to be recounted in the Mt. Rushmore Memorial.]

By HENRY WOODHOUSE

The world's wisest and greatest minds have characterized the Constitution of the United States as the most perfect organic law ever written.

Thousands of statesmen and leaders of thought throughout the world have stood in wonderment when they have realized the full significance of the Constitution of the United States.

The fifty-two words preamble represented an entirely new formula of government at the time of the adoption of the Constitution, September 17, 1787, and has been used as the model in framing the constitutions of the world's republic since.

The governments of nations of the world were mostly monarchical at the time the Constitution was adopted, and were all in constant strife and tottering.

Washington aptly described the conditions when he said:

"Standing, as it were, in the midst of fallen empires, it should be our aim to assume a station and attitude which will preserve us from being overwhelmed in their ruins."

PROBLEM FACED

How to accomplish that aim was the problem. The 13 states of the United States had federated themselves for the purpose of fighting the war of independence.

The Continental Congress had little power, and there was no financial provision for operating the federal government.

The 13 states, made independent sovereignties by the winning of the War for Independence, were inclined to rivalries and independent acts which threatened internal peace and the union.

A new agreement was needed between the states, to bind them to unity of action, for their common welfare. At last a way was found to call the constitutional convention, which assembled at Philadelphia on May 24, 1787, and remained in session until September 17, 1787, when the Constitution was finally adopted.

The simplicity and completeness of the Constitution of the United States astonished the world's statesmen. The preamble—which was the same then as now—was an innovation. The people are declared to be the source of the power of government, and the purpose of the government is declared, as follows:

"We the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America."

THREE BRANCHES

Then follow the articles creating and defining the powers and duties of the three branches of the federal government, (1) the legislative, represented by Congress; (2) the executive, represented by the President and his cabinet; (3) the judiciary, represented by the courts.

George Washington, who acted as chairman of the constitutional convention, gave this clear definition of the significance of the achievement in a letter written from Mt. Vernon on July 20, 1788, addressed to Sir Edward Newenham, as follows:

"You will permit me to say that a greater drama is now acting on this theater, than has heretofore been brought on the American stage, or any other in the world.

"We exhibit at present the novel and astonishing spectacle of a whole people deliberating calmly on what form of government will be most conducive to their happiness; and deciding with an unexpected degree of unanimity in favor of a system, which they conceive calculated to answer the purpose."

In less than hundred words Washington presented a cleancut picture of his clear understanding of the fact that history had never before witnessed the stupendous spectacle of a people determining their own destinies by creating a form of government by deliberation of the factors that would tend to insure their happiness, without interference from rulers, dictators or others claiming a right to rule.

JEFFERSON'S VIEWS

In 1823, 36 years after the adoption of the Constitution, Thomas Jefferson summarized the cardinal provisions of the Constitution thus:

"To preserve the republican form and principles of our Constitution, and cleave to the salutary distribution of powers which that has established, are the two sheet anchors of our union.

"If driven from either, we shall be in danger of foundering."

In accordance with the provisions of the Constitution, elections were held in 1789. George Washington was elected President of the United States by unanimous vote.

He was inaugurated in New York, which was then the capital of the United States, on April 30, 1789, and proceeded to demonstrate to the world the superiority of the constitutional form of government.

Under Washington's guiding hand the United States had tranquility, union and plenty while the rest of the world was in a state of anarchy.

That fact was stated in a letter sent to President Washington in 1794 by the British Prime Minister, the Earl of Shelbourne (afterwards Marquis Lansdowne, introducing Talleyrand, the noted French statesman.

He wrote:

"In the present situation in Europe, he has nowhere to look for an asylum, except in that country which is happy enough to preserve its peace and its happiness under your auspices, to which we may be all of us in our turn obliged to look up, if some bounds are not speedily put to the opposite storms of anarchy and despotism, which threaten Europe with desolation."

The Constitution, and the traditional precedents established by Washington, Jefferson, and other great Americans, have been the factors that have preserved the United States and guided it in its career as a nation.

The framing and adoption of the Constitution marked the second great epoch in the national life of the United States.

THE SCULPTOR OF MOUNT RUSHMORE

GUTZON BORGLUM, WHO HAS BEEN IN WASHINGTON PERFECTING PLANS FOR THE MOUNT RUSHMORE COMMITTEE, SAYS OF THE MEMORIAL:—

"ALEXANDER THE GREAT WANTED TO CONVERT THE OLYMPIAN MOUNTAINS INTO SCULPTURE — MICHAEL ANGELO WISHED TO CARVE COLOSSAL FIGURES ON CARRARA MOUNTAINS — AMERICA ALONE IS ACHIEVING IN A NATIONAL MEMORIAL THE DREAMS OF THESE GREAT MEN."

DRINK HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST

If you are accustomed to wake up with a coated tongue, foul breath or a dull, dizzy headache; or, if your meals sour and turn into gas and acids, you have a real surprise awaiting you.

Tomorrow morning, immediately upon arising, drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is intended to first neutralize and then wash out of your stomach, liver, kidneys and thirty feet of intestines all the indigestible waste, poisons, sour bile and toxins, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal.

Those subject to sick headaches, backaches, bilious attacks, constipation or any form of stomach trouble, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store and begin enjoying this morning inside-bath.

Just as hot water and soap cleanse, purify and freshen the skin, so hot water and a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Limestone phosphate is an inexpensive white powder and almost tasteless.

Through the Spyglass

Viewing The New

You little shoppers who want to learn the names of the shops whose items are listed in this column day by day . . . call GRANT 6500 . . . and ASK FOR THE SPYGLASS. Or send in a stamped self-addressed envelope for your reply. THE SPYGLASS is always on the alert, peering out new "finds" . . . and you will be answered promptly!

* * *

Hanging out our shopping window we've been! Training our spyglass first up the street, then down, and getting eyefulls of the passing show for Easter-tide! One of the first of the parade being . . .

This thing of accessories! Scarfs fluttering in the breeze, trailing their ends of aquarelle, pink and brown, lipsticky reds and so forth. Scarfs wearing your initials.

One of the stores has beauties in triangle style . . . crepe with fringed edges on two sides . . . and the most knockout array of colorings that ever came off a color palette. $1.00 for these . . . and $1 extra for a 3-letter monogram, hand-done.

* * *

And another spot has the newest of charmers! Fishnet . . fishnet such as you've never seen before even if you've spent summers on Cape Cod—

For this mesh is in inch-wide squares . . . dyed an emerald-green, a burnt sienna that's gorgeous . . . a blue like cornflowers . . . as well as the wanted white, red and navy! Great chunks of it . . . a yard wide . . . and you wear it spangled across your chest almost any way. $1.95.

* * *

It WOULD have to be the end of the month when we heard this piece of news. It just WOULD . . . but we took our flattened purse from under our clutching arm and spent our last lunch-money just the same.

On polo shirts! Grand new polo shirts which (we'll grant you) never drew breath on a polo field . . . but which nevertheless are quite sporty, not to mention, flattering and feminine with their beltings and bandings.

They're of shantung (called "silk linen" in the latest parlance) and, of course, wash and wear like nobody's business, even yours! They're in dusty pinks with brown . . . in aquarelle with navy . . . in hotsy red with navy . . . guaranteed to lay your friends and enemies low with envy! Sizes 32 to 38 at $3.50 . . . and little hats to match (up in the back, down in the front) at $1.98.

* * *

However! . . . maybe a WHOLE new blouse is out of line just now . . . and if it is, we can do nothing better than shoo you hurriedly in the direction of the shop where dwell the rustling, bustling taffeta plaids that hook over your neck . . . smooth down your frontage . . . ruffle and bow as bit at the throat, and tie 'round the waist . . . for $1.98. Also polka-dotted smarties at the same price.

* * *

As to the enhancing of your coat . . . you can't do better than some of the new flowers which have bloomed in the Spring. We know where some grow in plaid pique . . . in red and green, yellow . . . blue . . . done up with patent leather. Nice fistfuls of them for 75c.

On the more demure but quite as smart variety-plaid gingham ones at 50c the nosegay. Tuck them under your chin and your smile will be irrestable!

* * *

Or else . . . wear one of the BRAND NEW (oh, very new) pique collars on your furless coat! These only cost a dollar ($1.00) and they're more than flattering on dark coats or suits. All white ones . . . black and white . . . navy and white . . . brown and yellow, and navy and yellow . . . easily tacked on, and then taken off to be laundered. A tiny pearl button on each revere holding it down. All by way of freshness and Springiness!

Holy Week Sermonette

Today's Lenten sermonette is given by the Rev. Dr. J. C. Broomfield, president of the General Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church. The Rev. Dr. Broomfield is one of a group of representative ministers, writing special Lenten sermons for the Sun-Telegraph under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Council of Churches.

EASTER MEDITATION

Matt. 28:6—"He is not here, He is risen, as He said."

Easter is high tide in Christendom. Bethlehem was an experiment, Calvary was a problem. The empty tomb was a demonstration. Easter is the keystone, Bethlehem and Calvary the pillars, of the arch of salvation. The Resurrection crowns the Incarnation and the Atonement. There is only one empty grave in all the world, and its emptiness fills the world with hope. Other graves are famous for what they hold, this grave is famous for what it held but lost.

After 40 centuries of filled graves, one was found that was empty; and, filled with the hope its emptiness creates, faith demands death to reveal its sting and the grave to show its victory.

I am not defending the Resurrection. For me—God ordained it, Christ accomplished it, I believe it, that settles it.

During the Lenten season we are looking back to His resurrection, and forward to our own resurrection. In the one case we hear Him say—"I am the resurrection and the Life," and in the other—"He that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live again." Glorious under-girding.

HEARD TO HEAD MOTOR CLUB

Dr. Thomas M. Heard, Jr., former potentate of Syria Shrine, was elected president of the Pittsburgh Motor Club at the annual meeting of the board of directors last night in the William Penn Hotel. Fred A. Fichtel, head of the club for the past two years, declined renomination.

All other officers were re-elected

I COULD CRY— LOOK AT MY MANICURE AFTER DISHWASHING

Dishwashing with harsh soaps may be to blame when "manicures" look unattractive too soon! Such soaps tend to make nails brittle, roughen the cuticle, streak the polish. Why not change to Lux?

POLITICS

G. O. P. Whirling Like Six-Day Cyclists

By MARK SHIELDS

The Republican gubernatorial six-day bicycle race continued to whirl today, with the riders, like those at Duquesne Garden, getting nowhere toward cutting down the field of 18 who have filed as candidates.

Mr. Shields

Philadelphia is the hub of the manipulating which is proceeding with a view to narrowing the field and selecting not more than two men who would be eligible to widespread organization support. Senator James J. Coyne, of Pittsburgh, one of those called in by the regular leaders to help shape policy, today declared that the controversy eventually would lie between Lieut. Gov. Edward C. Shannon and Attorney General William A. Schnader.

This cannot be interpreted as meaning that the state committee leaders will put the two forward, but indicates that the Oakland Senator at the moment regards the two as the strongest contenders for the actual primary battle.

Joseph R. Grundy, friendly to Shannon and Schnader, is trying to sidetrack both in favor of Judge Robert E. Lamberton, of Philadelphia. This preference presents a fight which, if Grundy succeeds in having Judge Lamberton put forward as the state committee choice, will split Philadelphia even more than it is.

* * *

McDevitt Bitter Foe Of Judge Lamberton

Judge Harry McDevitt and those associated with him, including President James Clark, of the Board of County Commissioners of Philadelphia, will have none of Lamberton, and it was to impede him that McDevitt filed petitions to become a candidate. If Lamberton remains in the field it is practically certain that McDevitt will also.

Under such conditions consideration must be given to the candidacies of former Congressman Thomas W. Phillips, of Butler, and Attorney Charles J. Margiotti, of Pittsburgh. Either would profit from a fight within the organization, and both insist they will be actual candidates.

Phillips, in a statement today, took enjoyment from the tribulations of the hysterical organization. He made a direct bid for the independent vote when he said:

"Only one thing would suit me better than to contest for the nomination with a multiplicity of candidates, and that is to have as my opponent a single candidate leaning heavily on the organization."

The Margiotti candidacy is the real enigma to the practical politicians. Some affect to ridicule the pretensions of the outspoken criminal lawyer. Others frankly say that a set of circumstances can be created through bickering within the organization which will make him formidable.

Margiotti is in the East, keeping free from the conferences of the Republican leaders, but reported by some of his friends here to be receiving promising assurances of assistance from independent elements. The type of campaign of which Margiotti is capable, a rabble-rousing appeal to the average voter, may be exactly suited to political conditions this year.

In the preliminary discussions in Philadelphia, Judge Marion D. Patterson, of Blair County, has been somewhat obscured, but his friends are not pessimistic.

* * *

Many Candidates to Be Left in the Field

Whatever the outcome of the parleys in the East, it is reasonably certain that State Chairman Martin's prediction that not more than three or four candidates will remain in the field will not become fact. The regular organization will be lucky if it can confine to three the number of candidates who continue in the fight with some reasonable hope of substantial professional political support.

To this group must be added such men as Phillips and Margiotti, and it will not be surprising if at least half a dozen names are on the ballot. Nothing definite will be known until next Monday night, when the time for withdrawal expires. It is the belief in political circles that the very last minute will be required to determine who is in and who is out.

Meanwhile, as the candidates with organization hopes lay their case before the bosses, the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor is preparing a questionnaire which may be quite as important in its eventualities as the preference of some professional faction. The federation intends to quiz every candidate for any office as to his attitude on social and industrial legislation.

County Controller Robert G. Woodside returned from Harrisburg today optimistic over the chances of Gen. Shannon. Together with County Treasurer Robert S. Cain and Recorder of Deeds Samuel D. Foster he conferred with soldier leaders from all over the state. According to Woodside encouraging responses to the Shannon candidacy came from sources outside soldier ranks.

Anti-Coyne Elements Seek United Front

Republican elements in the Thirty-second congressional district opposed to Coyne will meet Friday night in an effort to unify opposition to Congressman M. J. Muldowney, running for re-election with the Oakland senator's approval. Disaffected organization representatives as well as some spokesmen for the Pinchot independents will be represented.

Whether the forces backing D C Davies, secretary to Woodside, will engage in the conference is not certain.

MAYOR IN MOVE FOR QUIZ ON GRAND JURIES

Bar Association Told Of Disadvantages In System

Mayor McNair laid aside his single tax program long enough to attend a closed meeting of the Allegheny Bar Association at which a resolution was passed yesterday recommending that an investigation be made by the legislative committee into the grand jury system.

Anthony Lucas, Pittsburgh attorney and former District Attorney of Houghton County, Mich., addressed the meeting, which was called by a petition signed by Mayor McNair and nine other attorneys. Attorney Lucas discussed the disadvantages of the grand jury system and cited savings in time, money and efficiency where the grand jury system is not employed. He said:

"According to the Pennsylvania Crime Commission, one out of every six cases brought before the grand jury was ignored in 1928."

Quoting from statistics compiled by Prof. Raymond Moley, formerly of President Roosevelt's brain trust, Attorney Lucas continued:

"Successful prosecutions are from 18 to 25 per cent higher in non-grand jury states. Ninety-two per cent of charges resulted in pleas of guilty in non-grand jury states, while only 60 per cent of those charged pleaded guilty in states where the grand jury system is in force."

WHERE TIME IS LOST

The average time between arrest and trial in criminal cases in Milwaukee, Wis., Detroit, Mich., and Indianapolis, Ind., three non-grand jury cities, is, respectively, 17, 21 and 35 days. In New York City and Chicago, where grand juries exist, from 43 to 74 days elapse between arrest and trial, and in Pittsburgh more than 60 days, Attorney Lucas declared. He continued:

"Why should our grand jury be a clearing house for a lot of foolish prosecutions which could easily be settled by a squire or magistrate? In Michigan there is a Recorder's Court, with an examining judge instead of a grand jury for ordinary criminal cases. Of course the grand jury can and should be called when occasion arises, by petition of the Judge or on motion to the Judge by the District Attorney."

PUBLIC PROBES

Attorney Lucas believes that a grand jury should be retained for prosecutions of cases of conspiracy, corruption or any crime in which there is great public interest. Although he did not say so in the meeting, his private opinion is that the grand jury system could not be abolished or changed in Pennsylvania without an amendment to the state constitution.

At the conclusion of Attorney Lucas' discussion, which it was believed followed closely Mayor McNair's own line of thought on the matter, a resolution by Attorney Herman P. Eberharter was adopted that the president of the Bar Association, John G. Frazer, appoint a committee of five members to make an inquiry and investigation into the grand jury system as it is operated and conducted in Allegheny County. However, the Mayor will take up the matter with the legislative committee consisting of Albert C. Hirsch, chairman; George J. Campbell, Max J. Spann and Frank B. Ingersoll.

COUNCIL DELAYS DECISION ON RAILWAYS

Kennedy Instructed To Consult With Company Lawyer

Possibility that the Pittsburgh Railways Company may be prevailed upon to make some definite concession in its pending contract with the city has been suggested by City Utilities Counsel John J. Kennedy.

Council, meanwhile, disagreeing with Kenedy on how much time it has to make up its mind, shunted off a decision on the contract until Thursday or maybe Monday.

Kennedy yesterday suggested that, in view of conditions proposed by Councilman Walter R. Demmler, he thought that further negotiations might result in some offer from the company. Nothing but gestures of co-operation had been forthcoming so far, he admitted.

But when Kennedy said a Public Service Commission service hearing had been fixed for May 2, Councilman William A. Magee told him that was impossible as the present temporary contract expired the last day of April.

Most of Council upheld Magee. And Kennedy was instructed to iron out the matter with E. P. Griffiths, general counsel for the Philadelphia Company.

Council has before it for study voluminous statistical reports presented yesterday by the Traction Conference Board, after Council's request of last week.

MAGEE AWAITS P.S.C. ACTION

The resignation of Councilman William A. Magee as counsel for the Traction Conference Board has not been accepted and will not be until the question of extending the traction agreement, now before the Public Service Commission, is settled, according to a member of the board.

Magee's resignation has been on file with the traction board since January 1, and was intended to take effect as soon as the controversy over the extension of the traction contract is settled.

Magee said:

"I intend, if Council does not go along with renewal of the present agreement, to represent the views of the board before the Public Service Commission."

Magee said his reason for resigning was a desire to avoid holding two public offices.

MISS BARBARA BENNETT 'KAUTZ' MORTON DOWNEY

MR. DOWNEY AND HIS WIFE AND THEIR "POLICE DOG" . . . KAUTZ IS A NICE PET AND CERTAINLY LOTS OF PROTECTION

BRIDGE SURVEY METHOD HIT

The Iron and Steel Workers' Association yesterday protested to the County Commissioners that none of their 700 membership had been employed on the county project of inspecting 10 bridges.

The protest was made by Guy Keyser, secretary of the union, which he said was independent of the International Union.

Commissioners C. C. McGovern and W. D. Mansfield said all the men were employed by C. G. Dunnells, engineer in charge of the inspection, who was given a contract to do so after the collapse of the Rankin Bridge approach.

Commissioner C. M. Barr explained that there were 20 Dunnells men working and that the contract was for $34,000, but that there were also a number of CWA men on the project under Dunnells' direction. These jobs were filled and are being paid for by the CWA, but application for them had been made by the county.

Morton Downey, Wife Reveal Bliss 'Recipe'

Singing Star, Dancer 'Blame' Each Other For Happiness

Morton Downey and his attractive wife, the former Barbara Bennett today gave the world an "inside tip" on how to be happily married.

The golden-voiced tenor, filling a stage engagement here, revealed in two words what he termed the secret of his wedded life:

"My wife!"

"Ours has been a perfect marriage because we have been devoted to each other from the beginning. We did not get married for publicity as many of the stars on the coast do. That's why there are so many divorces."

SHE "BLAMES" HIM

And Mrs. Downey the erstwhile dancing beauty and sister of Joan and Constance Bennett, said this:

"My husband is the secret of my happy marriage!

"The trouble today is that too many people get married without thinking first—they have nothing more than just a yen for marriage. It takes genuine love to make happy marriages."

Secret elopements for young people who cannot afford to live together at the time were defended by Mrs. Downey. Perhaps she recalled that her marriage to Downey in January, 1929, was more or less of a secret.

YOUNG SON ON COAST

The Downey's 16-month-old son, Morton, Jr., is in California with Joan Bennett enjoying the sunshine. They said they expect to see the baby in a few days.

Another member of the Downey family, however, came to Pittsburgh—it's Kautz, a huge German police dog. Downey, who is a great fancier of dogs has many of them at his Rye, N. Y., home, said:

COUNCIL SEEKS EXPERT'S AID

Council hoped to get the "lowdown" on the housing situation today from Dr. Carol Aronovici, of New York. His name came up yesterday as Council was discussing the creation of a supervisor of housing in the Health Department.

Councilman William A. Magee suggested he be invited to address the group before a successor is named to Lee Sellers, acting temporarily.

Yesterday Dr. Aronovici characterized McNair Manor, the little house near the jail, as a threat of more slums rather than a solution for housing conditions.

Magee said he ought to be heard before any extensive housing or slum clearing program is undertaken.

Cities of today have mostly failed financially, Dr. Aronovici declared, in his second address on "Social Trends and Community Building" last night at Carnegie Tech. The last of the series of three lectures will be given tonight.

MAYOR ASSAILS MEMBERS IN MESSAGE

Charges 'People's Will' Flouted; Aligns Self With Magee

Flaying City Council for ignoring his recommendations for economy, Mayor McNair has vetoed the 1934 salary ordinance.

In a ringing message to Council, the Mayor accused that body of forcing unnecessary appropriations on the executive branch of the government, of flouting the people's will and of carrying on a principle that will in time destroy public credit.

A special meeting of Council has been called for tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. by President Robert Garland. At that time, unless there is a sudden change of front in Council, the salary bill will be enacted over the Mayor's veto.

But before that can happen, Council will be under fire at a hearing at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow granted to the Allegheny County League of Women Voters. Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, the Mayor's budget adviser, and Mrs. J. O. Miller, will be the chief speakers.

ALIGNED WITH MAGEE

The Mayor, in his economy stand, has aligned himself with the man with whom he has been more or less at odds since the beginning of his administration, Councilman William A. Magee.

MAYOR'S STAND

In his letter to Council, the Mayor reminded them of the economies suggested in the report of Mrs. Smith. He recalled their two months' deliberations on the budget and the resulting salary bill.

He pointed out that the 1934 budget is out of balance by well over one and one-half million dollars. He stated:

"I do not believe that we can long flout the people's will, if we are to go to the people annually for funds which we could well save by elimination of unnecessary or wasteful positions.

"I do not believe in the principle that legislative bodies should engage in forcing upon executives funds which they must spend."

ASSAILS STAGGER PLAN

The Mayor reminded Council that his recommendations (Smith report) involved specific salary savings of more than $500,000.

"PAY AS YOU GO"

Borrowing was criticized by the Mayor. He stated:

"We should stand firm in our purpose to meet our expenses with the taxes we collect and balance the budget each year as we go along."

When Council takes up his veto message tomorrow, the Mayor will be in Philadelphia addressing the Penn Athletic Club on the extension of the graded tax system to school districts. The engagement was made some time ago.

Council has taken the first step to approve four bond ordinances totaling $4,560,000 which would help the city tide over immediate financial difficulties and finance new city services.

After being told by Controller James P. Kerr that a highly favorable bond market exists at present for the city's securities, Finance Committee of Council approved four issues.

PITTSBURGHER INVENTS WELDING PROCESS

Steel Industry Faces New Era, Engineer Declares

Discovery of a new steel welding process which produces steel pipe so perfectly joined that microphotographs can't find the seam was disclosed here today.

Howard J. Burnish, electrochemist and steel mill engineer, with offices here, is the inventor. Exhibiting specimens of steel pipe produced by his new process, he claims that the discovery will revolutionize the industry.

Present equipment, he says, including machinery in many Pittsburgh district mills, is threatened with obsolescence.

Explaining the process, Burnish said:

"There isn't any seam to be seen because we have found a way to return the welded section to the identical atomic structure of the original sheet from which the pipe is made.

The biggest advantage of his invention, Burnish declares, is that his process produces a pipe that is a perfect circle, the same thickness at every point.

Other advantages claimed by Burnish for his process include cheaper pipe to build and lay because less steel is wasted; stronger pipe, able to resist the pounding of pumps; perfect welding of commercial stainless steel, high carbon, and alloy steels, including thin sheets for automobile bodies; and pipe in much longer lengths.

He predicts that stainless steel made by his invention will bring steel pipe into competition with copper and brass.

It will cost, Burnish estimates, from four to five million dollars to tool a steel mill to manufacture pipe in the new way.

He has been working on the discovery for 15 years.

SIX FLEE FIRE IN GREENTREE

Awakened by crackling flames, Joseph Popichak, unemployed, aided his wife and four children from their blazing three-story frame dwelling on the Noblestown road, Greentree, early today.

In their nightclothing the family fled into the cold as flames shot high into the air from the burning home, lighting up the entire countryside.

They battled the fire for four hours, while icicles formed on the hose. Trees drenched with water glistened as ice formed.

The interior of the house was destroyed, with all contents. Assistant Fire Chief Charles Nelson, of East Carnegie, placed the damage at $7,000.

Women to Present City Finance Ideas

Suggestions concerning the city's financial condition will be made when a delegation from the Allegheny County League of Women Voters appears before Council tomorrow. The league's arguments will be presented by Mrs. J. O. Miller, sister of Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, budget adviser to Mayor McNair.

TWINS, 2, NEAR DEATH IN FIRE

Twin 2-year-old boys were recovering today in the Braddock General Hospital after being overcome by smoke when their older brother started a fire in their home at 1135 Wilkins avenue, North Braddock, late yesterday, police reported.

They were Gerald and Eugene Sombo. Firemen discovered them in the smoke-filled dining room. Both were unconscious when found and were taken to the hospital.

When his mother, Mrs. Margaret Sombo, went to a nearby store, Robert, 6, fired a coal stove in the kitchen. The stove became red hot and ignited clothing and blankets hung up to dry. Robert ran next door for help and the firemen were called.

Returning home and being informed of the fire, Mrs. Sombo collapsed. John Sombo, the father, and a son, John, Jr., also returned home shortly after the fire. The firemen estimated the damage to the two-story frame dwelling at $1,500.

Sunday Games Law Ordered by Council

The city solicitor has been instructed by Council to introduce an ordinance licensing Sunday baseball and football games. Voters at the last election approved the amendment which made Sunday sports possible, but legislation by Council is now required to legalize them.

40 Chickens Lost When Coop Burns

Forty chickens were suffocated in a fire in a coop owned by William Nesbit, 1126 Moyer street, West End, last night. Damage to the coop was estimated at $35.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 28.
To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Mr. Wrigley, the chewing wax man, did a thing today that will eventually become universal. He set aside a sum of money for unemployment insurance. He put by a million dollars. On April 1 steel will raise wages 10 per cent. No April fools joke out of that.

Funniest thing in this controversy over a bill to regulate Wall street. Wall street now wants to write their own bill. They are pleading guilty, but want the privilege of pronouncing their own sentence.

Wonder who the braintruster was that wanted us to go Moscow.

Yours,
WILL.

TREASURER CAIN AIDS FIGHT ON LEAGUE

Adding his protest to the attempts to force the United States into the League of Nations and its World Court, County Treasurer Robert S. Cain, today sent to the Sun-Telegraph a petition containing the names of more than a dozen persons whom he had personally solicited for their signatures. Cain is a World War veteran and was in active service as a captain in France.

Added to Capt. Cain's protest came the petitions from Miles Loveland, Adjutant of Overbrook Post No. 1620, Veterans of Foreign Wars. Nearly 100 names were included in the two lengthy petitions sent in by Loveland. A word of praise and cheer was added to the petitions in a short letter attached. In this letter Loveland said:

"This post is behind this movement 100 per cent and we only hope and pray that other posts will take the same action."

Edward Felkes, a World War veteran of Erie, Pa., also congratulated the Sun-Telegraph on its stand to keep the United States out of foreign entanglements. In a brief note attached to a list of signers, Felkes said:

"The Sun-Telegraph has always had the betterment and freedom of our nation and its citizens at heart. I am only too glad to be able to help keep our nation out of another war."

Adjutant C. R. Dickson of the Maj. J. R. Lynch Post, No. 481 of Reading, Pa., obtained the names of 66 of his comrads on two petitions he sent in to the Sun-Telegraph today. The Shawnee Plymouth Post No. 1425 at Plymouth, Pa., sent in more than 70 names on petitions circulated among post members.

Lawrence L. Laney of Munhall filled out one petition in short order and turned it into the Sun-Telegraph today and from Conneautville, Pa., came a lengthy petition from C. G. Melcher, prominent businessman. The Conneautville petition contained 36 signatures. Other petitions received today from Indiana, Pa., with more than a score of signatures; from Hannibal, O., with 35 signers, from Coolville, O., with 36 signatures and one from Spartansburg, Pa., with 65 names.

There are many petitions available at the Sun-Telegraph office. Have you gone on record as opposing the League of the World Court? You can take an active part against this propaganda by simply sending to the League Court Editor for a petition, signing it and returning it immediately. If you prefer, you may use the petition printed in this paper.

PETITION AGAINST PARTICIPATION
In the LEAGUE of NATIONS and World Court

If you want to save America from European entanglements and keep your country out of foreign wars, and foreign wars out of your country, sign this petition:

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES:

We protest AGAINST the United States participating in the League of Nations or in the World Court of the League of Nations, with or without "reservations."

We petition our Federal Government to keep our United States "free from foreign entanglements," as the Father of Our Country wisely enjoined.

We urge our Congress at Washington to keep our government from meddling in foreign affairs, and to keep foreign nations from meddling in our American affairs.

As loyal American citizens, we ask our loyal representatives to keep our country out of foreign conflicts and complications and to keep foreign conflicts and complications out of our country.

NAME	ADDRESS

Additional names may be added to this petition by pasting a sheet of paper hereto. PRESENTED through the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

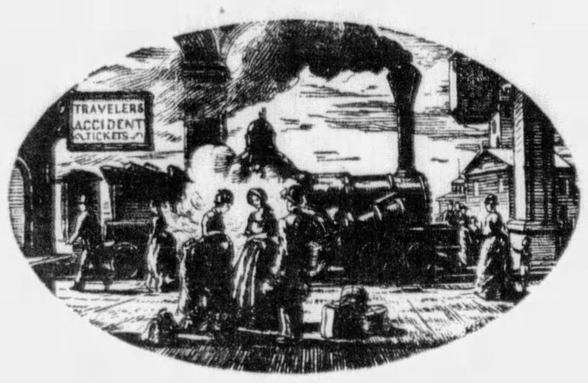
THE TRAVELERS



Progress of 70 Years

SEVENTY years ago, on April 1, 1864, the first accident insurance policy in America was issued by The Travelers Insurance Company, Hartford, Connecticut.

WHILE traveling in England in 1859, James G. Batterson, the founder of The Travelers, had conceived the idea of the Company. His home city, Hartford, was already famed as a center of fire and life insurance but in England he was offered a form of insurance of which he, with all of his insurance associations, had never heard—an accident ticket.

Instantly, he wondered why America shouldn't have a company offering similar insurance. As he rode on the English train and enjoyed the satisfaction of the insurance protection which the ticket provided—a substantial amount that had cost a few pence—he wondered why accident insurance shouldn't cover all the accidental hazards of life, as well as those of travel, and why policies shouldn't

Returning to the United States he found the business outlook decidedly unpropitious for his new project. He decided to wait.

But in 1863 he wearied of longer postponing his plans. He recognized that uncertainties always existed and determined to go ahead. The Travelers Insurance Company was chartered and issued its first insurance contract April 1, 1864.

TO its pioneer line of accident insurance The Travelers soon added life insurance, later liability. Through the creation of The Travelers Indemnity Company the various casualty insurance lines that cover loss of property were taken up: burglary, robbery, theft, steam boiler, plate glass, collision and machinery insurance; and, later, through The Travelers Fire Insurance Company, fire, windstorm and inland marine forms of insurance were added.

Besides being the pioneer in accident insurance, The Travelers Companies have been the first to insure automobiles. The first life insurance policy providing an income to the beneficiary instead of lump sum settlement was a Travelers contract.

The funds entrusted to The Travelers Companies have been invested conservatively. In 1933, $27,400,000 of U. S. Government bonds were added, making a total of $112,200,000, in addition to cash of over $18,000,000. The assets of The Travelers Companies are distributed as follows:

	Dec. 31, 1933
U. S. Government Securities	16.1%
Other Public Securities	12.3
Railway Securities	10.7
Public Utility Securities	10.5
Other Securities	5.6
First Mortgage Loans	13.5
Real Estate	5.5
Loans on Company's Policies	17.7
Cash on Hand and in Banks	2.7
Interest Accrued	1.4
Premiums Outstanding and Deferred	3.9
All Other Assets	.1
Total	100.0%

After seventy years of service to the American people, in good times and bad, The Travelers offers the benefits of wide experience, ample resources, and complete insurance service throughout the United States and Canada.

COLLEGE GROUP TO REVISE PA. CONSTITUTION

(Pennsylvania's 60-year-old Constitution will be completely revised at an intercollegiate constitutional convention in Harrisburg next month. Details of the convention plans are told in today's article, one of a series the Sun-Telegraph is publishing in its campaign to lower taxes through elimination of waste and duplication in government.)

More than 200 students, representing more than 30 colleges and universities from all parts of the state, will hold their own constitutional convention next month in Harrisburg. The delegates, all students of political economy, will gather in the legislative chambers in the State Capitol and without advice, instruction or guidance of any political leader, statesman or educator, completely revise Pennsylvania's 60-year-old Constitution.

The convention will open April 27 and close at noon Sunday, April 29. John Bracken, a University of Pittsburgh senior, will be convention chairman.

Bracken said that the only outside speaker at the convention will be Gov. Gifford Pinchot, who is scheduled to make the opening address, welcoming the students to the convention. Attending the convention will be two technical experts from the office of Attorney General William A. Schnader. The experts will not take any part in the convention, but will keep the youthful delegates posted on technical matters.

At present there are 32 institutions preparing to send delegates. Each college or university will name certain members of the delegation to study certain phases of the constitution. There will be committee meetings on all phases of the constitution the opening day of the convention.

The delegations will consist of from six to 20 members, all prepared to discuss questions on the bill of rights, legislative and executive powers; judicial procedure; election and popular control of government; taxation and finance; local government; public welfare and social problems and education.

Students who attend the convention as delegates will not have much time for play as the program, as far as it has been completed, include morning, afternoon and evening sessions on the first two days and a full morning session on Sunday, April 29, the closing day.

A tentative outline of the desirable changes has been prepared by a committee of educators and economists. This committee consists of Prof. W. Brooke Graves, William C. Beyer and Thomas J. Walker, all members of the Philadelphia Conference on Government.

Miss Genevieve Blatt, a graduate student at Pitt, will be chairman of the delegation which will represent the local university. She said there will be about 20 members in the delegation.

American Taxed Heavily From Cradle to Grave

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service

NEW YORK, March 28.—What does the average American pay in direct and indirect taxes?

If the boys who staged the Boston Tea Party were living in 1934 they probably would have jumped in the harbor themselves.

The tax collectors, for federal, state and municipal government chisel away from 15 to 25 per cent of the yearly income of Mr. Average Citizen, a survey conducted by International News Service disclosed today.

From birth to death, the modern American pays and pays, in his need for shelter, food, business and recreation.

CRADLE TAXED

When Mr. Average American is born, the lumber in his cradle is taxed as well as the coal in the furnace to keep him warm. The baby powder (to sweeten him for future taxation) is taxed. His toys are taxed. His baby ring is taxed.

The telephone message which brought the doctor and the telegram which announced the proud event to his relatives are taxable gestures.

The electric light which was turned on when he cried at night and the gas which burned under the hot water are taxable.

His parents move to the suburbs to give baby an even break. The deed to the new house costs tax money. The mortgage gives a tax of $5 for every thousand. There is a tax passed on when the automobile is puchased. The tires are taxed. There is a tax for the auto license. The state and federal gasoline tax costs from $35 to $50 a year.

If the parents remain in a city apartment, the real estate tax of the municipal government is passed on to them in higher rent charged by the landlord.

GUM TAXED

The baby taxpayer grows up, he learns to chew gum (federal tax), uses baseball equipment (sporting goods tax for federal government), eats candy (taxed, of course), practices on a taxable piano, listens to a taxable radio, eats ice cream from a taxable refrigerator, and lights his first cigaret (6 cents tax a package) with a taxable and taxed match.

He buys his girl friend a fur coat (miscellaneous federal tax), looks at his taxable clock and hurries to the marriage license (tax) bureau.

GRAVE TAXED

He pays 2 cents for every check he draws, 10 per cent tax on his safety deposit box in the bank, and averages about $50 a year for government internal revenue taxes on liquor.

He pays a tax for his cemetery plot and if he is lucky enough to die, the inheritance tax commissioner gives him a final checkup.

Leroy B. Iserman, legal tax expert, said it costs 100 per cent more to collect taxes in the United States than any other country because of the complexity of the American tax laws, and pointed out the rulings of the United States Board of Tax Appeals comprised 32 volumes since its origin in 1925.

APPROVE EXTRA REGISTRATION OFFICE HELP

The County Commissioners gave the Registration Commissioners $25,000 yesterday to hire extra help to install and conduct the new permanent registration system.

Previously $32,640 had been appropriated for registrars and $28,500 for regular employes, and more than $30,000 worth of new machinery was purchased for registration.

Jacob Frank, one of the registration commissioners, requested overtime for workers who, he said, remained at their jobs until midnight.

Commissioner C. C. McGovern, refusing this request, told Frank to hire more people.

McGovern also refused to give the Commissioners county cars, and told three employes of the registration office to hire taxicabs to deliver 400 letters notifying registrars to appear at the Courthouse. The letter-deliverers made the request at 3 p. m. and the meeting was scheduled for 7:30 p. m. last night. A number of letters sent out to registrars for a meeting Monday night were not received until yesterday.

WOMAN MAY GET POLICE BENCH

The possibility of a woman's name being sent to Council for confirmation as police magistrate looms at City Hall. The Mayor has not yet committed himself and while reporters were asking him about it yesterday, Mrs. Jane Gans, whose name has been mentioned in that connection walked into the Mayor's office.

The Mayor dismissed the scribes to talk with her, speaking as he did so about coincidences. Mrs. Gans is said to be active among Democratic women of the Seventh Ward.

'Hotcha' Runways In Burlesques Get Fire Ban

NEW YORK, March 28.—(INS.)—Those long burlesque show runways which used to afford a close-up of sizzling shenanigans have been banned as fire hazards.

Not a single runway is left in New York today, it was revealed by License Commissioner Moss, because, he explained, of splendid co-operation between police and burlesque show owners.

The commissioner said he didn't think there was a great demand for girls parading on the runways, although certain customers paid fancy prices for seats near them.

Girl Coaster's Leg Injured by Truck

Olive Fitch, 6, of 399 Fortieth street, suffered a slight leg injury when she was struck by a truck while coasting on a wagon near her home last night. She was taken to West Penn Hospital by the alleged driver, Smader Manheim, of R. D. 1, Lancaster, Pa.,

PINCHOT'S WIFE SCORES REED

POTTSTOWN, Pa., March 28.—(AP.)—Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, wife of Pennsylvania's Governor, says United States Senator David A. Reed "acted for the Mellon interests" and reduced income taxes nearly $1,000,000,000 a year for "a small group representing mainly the steel corporations."

Gov. Pinchot is opposing Senator Reed in his campaign for renomination on the Republican ticket and Mrs. Pinchot plunged into the fight immediately after her return from Florida, where Pinchot is recuperating from illness.

Mrs. Pinchot renewed criticism against Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, for not "doing his full duty in seeing that labor obtains its full rights and keeping down commodity prices." She added:

"Washington isn't backing up the workers. It has made certain promises and they aren't being fulfilled. My argument with Gen. Johnson is that he is not enforcing NRA fully, but is standing idly by, in many cases, while employers are getting everything possible."

Makes Ebb Tide Law Excuse to Defy NRA

EAST ROCKAWAY, N. Y., March 28.—(AP.)—Time and tide wait, says Ernest H. Cooper, for no M-A-N or N-R-A.

Cooper, a contractor, was moved to comment on time and tide today by reason of regulations born of the NRA under which he isn't supposed to work his men on Saturday. He is repairing the bulkhead in the Grand Canal during ebb tides under a time limit contract. He protests:

"The work is entirely dependent upon the tides. I know of no power, except that of God, that controls the tides."

He is going ahead, as before, working Saturdays. If General Johnson and the NRA want to get worked up about it, Mr. Cooper will be glad to listen; but the tide, he fears, will continue to ebb and flow as of yore.

Shelter 'Fire Traps' Doomed by Biddle

HARRISBURG, March 28.—(INS.)—Spurrd by the recent fire at a Virginia transient shelter in which a number of persons were burned to death, Eric H. Biddle, state relief board director, today instructed all supervisors of transient bureaus in Pennsylvania to eliminate immediately all fire hazards at their establishments.

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

Patricia Pitt

More folks are going to be away for Easter than in ages this holiday time. For that matter, now that the depression has been fairly well routed, more people will go away this winter than in two or three seasons.

Mrs. David I. McCahill and the twin daughters, Marie and Marguerite McCahill, have been in Miami Beach, Fla., for the greater part of the late winter season. And they won't come home until after Easter.

Mr. McCahill has just left for Florida to join his family. And they'll all return together about the middle of April.

Mrs. Harry Darlington Sojourning in Florida

Enjoying the Easter season at Palm Beach, Fla., is smart Mrs. Harry Darlington, Jr., of Sewickley Heights. She has been in New York for the late winter season. She waited until her children's Easter vacation from school before going South. And, of course, the children, Elaine, Harry Darlington, III, and McCullough (Cullie) Darlington are with her.

Mrs. Darlington was a guest at the dinner the Jay F. Carlisles gave at Las Campanas, Palm Beach, recently.

Mrs. Pitt McCoy Nutty is home again from a visit to New York.

Making a pre-Easter visit to New York is travel-loving Mrs. W. Terrell Johnson. She's stopping at the St. Regis. But she'll be home for Easter, I've been told.

Choate Student Spends Vacation in Southland

Young Kirk Le Moyne Billings, son of Mrs. Frederic T. Billings, is spending his spring vacation from Choate, exclusive boys' prep school, with friends in Palm Beach.

He was among the guests at a younger-set dinner, followed by movies, which Rosemary Kathleen and John Kennedy gave Monday night at the Palm Beach home of their parents, the Joseph P. Kennedys.

Paul Mellon, son of Andrew W. Mellon, has been attending the Carolina Cup races at Camden, S. C. He stayed at the Kirkwood during the races.

Sewickley Man To Attend Wedding

Late in April, R. Putnam Goldsbury, one of Sewickley's young husbands (he married Harriet Ramsburg recently) will be off to Philadelphia to attend a wedding.

He'll be an usher at the wedding of Virginia English Hilleary, daughter of the Edgar D. Hillearys, of Germantown, Pa., and H. Bradley Sexton, of Montclair, N. J., to take place the afternoon of April 21 in the Church of St. Martin-in-the-Fields, Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia.

Federation of Girls' Societies Growing

The Federation of Girls' School Societies is growing—it's just added to its membership four new alumnae associations. The new societies are the alumnae of the Oldfields School, Baltimore; Ely Court School at Greenwich, Conn.; Miss Madeira's School, Washington, and the French School, New York.

Oldfields brings into the membership among others four debs of the past fall, Barbara Verner, Sally Jane Fields, Louise Collier and Katharine MacConnell, and a sub-deb, Constance Verner.

Mrs. Horace Rinearson is the only representative of Ely Court so far. Florence Willock, a deb of the past fall, is organizing the many Pittsburgh and Sewickley girls who chose Miss Madeira's for their alma mater, and Evelyn Freeman is doing the same task for the French School.

Rockledge Garden Club To Have Bridge Party

A bridge party is to be given Friday evening, April 6, by the Rockledge Garden Club, to raise money for the scholarships to which it contributes, as well as to help defray expenses of the annual flower show. In charge of the affair is Mrs. Frank D. Newbury, at whose home in Briar Cliff road the party will be held.

The Edgewood Woman's Club is going globe trotting this afternoon with Mrs. A. E. Baier as guide. The club is following "The Travels of Marco Polo." The tour continues under the direction of Mrs. Edward A. Craig, the title of whose paper is "Yonder Life Adventure."

The Poale Zedeck Juniors' sixth annual cabaret dance will take place tonight in the Poale Zedeck auditorium, under the general chairmanship of Mrs. Harry Salin.

Mrs. Saul Lacine, president of the Pittsburgh Council of Parent Education, will be speaker for the City Council Parent-Teacher Associations broadcast over KDKA at 4:15 tomorrow. Her subject will be "Do You Know Your Child?"

Wilson College Club has elected Mrs. Henry W. Fulton as its president for the next two years. Mrs. William D. Groves is the new recording secretary, and Miss B. Elizabeth Walker, treasurer.

The McKeesport Democratic Club will give its Easter ball in the Penn-McKee Hotel, on Monday evening.

Next Tuesday evening in the Y. M. & W. H. A. Century Court No. 100, Order of the Amaranth will have a card party. Mrs. Celia Lipka is chairman.

Miss Razovsky Talks on Nazi Germany

MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Declaring that the present situation in Nazi Germany is a challenge to the democracy of this country and of the world, Miss Cecelia Razovsky, field counsellor of the National Council of Jewish Women, addressed the Pittsburgh Section in the Y. M. and W. H. A. yesterday afternoon. Help for the unfortunate refugees and those who are suffering in Germany and Austria is the first consideration, Miss Razovsky said. Institutions which represent democratic principles must be strengthened and liberal countries must unite to prevent the spread of Facism, she declared.

Miss Razovsky specifically urged the passage of the Tydings resolution (now before the Senate), which would serve notice on the Central European countries that their action in creating masses of refugees to be absorbed by other countries in a time of economic maladjustment is intolerable.

Funds must be raised for refugees, Miss Razovsky said, in outlining the part women can take in solving the problem. Also, children must be taken care of and scholarships and fellowships provided for persons with special aptitudes. She mentioned the part the Jewish Council plays, through its various departments, in such humanitarian work, but stressed its principal task of overcoming the danger of racial and religious intolerance, which threatens to spread in this country.

Murraysville Women To Hear Mrs. Chalfant

Mrs. James Graham Chalfant, district president of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, will speak before the Murraysville Junior Woman's Club tomorrow evening in the home of Miss Gail Hobaugh. Her topic will be "Duties of Club Women." Also on the program will be Miss Gladys Rutter, Miss Martha Dittrick and Miss Alice Eckman, who will furnish the music, and Miss Grace Hyde, who will read.

Glances Into the Realms of Domesticity and Romance

By MARION BRUNOT

'Best Dressed' but She Can Get Only Blind Dates

"BLIND DATES" . . . What are they?

They are ones, if you please, arranged by someone else. Very likely another girl who has more boy friends than she can manage, and she slides one along to you, who are less fortunate.

And here is one of my girls who says that even "blind dates" do not get her a man.

She is all in a flurry, and very miserable is this Betty Lou, and for the reason that the boys don't like her. There is something about her that doesn't play BIG with the masculine gender. Not that she doesn't have nice clothes. Not that she isn't mental. Not that she isn't rather good looking. It just is that her ways don't click with the ways of the men. And she wants the quick remedy. The medicine that heals over night.

Dear Miss Brunot:

I am a girl 17 years of age and a senior in high school. Although I have been told that I am rather good looking, the boys don't seem to like me, nor will they "date" me. Yet people say I AM THE BEST DRESSED GIRL IN SCHOOL.

Moreover I am a HIGH HONOR STUDENT and enter all the school activities.

I have many girl friends who seem to enjoy my company. They have gotten me several BLIND DATES with boys from out of town. These boys seem to like me for the evening and maybe come to see me once or twice afterwards, but never KEEP ON VISITING ME.

WANTS 'PROM' DATE

The boys in town never look at me outside of school. Although they take a joke with me at school.

Every year our school gives a "prom" for the juniors and the seniors. Last year I had a blind date for it. However this year I should like to have some one of the boys in the school for an escort. Can you tell me how to go about it to get this very thing? And can you tell me why the boys don't like me?

BETTY LOU.

A mournful lament, Betty Lou. There is nothing, not even good clothes and brains, that makes up to any of us girls, for a possible lack in sex appeal. Why is it that a young woman like Norma Shearer goes over big and so long? Just one answer. They have the winnin' way with the men.

Girls may come and girls may go. Girls in exquisite garb. Girls in perfect accord with the mental movement. Girls who are good and loyal and clever. But always the girl who has that "it" gets the boy friends.

"Age cannot wither, nor custom stale" some women. We see such sisters everywhere, but none too plentiful. They are on the stage. They are in the social register. They even go to high school.

DON'T DRESS LIKE MODEL

But Betty Lou is not of this breed. And she wants help.

Betty Lou, don't try to dress yourself like a model. Look at the other girls carefully, and imitate them in costuming. Clothes do not cut the ice with the boys you think. A man likes a last year's scarf if it is coquettish. A young fellow is quite satisfied with a year-one evening wrap if it is the sort that needs wrapping about its wearer and has the tenderly feminine helpless quality.

Being first in everything, clothes, classes, etc., isn't the big adjunct in getting a boy friend that you seem to think. Exceeding one's fellows puts us in a class by ourselves. The great are lonely, Betty Lou.

Be human. Learn to smile. Learn to go a sweet little dexterous half-way with the boys, and you won't have to depend on BLIND DATES.

To be more practical, and to speak about that "prom." Well, merely to some selecting and then begin working. Don't be bold. Don't lay your cards on the table. Don't confide in too many of your own sex. But let the one chosen know you think him a real he-man whose wings are about ready to sprout, and you'll be at that prom and in exactly the way you want.

Fay King Wonders Whether Diaries Begun Jan. 1 Are Still Being Kept

By FAY KING

At this time of year I wonder how those who began keeping diaries on January 1 are getting on.

Do they still rush to write in their diaries at the end of the day, or have they reached that stage where six or seven blank pages are filled from memory at one writing?

He intended to record every detail of the cruise, and Twain told him such a diary would be worth at least a thousand dollars—when finished!

The amazed young man appreciated what a conservative estimate that was when he had neglected his diary so long he tossed it overboard!

NEW ALLIANCES IN MILLINERY CIRCLES FOR THIS SEASON

By PRUNELLA WOOD

This young woman has set her cap and caught her "bow"—with an extra one on her glove. The bonnet is of the new starched chiffon with a square brim, lovely for springtime dinner costumes, and the kid gloves have a gauntlet cuff of the same material. The bows are of grosgrain ribbon.

WE GOT MORE or less used to the marriage of print fabric gloves and print fabric hats last season, though few people took them up in a big way. The tie-up this season between our hats and our other accessories is a bit more subtle, and especially for slightly dressy costumes, the results are eye-filling. Moreover, these sets bloom in price ranges that saw no such refinements last year, and anybody going for the style doubtless can afford to indulge it.

So we have the maline hat for coquettish dining out, backed up by suede or kid gloves that sport a sunburst or cavalier cuff of the same maline, and we have mousseline gloves that look "too, too divine" with hats of lace and mousseline, a la the bridesmaid.

* * *

WHEN WE GET into the less formal wear, anything becomes the possible partner of the hat. Maybe it matches the blouse, if both are cotton-plaid or tie silk print. Maybe a scarf or a collar and cuff set turns the trick, or it will be the frock beneath a redingote that provides the hat material.

One lovely pair of custom made gloves that may start something appeared in public recently, accenting a lacy frock of ice green. They were above-the-elbow length, made of maline, without fingers, and shirred all the way up, mousquetaire fashion, with a flared ruche of starched lace around the top. Black, of course, and veddy, veddy smart.

* * *

THE WHITE HAT still remains high style, but it will probably take a leap to the less rarefied circles, come the first real batch of good weather. And how stunning the pique hats are going to look with the pique gloves, beauing along a navy blue tailleur, sunny days on the avenue! The gloves and the hats are both ready, but they have not stepped out together yet.

None of these new notions is going to take the bloom from classic doeskin gloves, of course, which still remain the choice for smart city wear. In fact, they are the ideal model to combine with hat and scarf, or hat and blouse ensembles, for they are such good style that no one notices them unless they are missing, so to speak.

Here is a Breton sailor that is swell for wear with a monotone wagger frock of light woolen. It is rough straw, faced with wind-blocked satin, and the ribbon matches the facing.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

The Time to Lose a Trick

"He had four trumps to the Knave and I couldn't pick them up and get to the Dummy to take my discards," was West's rather lame explanation of his failure to make four spades on the hand below.

Actually there is no line of defense open to North and South that can prevent West from fulfilling his game contract if only he uses a little care in determining the order of the trick-taking and dictates to North, as it were, when he must take his trump trick, if at all.

South, Dealer.

North: ♠ J 6 5 4 ♡ A K Q ◇ K 10 ♣ 9 8 6 3
West: ♠ A K Q 10 7 3 ♡ 7 3 ◇ A 9 4 ♣ A K
East: ♠ 9 8 2 ♡ J 10 4 ◇ J 6 5 ♣ Q J 10 7
South: ♠ — ♡ 9 8 6 5 2 ◇ Q 8 7 3 2 ♣ 5 4 2

The biddings

South	West	North	East
Pass	2 ♠ (1)	Pass	2 N T (2)
Pass	4 ♠ (3)	Pass	Pass
Pass

1—With the strong trump suit, the Forcing bid is sound.

2—Of course, the only response.

3—Showing a solid or near-solid trump suit. Three spades could not be passed, but West saw no reason for not accurately portraying his hand.

North opened the King of hearts and followed with the Queen and Ace, and West ruffed the third round with the three. This was his first mistake, but it was not necessarily fatal. The hand could still be saved. He next laid down the Ace of trumps, and learned the bad news. North held all the adverse trumps, and there was thus a trump trick to be lost. Rattled, West now proceeded to draw two more rounds of trump, and subsequently lost two diamond tricks, going down two.

The making of the hand is almost childishly simple. The third heart lead, as a matter of fact, should be ruffed with the Ten and not the three, to retain as much liberty of action as possible. Then when the lead of the Ace of trump discloses the unfortunate trump situation the rest is easy. The Ace and King of clubs are led, followed by the seven or three of trumps, and North faces Hobson's choice: To win assures an entry in Dummy for the good clubs. To fail to win gives immediate entry to the Dummy for discards and means ultimate capture of the Knave of trumps as well.

West was not unlucky—he was just dumb.

A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge's Father Made Happy by Message

I had the queerest, most eerie feeling as I heard my father's foot-steps coming back from the living room, where I had sent him to read the letter from my long dead mother—the letter to him which I had found in the secret recess of her old japanned box.

It seemed to my excited imagination that there were other footsteps accompanying his—faint, phantom footsteps, keeping close to him. I never have believed very strongly in the theory that the dead return even in spirit to the vicinity of those they have loved most in life, but I found myself thrilling, trembling with the impulse to cry out, "Oh! Mother! Mother! Come close to me!"

It was not my moment, however. I realized that. Even if my imaginings had their root in reality, it was not to me that those light, phantom footsteps were coming. If there were any message from the other world trembling upon the midnight air, it was not to me directed but to my father.

When my father had come almost up to me he stopped and turned his head as if he, too, were listening. As he turned back to me his eyes were shining, and I saw that his lips were tremulous.

SURPRISE FOR MADGE

"I have the most wonderful feeling," he said huskily, "that your mother is very near to us."

I did not tell him that I felt it also. This was the greatest moment that had come to him since he found me, after so many years when he did not know whether I was alive or dead, and I knew that my cue was silence, together with alertness to sense whatever mood was his, and respond to it.

But his next words surprised me so that I could hardly keep from betraying my astonishment.

"You were wrong, after all, about this letter being for me alone," he said. "Your mother says in it that, should conditions arise in your life which seem to me good reason for such a step, I am to give you a certain part of it to read."

My mind went swiftly back to another box of my mother's, which she had left to me at the time of her death—a box containing many mementoes of our life together, some of which I have since entrusted to my father for safe keeping.

In that box, addressed to me, was a letter in an envelope that bore the injunction that I was not to open it unless I were married and my marriage seemed certain to end in disaster.

I never have opened that letter even in the most stressful moments of my marriage with Dicky.

DOUBT BEHIND SOFTNESS

I became conscious that my father was looking down at me tenderly, yet with a certain doubt behind the softness.

"Thank heaven," he said, "there is no apparent reason for reading you that part of this letter. I trust that there never will be reason for you to hear it."

"I need not tell you," he said, his voice still husky, "that this has been a most wonderful experience for me. I knew that your mother had forgiven me. Her injunction to you when she was on her death bed proved that.

"Yet I have gone all these years with the conviction that I had killed every bit of her love for me: that the forgiveness which made her send you to me was a feeling prompted by duty. But this letter, this ring, of which I shall tell you presently, give me the certainty, more precious to me than anything else in the world, that her love for me never died, even though bitterness covered it for so many years."

Fashion Flashes

By ALICE ALDEN

Marching back into the fashion lineup comes chiffon for evening wear. A delicious frock of white chiffon has prim little flower bouquets in pink and blue printed at widely spaced intervals, while plenty of white chiffon ruffles lend interest and charm.

Smart work on the part of the designer who makes the same bag design in different leathers and accents. Thus a smart bag of black antelope with ivory balls is obtainable in brown antelope with tortoise shell trim, and in dark blue with gold balls.

Walking lightly into spring we shop for new spring shoes. Gray is to be popular, and a good model is a T-strap in bands of dark-to-light shades of gray, with a plain gray tip, heel and center strap. The material is kidskin.

Get out the boat when you are in the sunshine and wear comfortable shorts. A useful costume consists of a sweater of green and white knitted jersey with matching shorts, and a skirt of white knitted woolen to wear when you go ashore.

Noble ideas are again fashionable as the grand, formal mode succeeds the recent street-like evening frock. One noble evening gown is a simple mermaid sheath with a trained skirt, all of seablue sequins mounted on matching net.

Correct Manners

Signing the Scorecard

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

While at a public card game, score cards were passed out. Will you kindly tell me what is the proper way to sign your name—MRS. SOUTH, MRS. JOHN SOUTH or IRENE SOUTH? S.

At a public card game it would be appropriate to sign the score card with your formal name: Mrs. John South.

Stepmother

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We have been having quite a discussion on this subject and would appreciate your advice in this matter. My father is married again and my own mother is still living. Father thinks I should call his wife "Mother" or "Mrs." I think it is all right to call her by her first name, as my own mother is living. What would be the proper thing to call my father's wife? Also, how should I introduce her to my friends? E.

What a problem this is, and how difficult it is to find just the right name that will register what we wish to mean! I can well understand that, since your mother is living, you would prefer not to call your stepmother "Mother." Also, I can well understand that your father and his wife would feel that Mrs. is too frigid a name to use. Also I feel that, under most circumstances, it is not good taste, not good-sounding, to use the first name. Sometimes, when the daughter or son is of about the same age as the stepmother, this is more or less appropriate, but generally speaking, it doesn't seem the proper thing to do.

So what I do suggest is that you use the word Aunt, with your stepmother's first name . . . Aunt Sally. This has more warmth and friendliness. Then you use this name when introducing your friends to her.

GET THAT COLD OUT-ROOTS AND ALL!

Give it No Chance to Sprout Anew!

A half-cured cold is a cold never cured! And once a cold gains foothold in your system it can make serious trouble for you. Many remedies merely suppress a cold only to have it pop out again. A cold, being an internal infection, requires internal treatment. And it requires a remedy that is distinctly a cold remedy and not good for half a dozen other things too.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is what a cold calls for. It is expressly a cold remedy. It is internal and direct. It is complete in effect. It does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels, gently but thoroughly. It combats the cold germs in the system and reduces the fever. It relieves the headache and grippy feeling. It tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful and is absolutely safe to take. For more than forty years it has been the standard cold and grippe tablet of the world, the formula always keeping pace with Modern Medicine. Every druggist sells Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine, 30c and 50c. Good druggists will not try to talk you into a substitute for the sake of a little more profit.

When a cold threatens, don't wait or delay, but go right to your druggist for Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. Always ask for it by the full name and look for the letters L B Q stamped on every tablet.

Americans Blind to Danger

By B. C. FORBES

WILL THE settlement of the auto labor trouble prove the turning point in the rising tide of apprehension in high places?

LATELY, CONFIDENCE has been recorded more pronouncedly down-below than up-above.

Mr. Forbes

THE PEOPLE are spending less restrainedly.

THE FIRST quarter of 1934 is ending fairly satisfactorily. If Washington does not miscue, the spring quarter should see other things besides sap rise.

RELATIVELY FEW Americans realize the extent of the revolution that this country is undergoing. Many responsible citizens, failing to grasp the significance of events and trends, accept unresistingly, even applaud, innovations calculated to remove the American commonwealth from its original moorings, they look upon events at Washington as a novel, thrilling, entertaining spectacle, a sort of three-ringed circus; they do not ponder the portentousness of what is happening.

Albert D. Lasker, whom I regard as one of the clearest-thinking business men in America, and who confesses that he is perturbed over the way things are trending, draws my attention to a recent book, "The French Revolution," by Pierre Gaxotte. Here is a passage covering pre-revolution conditions and activities which he regards as worth nothing by Americans:

"As for us young French nobles, without regret for the past, without misgiving for the future, we trod gaily on a carpet of flowers which hid the abyss from us.

"Liberty, whatever language it might use, pleased us by reason of its boldness, equality by reason of its convenience. There is a pleasure in descending so long as one is certain of being able to rise again whenever one wants to do so; and so, blind to what was to befall, we enjoyed at one and the same time the advantages of a patrician status and the amenities of a plebeian philosophy. Thus it was, that, though it was our privileges and the relics of our former power that were being undermined beneath our feet, we took pleasure in this mimic warfare. We did not feel its effects, we saw nothing but the spectacle . . .

"The forms of the building remaining intact, we did not see it was being undermined from within. We laughed at the grave alarms of the Old Court and the clergy, who inveighed against this spirit of innovation. We applauded the republican scenes in our theaters, the philosophic discourses of our academies, the audacious writings of our men of letters . . ."

This country for several years has been familiar with "Parlor Socialists," "Pink Communists" and other dilettante revolutionaries. They have moved in and been accepted by the most substantial section of society.

A sober, analytical diagnosis of the true significance of what has happened, is happening and is likely to happen at Washington may, however, make thoughtful Americans pause. Our Constitution is being torn to shreds. Our old-time liberties are being cast into the waste-basket.

Perhaps all who are haunted with misgivings as to the ultimate outcome are old fogies. Perhaps it is fitting to jeer at them when they caution:

"It is easier to start a revolutionary fire than to hold it in check."

Perhaps not.

RISE IN STEEL DEMAND SEEN

NEW YORK, March 28.—Iron Age says:

The President's success in averting an automobile strike has revived hopes in the iron and steel trade for a resumption of the upward sweep of demand that was interrupted early this month. The settlement of the labor controversy came too late to prevent a further setback in production but the rapidity with which bookings from the motor car manufacturers have recovered and the steady increase in business from the railroads indicate that the loss is only temporary.

The national average of steel output at 48 per cent compares with 48½ per cent in the two preceding weeks and 49 per cent in the first week of March, the peak rate to date this year.

The feeling of relief that followed settlement of the auto controversy, has brought with it an appreciation of the necessity for reinforcing public confidence. In this spirit a number of steel producers have announced a further advance of 10 per cent in wage rates, effective April 1, and it is probable other companies will soon take similar action. A rise in steel prices is regarded as a logical sequel since it is unlikely volume will expand sufficiently in April or May to cover the added cost.

STOCK MARKET HOLDS EVEN KEEL

NEW YORK, March 28.—A quiet rise in some of the non-ferrous metal shares gave the stock market a little brighter appearance today, after yesterday's setback.

Most of the list held virtually unchanged from yesterday's final levels, however, and trading was about as dull as at any time this year. The bond market held to an even keel, and most commodities were narrowly changed. Wheat was steady, cotton a little lower, rubber and silver futures a bit higher.

SMELTERS HIGHER

Among a handful of issues rising 1 to 2 points were McIntyre Porcupine, Howe Sound, Cerro de Pasco, Dome, American Smelting and United States Smelting. In the industrials, American Can rose a point. United States Steel was virtually unchanged. Some of the motors and merchandising issues rose fractionally. In the rails Western Pacific shares were higher, evidently reflecting hopes of success of the plan of staving off defaults of interest by Denver Rio Grande in which Western Pacific has a substantial interest.

Strength of the nonferrous metals evidently reflected a little rebirth of inflationary sentiment in speculative quarters, prompted by the blow to President Roosevelt's economy plan by the House's overriding his veto of the independent offices bill. The silver movement also commanded attention, with the Senate Agriculture Committee holding hearings on the Dies bill.

Generally speaking, however, Wall street maintained a watchful waiting attitude toward stocks. It was pointed out that with so much uncertainty surrounding wages, taxes, prices and costs generally, the entire situation surrounding corporate profits was decidedly hazy. Nevertheless, there was a widespread disposition to maintain holdings of equities in case inflation begins to "take" as the year progresses.

STEEL DROPS

A slight dip in steel production this week, as estimated by Iron Age and reports of somewhat lower freight movement by New York Central and Pennsylvania last week, caused some questioning as to whether the seasonal peak of industrial activity, usually registered in March or April, had not been reached. It was felt, however, that the start of an expansion or inflation of credit, such as the huge excess reserves would make possible, might tend to prevent or minimize the usual summer slump.

A statement printed by news tickers quoting Commerce Secretary Roper as saying that revival of durable goods industries was the key to re-employment, and that this would necessitate reopening of the capital markets, made Wall street wonder if this was a hint of new steps to expand long term credit.

GRAIN VALUES DECLINE

CHICAGO, March 28.—Grain prices showed a downward trend early today. General unsettlement of the trading public appeared to have checked buyers in all grains. Opening ⅛@⅝c lower, May 85⅛@85¼c, wheat afterward receded further. Corn started at ¼c decline to ⅛c advance and subsequently sagged all around.

Forecasts that suggested rains or snow would extend over a large part of domestic grain territory had some bearish effect. Wheat sold at a new low on the current movement of prices. Rallies, however, lifted prices at times to even with yesterday's finish.

Some buying of wheat was based on reports of dust storms in North Dakota and on Kansas reports of 50 per cent abandonment of wheat acreage in Graham County, with word from Barton County that the soil in various districts looked like a desert.

More or less notice, too, was taken of advices that dry weather detrimental to crops prevailed in southern Russia, and that new crop prospects in France and Italy were less favorable than a year ago. Corn and Oats were relatively firm, helped by active cash demand for corn.

Provisions went lower, influenced by downturns of hog values.

Grain futures purchases yesterday totaled 22,087,000 bushels corn 6,487,000. Open interest in wheat was 117,470,000 bushels, and in corn 95,293,000.

RED LUCAS TO MAKE FIRST START AS BUC TODAY

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Lavagetto Like Miller Resembles Old Buc Star Vet Sees Improved Game

Five Moores in League Court Changes Opposed Medica Resumes Drive

In some physical respects, at least, Cookie Lavagetto is said to be strongly suggestive of one of the greatest second basemen and best all-around ball players the Pittsburgh club ever had. Every time George Gibson looks at the Pacific Coast League recruit, the Pirate manager remarks, "There goes Jack Miller." The resemblance has been noted also by Honus Wagner, President Benswanger and veteran scribes in the Pirate camp, as well as by old timers in the Coast League, where Miller once managed the San Francisco club. They see the same hands, the same loose-jointed carriage, the same seeming nonchalance masking an exceptional enthusiasm for baseball.

Cookie Lavagetto

If Lavagetto comes through as quickly as Miller did, the Pirates will be fortunate. Recalled after a brilliant season with McKeesport in the O. & P. League in 1908, Jack was sent to second base to relieve Ed Abbaticchio in the fifth game of the 1909 season and made good so convincingly that he never was taken out, playing in 150 straight games throughout the remainder of the season and being a big factor in the Bucs pennant and World Series victories. Miller continued to be a star performer for the locals until the end of the 1913 campaign, when he was traded to the Cardinals with Chief Wilson, Cozy Dolan, Hank Robinson and Artie Butler for Ed Konotchey, Mike Mowrey and Bob Harmon.

There isn't a doubt in the Pirate camp that Lavagetto will prove a find eventually, even if he doesn't make the grade this year on account of lack of experience. The youngster impresses everybody. He has been hitting in the worst kind of luck, driving the ball hard but always straight to some fielder. If he keeps that up, they're bound to start going for safe spots sooner or later. It looks as though the Bucs are going to have a hitter as well as a fine fielder for second base when Cookie becomes ready for the big show, whether it's this year or later.

BALDWIN ADMITS PLAYERS HAVE IMPROVED

There is at least one star of baseball's early years who does not assert that the old-timers had it all over the players of the present day. He is Charles B. (Lady) Baldwin, 75, a famous left-hand pitcher for the Detroit National League club back in the '80's. Asked to compare the players of his time with those of today, Baldwin said the moderns can handle themselves better, on the average, and are superior generally. He thinks the improvement is due to the fact that boys nowadays have a chance to develop their talents early by playing all kinds of games under trained directors and coaches in gymnasiums and on playgrounds. The old timers had nothing like that.

Pittsburgh played a part in Baldwin's career. When this city entered the National League in 1887, the local club's second game of the season was played against Detroit here and Baldwin was the visiting pitcher, being defeated by Jimmy Galvin, 8 to 3. Detroit had in its lineup the famous original Big Four of Brouthers, White, Rowe and Richardson. Detroit won the National League pennant that year, and one of its World Series games, the fourth, with Charley Comiskey's St. Louis Browns, American Association champions, was played in old Allegheny on October 13, Baldwin scoring a shutout against Silver King, 8 to 0. That was the second World Series game played here, the Chicago White Stockings and St. Louis Browns having staged one of their title battles on the present North Side on October 22, 1885.

FIVE MOORES ON NATIONAL LEAGUE CLUBS

That old Smith and Jones stuff doesn't go in the National League. The Moores still have it, just as they have had for several years. Your old Pirate friend, Eddie, and a couple of others have passed out, but the family name continues to head the parade in the Heydler circuit, with no fewer than five representatives playing for five different clubs. No two of them are related. Four are outfielders and one is a pitcher.

Joe Moore

Joe Moore, who sparkled for the Giants in their pennant and World Series victories last year, will have plenty of opposition for the distinction of being the outstanding bearer of that name. Randy, one of Bill McKechnie's most valuable men, is all set for another big season. The Reds are counting heavily on Johnny, whom they obtained from the Cubs in a trade last year. Austin is preparing for another campaign of pitching in the service of the Phils, and the new addition to the list is Eugene, tried by the Cardinals last fall and now trying to win a place on the payroll for 1934. Another characteristic which the Moores have in common is that all except Austin are left-hand hitters.

FREUND OPPOSES CHANGING FLOOR RULES

Johnny Freund, one of basketball's pioneers, opposes the rule changes suggested by Phog Allen and others, except the proposal to boost the value of a field goal. Even in that case he would give three points only when the field goal is made from inside the foul line, to reward team play above long shooting, which he holds is only a matter of luck. Raising the baskets two feet would, he thinks, serve only to cause more scuffling under the hoop, and there is too much of that now. Freund believes it would be wise to cut down the number of free throws and eliminate the monotonous parade to the foul line by allowing a free toss only when the player having the ball is fouled, but otherwise he holds the rules should be allowed to stand.

MEDICA THREATENS MORE SWIM RECORDS

Just as Lenore Kight, of Homestead, is expected to feature the women's national indoor swimming championships at Chicago, April 11 to 14, Jack Medica, Seattle ace, is seen as the probable star performer in the men's senior indoor title meet at Columbus, O. It won't be surprising if Medica starts in these events another year of record-smashing to add to the brilliance of a career that already makes him one of America's main hopes for the Olympics in 1936.

Jack Medica

Even now, the Seattle fish holds six world records—5:26.6 for 500 yards; 5:57.8 for 500 meters; 10:13.5 for 800 yards; 10:15.4 for 800 meters; 11:37.4 for 1,000 yards, and 12:43.8 for 10,000 meters. He also owns 12 American records, having recently added one of 19:12.3 for 1,500 meters. Medica may add something to that string during the Columbus meet, and later he will go to the women's nationals for an exhibition in which he will make a stab at a new world record for 400 meters, a mark which he is particularly eager to include in his personal baggage. Jack's name promises to be closely linked with the best swimming feats of 1934.

CRITIC PICKS PIRATES TO BE FOURTH

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 28.—There seems to be a parable of the ball field which says that a world champion of one year must, per se, ad lib., and of necessity, be the league champion of the next, it being considered fashionable not to approve of success. Of course, nobody ever got a good, resounding punch on the nose that way, but somehow all the band wagons seem to be full of piccolo players nowadays and, besides, I've been looking up the records.

These show that, out of 29 years of world series play, the world champion has failed 17 times to repeat the next time out, and today I'm taking a half chance that this will be the eighteenth. As a matter of fact, I'm taking this chance because of my innate generosity.

TWO "BEST" CLUBS

Instead of naming only one club as the best in the National League, I've become very impulsive. I'm naming two, while others proceed blindly along strict conventional and narrow-minded lines. One of the clubs is the New York Giants, the best in baseball at the close of the 1933 season; the other, the St. Louis Cardinals, maybe the best at the end of 1934.

Right now they look remarkably equal. One stands out in the infield, the other has the hitting. Both have great pitching. Anyway, this is the way the stretch of the league seems to line up with the reservation that we are referring to the only thing that anybody can hope to know about at this time, namely, late March and early April strength:

1—N. Y. Giants and St. L. Cardinals 2—Chicago Cubs 3—Pittsburgh Pirates 4—Boston Braves 5—Brooklyn Dodgers 6—Cincinnati Reds 7—Philadelphia Phillies 8—Boston Red Sox

WILL MISS PIET

The Cubs will have more this time with Klein and his hitting, but it won't be quite enough. They haven't got the pitching of the other pair and the defense might not stand up all the way, notably in the cases of Cuyler, Stephenson and Grimm.

The Pirates somehow haven't quite got it, either, although nobody can say exactly why. They might have won last year. But they didn't, and the feeling is general that this one chance was probably their last. The addition of Red Lucas to the pitching will help the subtraction of Piet from the infield won't. Otherwise the club is pretty much the same, which may come under the head of unspoken criticism.

In spite of a huge turnover of personnel between seasons, the American League doesn't seem quite ready to unseat its champion of 1933, the Senators, although the latter look none too strong. It's merely a case of the rest of the league looking inherently weak. Here's the American League sizeup:

1—Wash. Senators 2—N. Y. Yankees 3—Detroit Tigers 4—Boston Red Sox 5—Phila. Athletics 6—Cleveland Indians 7—St. Louis Browns 8—Chicago White Sox

Braves Turn Swetonic Back To Buccaneers

The pitcher from Pittsburgh's North Side, sold to the Boston Braves last winter, and who has been training with the Tribe at St. Petersburg, Fla., has been returned to the Corsairs, Sam Watters, vice president and secretary of the Pittsburgh club, announced today.

Watters said the Braves' contention was that they had purchased Swetonic with the understanding that the deal was to be canceled in the event his pitching arm, which has been troubling him for several seasons, did not respond to treatment. Steve has met with little success in games in which he has appeared in Florida.

Watters said that Swetonic probably will not remain with the Bucs. He will continue to train with the Braves until the local club sells or trades him.

Jap, Hagenlacher Victors in Cue Play

CHICAGO, March 28.—Etic Hagenlacher, one of the tournament favorites, and the veteran Jap star, Kinicy Matsuyama, turned in sparkling triumphs yesterday in the annual international 18.2 billiard championship tournament in progress here.

The Jap upset the dope when he defeated Welker Cochran, former world three-cushion champion, 400 to 108. Hagenlacher won over the veteran Ora C. Morningstar, 400 to 51.

SOUTH PASSERS ADVANCE TO FLOOR FINAL

By JULIUS LEVIN

South High School, champion of the City League and District VIII for the second successive year, and Reading High School, champion of District III, will clash in the Pitt Stadium pavilion next Saturday night for the scholastic basketball championship of Pennsylvania.

The finalists in the P. I. A. A. eliminations for the place on the scholastic basketball throne vacated by Lower Merion were determined last night when the local titleholder defeated New Kensington, W. P. I. A. L. kingpin and District VII represented before a capacity crowd of almost 5,000 in the Pitt Stadium pavilion, 39 to 26, and Reading vanquished Coal Township, champion of District IV, in a nip-and-tuck battle at Lancaster, 41 to 39. As a result of their victories, South was crowned Western regional finalist and Reading Eastern regional finalist.

GALISZEWSKI STARS

Led by Joe Galiszewski, the smallest boy on the floor, whose ability to come through in the pinches has been proved beyond all question of a doubt on previous occasions, the Orioles passed their way into the state championship last night in an impressive manner. Galiszewski, who invariably displays his best form when something is at stake, ran true to form against the W. P. I. A. L. champions, ringing up seven baskets for a total of 14 points to give his mates a lead which New Kensington was unable to overcome. Eddie Spotovich, his teammate at center, was well guarded by the New Kensington defense, yet managed to tie for the high scoring honors by grabbing himself four field goals and six fouls for 14 points.

The victory of the Orioles marked the third year in a row a City League champion has ruined the state title aspirations of the W. P. I. A. L. kingpin and ran the string of victories South has scored on the Pitt Stadium court to eight in a row. South has yet to lose its first game on the local floor. Two years ago Fifth Avenue defeated Braddock, W. P. I. A. L. champion, in the first round, while last season South humbled Duquesne in the same round. New Kensington's feat in reaching the regional final marked the first time since 1931 that the W. P. I. A. L. contender managed to get beyond the initial round.

New Kensington, displaying the brilliant form that characterized its four victories in the W. P. I.

W. C. Fownes, Jr., Inventor Of Winning Golf Clubs

By FRANCIS OUIMET
(Former National Amateur and Open Golf Champion)

Today it is quite possible to get a set of clubs that balance perfectly each in relation with the others. The art of club-making is a lost one because modern ideas and machinery have supplemented the more tedious methods that called for hand-made clubs. The professional's shop was a grand rendezvous for many of the star golfers of other days, and many a championship came as a result of a club that had been tinkered with either by the player himself or the pro. If a golfer found his driver seemed a trifle light he would dash into the shop, have a slug of lead buried into the wood, and his hopes were renewed for his match the next day.

One of the greatest champions we ever had was W. C. (Bill) Fownes, Jr., of Pittsburgh, who won the title at Brookline in 1910. Fownes was forever fiddling with clubs. After a hard match during which time a certain club had given him considerable bother he would experiment with an idea until he felt satisfied that the club was correct in every detail. The fact that it might look like anything but a golf club did not enter into the picture at all. The main thing was to have a club that served the purpose regardless of looks. I can recall his working over the lie of a spoon or changing its loft as carefully as a dentist fills an aching tooth. Such care was bound to produce results.

W. C. Fownes, Jr.

THE FOWNES PUTTER

Always a fine putter, Fownes temporarily lost his putting touch. The Country Club greens were large and fast and frequently the player left himself a long approach putt and it was no simple matter to lay the long putts close to the hole. Bill decided that he must employ a heavier putter than the one he was accustomed to, so he had Alex Cambell make one that later was known as the Fownes putter because it incorporated Bill's ideas. It had a wooden head, with a long face, and, while it looked awkward, it performed its work splendidly. I happened to run across a Fownes putter the other day and it brought back to my memories some of the deadly work of its inventor.

Once Bill had shaken off its strangeness, it was a deadly weapon in his hands. In later years, Fownes picked up another putter, of the iron type, that was called the "Viper." I suppose on account of its poisonous proclivities. However, the Fownes wooden putter was a potent weapon in Bill's hands in the 1910 championship, as Chick Evans will readily agree.

After a hot battle in the semi-finals, Evans was 2 up and 3 to play. The sixteenth hole was a pitch and Chick put his ball 12 feet from the cup. Fownes missed his shot badly and failed to reach a trap guarding the green, although this was only a hundred yards from the tee. To all outward appearances, Fownes' hopes ended then and there. A good pitch put his ball just inside of Evans' first shot. After the latter overran the hole by three or four feet, Bill tapped his ball with the wooden putter into the middle of the tin and then Chick missed. Instead of losing the hole and the match, Fownes had won it.

WOODEN PUTTER WINS

He gave Chick no chance whatsoever on the seventeenth, for he played a fine iron stone dead and squared the match. Both reached the green with their seconds to the testing eighteenth, although each was a long way from the cup. With his putting confidence completely gone, Chick tried to play a chip from the putting surface with his midiron and fell eight feet short of the cup. Here was Bill's chance. His ball was on the right-hand side of the green, fully 40 feet from the hole, and it was necessary to borrow at least 10 feet against the slope in order to successfully negotiate the roll. Then, having made the proper allowance, he had to be careful of the speed or pace because the green was mighty fast.

Out came the big wooden-headed putter. With a practice swing or two, he took his stance and hit his ball with a nice click. It rolled against the incline smoothly and firmly and then, losing momentum, trickled gently down the incline to within a foot or two of the hole. Evans missed his 4 and Fownes, with due care, tapped his ball in for a win after having been 2 down and 3 to play. That improvised putter turned out to be a life-saver, a club put together, one migh say, in the middle of a championship, to combat large and fast putting greens.

PIRATES RALLY TO WIN OVER STARS, 8-6

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent.

RIVERSIDE, Cal., March 28.—Charles Frederick (Red) Lucas will make his semi-official bow as a Pirate pitcher this afternoon as the Buccos play their final game with the Hollywood Stars of the Pacific Coast League.

The redhead has been a bona-fide member of the Gibson clan for several weeks, but Red has had grapefruit proportions around his middle field and only recently was able to bear down like a real sharpshooter.

LUCAS ON EDGE

In any event, the sorrel-top is ready to go to town. Three or four days ago, Red began to pour them over the platter in the batting practice drills. The Pirate batters began to buzz about the stuff he was dishing up and it was about that time that Red informed

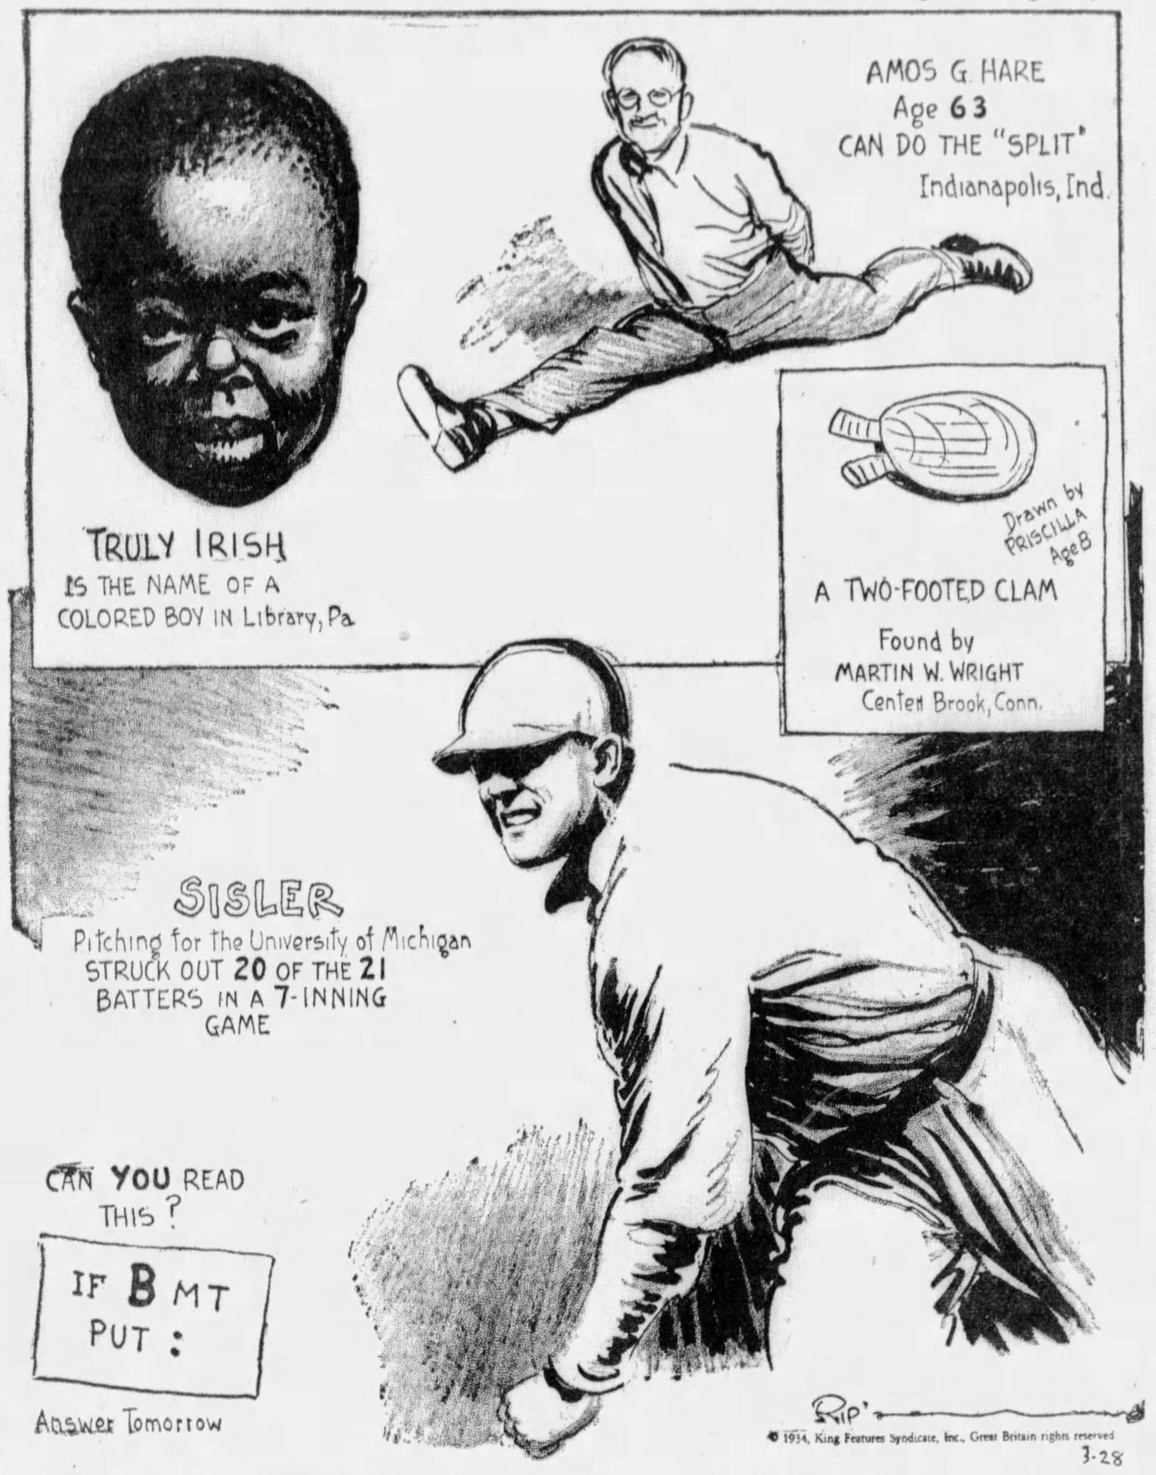
Four Race Officials Barred in Florida

MIAMI, Fla., March 28.—(AP.)—Four men, including the former superintendent of the mutuel room at Tropical Park, have been permanently barred from all Florida tracks as the Florida Racing Commission closed a two-day secret hearing of the details of an alleged conspiracy to defraud the horse race betting public of thousands of dollars.

THREE TEAMS DEADLOCKED FOR LEAD IN LOCAL BIKE RACE

Believe It Or Not (Reg. by U. S. Patent Office) By Ripley



EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: FIRST POISON GAS ATTACK—The use of irritant and poisonous substances to diminish resistance of an opponent probably is as old as organized warfare. Theucydides describes two instances of the use of burning sulphur and pitch in sieges in the Peloponesian War, and throughout the Middle Ages such methods frequently were used. The use of wild cats was employed to carry small cannons of "pestilential odors" into the ranks of the enemy in the Sixteenth century.

TOMORROW: A ONE-ARMED TYPING RECORD.

PETRI AND ZACH FIGHT WAY TO TIE FOR TOP

By JESS CARVER

The bike riders are having themselves a merry old scramble for the lead in this city's first international six-day bike grind, which has been on in Duquesne Garden since 50 minutes after Sunday midnight. One of these days, a team is going to find itself with a lead of more than a lap, which will be very dangerous, as it probably will cause the boys to faint dead away.

At 2 p. m. today, three teams were jammed up in a tie for the lead at 997 miles and nine laps apiece. The three were the American coalition of Reggie McNamara and Tony Beckman, the German-Swiss combine of Otto Petri and Fred Zach, and the crack Canadian duo of Torchy Peden and Jules Audy.

CHAMPS IN LEAD

Ahead in the point standing, however, remained the world champion pair, the high-pressure Piet Van Kempen, of Holland, and Frank Bartell, the Bohemian star. This pair had a total of 201 points, four more than adorned the space opposite the names of McNamara and Beckman.

The fact that the American combination, and especially the veteran McNamara, had fought themselves into a position in the sun out of what might be termed the ruck, was especially pleasing to the fans. The folks cheered Reggie and Tony to the echo yesterday (when they were not yelling loud and long for little Jules Audy) and the ovation that was tendered the veterans when, at 2 o'clock, they actually found themselves in sole possession of first place, was a real one.

Their success did not last long, however, for Zach and Petri, who had been threatening since the start of the race to grab off the lead position, and the dynamic Peden and Audy engineered and then dominated a jam that brought about the triple tie.

ZACH, PETRI STAR

Despite their not being rated as being overly dangerous prior to the start of the grind and that McNamara and Beckman, Peden and Audy, Van Kempen and Bartell and LePage and St. Laurent have had pretty much complete control of the situation, Zach and Petri right now look like they'd wind up the fair-haired boys. They are steady, consistent and speedy riders, and seem to be in as fine physical trim as any of their opponents.

The midnight sprints last night were hectic, but hardly more so than those at 10 o'clock when Van Kempen and Bartell threatened to make a runaway affair out of the proceedings by winning three of the first four sprints. Following the midnight sprints, the field went to work on a long and strenuous pursuit, with McNamara and Beckman seeking to hold a slender lead and seven or eight of the other teams all trying to catch 'em. Peden and Audy and Zach and Petri did.

Rene Boogmans and Joseph LaPorte rapidly are assuming the usual act of the Boston Red Sox. They are a full mile behind the leaders, which, at this stage of the race, is no hop, skip and jump.

BIKE RACE STANDING
(At 2 p. m.)

	Miles	Lps.	Pt.
McNamara-Beckman	997	9	197
Petri-Zach	997	9	169
Peden-Audy	997	9	136
M. Boogmans-Van Slambeck	997	8	97
Van Kempen-Bartell	997	7	201
Cohen-Elder	997	7	101
Fielding-McDonald	997	6	125
LaPage-St. Laurent	997	4	89
Saetta-Baggio	997	3	141
Elliott-Smith	997	1	160
R. Boogmans-Laporte	997	8	69

STOLEN LAPS

The French team of Henri LePage and Zenon St. Laurent may not win the race, but it has a world of color. LePage and Jules Audy have the grind't fair fans support. Henri, No. 13, after a night of tough luck riding Monday, what with spills and tire trouble, last evening ripped the three from his number and rode as a second No. 1, the veteran Reggie McNamara also sporting that figure. Later Referee Frank Kramer made him pin it back on. He did, but stuck it on backwards.

When Torchy Peden grasps the hand of his little partner, Jules Audy, and gives him the old toss on a relief, he doesn't fool, especially if he catches his riding mate on one of the turns. Its dollars to doughnuts that he winds up tossing him up in the seats, probably in Johnny McGarvey's lap.

The German-Swiss pair of Otto Petri and Fred Zach is making a great bid for the first position. Beginning at 10 o'clock last night, the red, black and white striped jerseyed duo pounded the boards at a great clip, and by 2 o'clock were in second place. Both men are fine riders.

Eldred Trails In Golf Tourney

PINEHURST, N. C., March 28.—Vincent Eldred, Pittsburgh professional, carded a 78 in the second round of the North and South golf tournament here today. His 36-hole total is 155, 10 strokes higher than that of Victor Ghezzi, of Rumson, N. J., who today added a par 72 to his 73 of yesterday to gain the lead over early finishers.

Judd Pollock, amateur, of Grove City, Pa., has 90-93—183.

PANTHERS FACE S. CAROLINA

DURHAM, N. C., March 28.—The University of Pittsburgh crack varsity basketball squad left here this morning for the 250-mile ride to Columbia, S. C., where tonight the South Carolina Gamecocks are to be met.

The Panthers are en route to the annual convention of the Basketball Coaches' Association of America at Atlanta, Ga., where they will demonstrate their system of play Friday and Saturday.

Last night the Pitt team gave an exhibition of its prowess before a packed gymnasium at Duke University after a 520-mile drive from Pittsburgh.

IOWA CARDED

IOWA CITY, Ia., March 28.—(AP.)—The University of Iowa basketball team will meet Pittsburgh in the first major game next season, Coach Rollie Williams has announced. Iowa will play the Pittsburgh quintet here December 15.

FIGHT RESULTS

ROSS RETAINS RING TITLE

LOS ANGELES, March 28.—(AP.)—Barney Ross successfully defended his junior-welterweight championship here last night, but 8,000 fans agreed he had one of the closest shaves of his titled career, when he won a decision over Bobby Pacho, rugged California Mexican, in a 10-round scrap. The Chicago youth weighed 138½, a pound lighter than his opponent.

The Associated Press card scored the rounds at five and four up to the tenth, with Pacho holding a slight edge in the final stanza.

JEWELS PLAY EX-DUKES

Such protests as are made to the referee probably will be couched in text book English, with split infinitives barred, when the Ex-Dukes meet the Brooklyn Jewels in a professional basketball game tonight in the Duquesne University gym.

Allie Schuckman

The Jewels, an all-Jewish quint, all are graduates of St. John's College. They moved out of the halls of learning into the paid floor brigade in a body three years ago. The Ex-Dukes are "ex" only insofar as basketball is concerned. They still are seniors at Duquesne University, but they exchanged such glory as is exclusive with amateurism for the old pay check when they were nosed out by the Rosenbloom Celtics a few weeks ago.

The Chappie Wright quint will meet the St. Peter's Boys' Club passers in a preliminary game, at 7:45.

Tonight's rivals will be in action again tomorrow, the Jewels meeting the Willigs at McKeesport, and the Ex-Dukes opposing the Company D quint in the Armory at Butler. Tonight's probable lineup:

Ex-Dukes		Jewels
Feldman	F	Schuckman
MacDougal	F	Kinsbrunner
Brenner	C	Pegovich
Moore	G	Gerson
Reiter	G	Posnak

Substitutes: Ex-Dukes — Davies and Zerilla. Jewels—Poliskin and Slott. Referee—Beggs Snyder.

FLOOR QUINTS NEAR FINALS

Finalists have been decided in the Tarentum amateur basketball tournament and the semi-finalists are set in the annual Westmoreland County tournament as a result of last night's battling.

At Tarentum, the Tarentum Y. M. C. A. passers defeated Freeport Scholastics, 35 to 20 and the Aluminum Shop No. 32 downed the Arnold quintet, 39 to 25. The winners clash tonight for the title.

At Greensburg, where the Westmoreland event is being played, Vandergrift downed the Victory five, of Jeannette, 33 to 29; Greensburg Hill Toppers upset the New Kensington Collegians, 34 to 22; the Schallers defeated Loyalhanna, 44 to 21, and the Arnold Alcos won over Andersons, of Seward, 49 to 11.

STOEFEN MAY QUIT

ATLANTA, Ga., March 28.—(AP.)—Lester Stoefen, national indoor tennis champion, said that unless he makes the Davis Cup team this year he will quit tennis and return to the University of Southern California to complete his education.

Wilmerding Five In Y Tourney

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., March 28.—(AP.)—Tournament officials announced today that 11 teams have entered the twelfth annual international Y. M. C. A. basketball championship meet in Williamsport tomorrow, Friday and Saturday.

Entries include Peoria and Oak Park, Ill.; Bayonne and Jersey City, N. J.; Quincy, Mass.; Buffalo, N. Y.; 135th Street of New York City and Niagara Falls, Ont.

RIDGE MADE SANDLOT PILOT

STAR PITCHER PROMOTED BY MELLON CLUB

By TOM BIRKS

Dick Ridge, star pitcher and outfielder for the Mellon Stuart nine, last year's Greater Pittsburgh League champion, has been named playing manager of the nine by Ned Mellon.

The club is going out for new laurels, and has entered the Allegheny County League, which apparently is going to live up to its former reputation of being one of the fastest sandlot circuits in the tri-state district.

Ned Mellon piloted the team to the title last season. He also filled in as reserve catcher when Miller and Thomas needed a rest. With the club entering the county loop, and also considering a heavy independent schedule, especially on Sundays, and with the pressure of business interests, Mellon put Ridge in control of the team. Ridge, one of the local favorites of the sandlots, should keep the aggregation well in the limelight.

Ridge is laying plans to annex another championship. The entire team from last season will be back. Mert Cave, former City League star, Jimmy O'Connor and Ridge will compose the outfield.

Strutt, R. O'Connor, Red Kenny and Johnny Gallagher will start as the infield, along with Jimmy O'Conner, one of the best shortstops on the local sandlots, now at St. Vincent's College, expected back before the end of the first half of the race.

Red Chenowith, Ridge, Gallagher, Gruchiel and Frank O'Conner will bear the brunt of the pitching. Practice sessions will start Saturday, provided the weather is satisfactory.

The City League will hold another meeting tonight at the Hotel Henry. President Sweeney expects to close the roster at this session. Books, Dormont, Homewood, Brushton, Whitaker and the Chelsea club, of the North Side, are set to go, with the sixth club to be voted in at tonight's confab.

SOUTH PASSERS GAIN FINAL

A. L. eliminations and in its first appearance in the P. I. A. A. playoffs against Erie East, pulled away to a 4-0 lead at the outset, but that was the only time the Glockmen were in front. South rang up 17 points before Ken High scored again.

New Kensington made a game drive to overtake the Orioles in the third period, but the deficit was too large. It was in this period that Ken High displayed its ability to come from behind. Miskevics increased the South total to 26 with two single foul shots when New Kensington began showing signs of coming to life. The valley passers rang up eight points before South could score again, this drive being represented by two field goals and a foul by Jeannette, a foul by Eddie Waugh and a basket by Ross.

South regained its scoring pace in the final stanza by grabbing itself 12 markers to 8 for the losers. Spotovich got two baskets and two fouls, Galiszewski added a pair of field goals and Milkovich two fouls to complete the Oriole's scoring, while Ross made a field goal, Trzeciak a double decker and two fouls and Jeannette a basket to finish the New Kensington scoring. The lineup:

Galiszewski, f	2	0	4	E. Waugh, f	0	2	2

Bike Race Gets in Road Of Fight Promoters

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor

One of the sights of this man's town is being enacted daily at Duquesne Garden. Yes, you know the bike race is going on in there, but that's only a sideshow compared with this act.

And what is the act? Why, Lew Raymond, pudgy matchmaker of the only surviving local boxing club, and Jules Beck and Jim McGirr, his fellow conspirators, going around with tape measures and big sheets of paper and cardboard and pencils apparently trying to figure out something.

It is not quite certain what they are trying to figure out as they skip and slide and dip in and out between the zipping bikes, but it is presumed that they are trying to measure the building for seats, or they may even measure you for a suit if you're not careful. They're reviving boxing there Friday night of next week, when they will offer a Ted Yarosz-Ben Jeby fight, and it is customary to print tickets to such affairs, and you can't print tickets unless you know the seating layout.

A BIT CONFUSING

So that, perhaps, explains why the boys are acting so peculiarly. Every time they get a seat counted somebody either gets into or out of it and they have to start all over, and every time they get a couple of feet of floor space measured a bike runs over it and they can't tell whether it's there or not. It is doubtful if the dashing, smashing, crashing promoters know what is going on around them, that there is a six-day bike race whirling by their ears, but you can sort of gather that they have a hunch that everything isn't just as it ought to be. The race really appears to be in their road and to be handicapping them in their work. Don't miss seeing them do their stuff—you can look at the bike race any time up to Saturday night.

Incidentally, Carl Montebano and Red Bruce have been matched for one of the preliminaries of next week's show, and Marty Gornick and Mike Barto may clash in another.

BETWEEN ROUNDS

Harry Krause, local amateur boxer, turned professional under the name of Billy Rand at Wheeling last Monday night. And it was Joe Elrene whom Mose Butch knocked out in three rounds at Youngstown not Johnny Grunich, as reported. Grunich was stopped by Chuck Mullins, who boxes Mike Mitchell at Bellaire, O., on April 16.

Kid Dugan, former local boxer, has a new protege in J. Ginsberg, an 18-year-old middleweight, of the Hill, who will start out as an amateur soon. He is 5 feet 11 inches tall and Dugan thinks he has great possibilities.

With the squabble between the State Athletic Commission and the A. A. U. having been definitely decided most emphatically in the commission's favor at yesterday's meeting, as revealed by a statement issued by Commissioner W. D. McClelland, the Keystone A. C. has turned on full steam for its A. M. A. senior championships, beginning Thursday night of next week.

Entries so far received include many of the stars of the district, including some of the champions who won honors last year. Bill Eley, Henry Klena, George Bittner, Steve Walters and Gene Gibbons are among the better known boxers already in line.

Believe it or not, but Dominic Mancini, local boxer, has made such an impression on the Louisville fans and promoters that he is virtually signed to box Barney Ross for the latter's world junior-welterweight title at Louisville on Derby Eve, May 4. Word from Chicago today is that Promoter Jack Hevern annexed there that the match is as good as made.

WOMEN'S GOLF PROGRAM SET

The Oakmont Country club will be the scene of the Women's Golf association of Western Pennsylvania championship this year, Mrs. Chester H. Lehmann, president of the organization announced today. The qualifying round will be played September 10, with match play continuing throughout the week.

The annual Cambridge Springs tourney, usually played late in the year, will be staged June 14 and 15.

The officers of the association this year are Mrs. Chester H. Lehmann president; Mrs. J. B. Rose, first vice-president; Mrs. J. H. Balas, second vice-president; Mrs. W. F. McCrady, secretary.

Mrs. W. H. Duff, II, of the Oakmont Country Club, is to captain Section I in the team league, with Miss Katherine McCloskey, of the Longue Vue Country Club, captain of Section II. If sufficient entries can be obtained, a junior girls championship will be held this year for the first time. Miss Mary Kuhn, of the Pittsburgh Field Club, is chairman of the committee.

The organization has adopted a new method of handicapping its members, and the alloting of handicaps will permit members to participate in all one-day tourneys without paying any additional entry fee, except in the Cambridge Springs tourney.

In addition, members will have the privilege of fee-free courtesy days at member clubs. They already are sponsored by Oakmont, Allegheny, Longue Vue, Westmoreland and other clubs in the district.

The team league season is to be opened May 17.

Softball Topic On Seals' Bill

Sandlot baseball, the new game of softball and a few items of interest in golf will be discussed by the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph over WCAE at 6 o'clock this evening, when Harry Keck, sports editor, and Tom Birks, also of the sports department, engage in 15 minutes of sports chatter.

LUCAS TO MAKE START TODAY

So the redhead will reel off three or four or five rounds this afternoon, unless Smead Jolley and the other home-run wallopers pick up the erstwhile Rhinelander. Manager Gibson is among those who feel that Lucas is just about ready to step out.

Tommy Thevenow changed defeat into victory with a heroic double in the ninth inning of yesterday's clash of the Stars and Buccos. The Bucs won, 8 to 6. Tommy weighed in as a pinch hitter as he smote the Coast Leaguers. The Stars had a lead of two runs in the ninth, and Jack Quinn, the famous Jack, had the Pittsburgh batters eating out of his hand.

Jimmy Levey, of Pittsburgh, helped to get the veteran Quinn in a jam in the ninth. Jim threw wild to put a runner on base with one out. Arky Vaughan followed with a single, and Quinn lost control as he walked two batters to force a run. Art Veltman went out on a short fly, but Thevenow, batting for Hoyt, carved himself a double to left center that tied up the old ball game.

JENSEN'S HIT WINS

Woodie Jensen then won the game with a single, scoring two runs. Leon Chagnon flagged the enemy in the ninth.

Tom Sheehan gave the Pirates plenty of trouble as he worked six rounds. Larry French, on the slab for five rounds, was far off form and took quite a shellacking.

CHILLYSAUCE

In touching on the Pittsburgh representation of the Hollywood club, the writer unintentionally slighted a great veteran whose honest service to professional baseball for 30 years has won him the commendation of fans and players everywhere. The reference is to John Picus Quinn, of Collinsville and Dunbar.

If you didn't know about John Picus you would take the coal miner for a young man of 35, so fair of figure and light of heart is John. But when you hear that Quinn was pitching for Dunbar 30 years ago, then you are sure your conclusions are a bit haywire.

You may have heard stories to the effect that Jack Quinn is sensitive on the age question, but you can take these tales with a grain of salt. Listen to Jack:

"I am not sure of the year I did get my start with Dunbar, but, anyhow, it was the year before the big wreck on the B. & O. If that wreck was in 1904, then I started to pitch as a professional in 1903. The manager and first baseman of that club was John Mulloy, one of the finest men I ever knew. He is still a resident of the Connellsville district."

A spitball pitcher is a rare sight these days, but the Hollywood club feels no shortage with two headliners like Quinn and Frank Shellenback on the staff. Had he been registered for major league duty, Shellenback, his admirers say, would have been a big league standout for many seasons.

The Coast League is well represented when French and Veltman are in the game. Besides Larry and Art the lineup features the two Waners, Suhr and Lavagetto, all of whom played in the class A circuit.

Among those in attendance at yesterday's clash of the Pirates and Hollywood was Miss Patricia Vaughan, 13-month-old daughter of the Pirate shortstop. The young lady takes after her dad in the matter of speed. Her mother spent most of the time trying to catch the youngster among the seats.

P. & O. DUCKPIN TOURNAMENT UNDER WAY

By PHILIP GRABOWSKI

The first local duckpin tournament of the year will get under way this evening at 7:30 o'clock. It is the sixth annual Pennsylvania and Ohio Duckpin Association meet on the Forward Alleys, Squirrel Hill. The tourney closes Saturday. Fifty-six teams are entered.

The doubles competition is listed to open the event, singles matches following immediately afterward. The five-men events are slated for 10:30.

SAUNIER SCORES

PEORIA, Ill., March 28.—G. Saunier, of Homestead, Pa., completed his trick in the annual American Bowling Congress tournament here yesterday and departed for home assured of eventually collecting a cash prize, Saunier turned in a singles score of 613.

Greensburg bowlers failed to register, but E. Shepherd and A. Harding, of Huntington, W. Va., bowled a 1162 in the doubles and E. Bourner, another Huntington star, had a singles score of 656.

In fact, but one man from each city hit off a paying count and neither for much of a slice. F. Coss, of Cambridge, shot 598 and G. Joyce, of Parkersburg, 596, in the singles. The scores:

HANDBALL PLAY RULING MADE

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

The tempest brewed in the district handball teapot by the possibility that Bill Kern, P. A. A. star and Pitt assistant football coach, might be deprived of laurels achieved in the recently-concluded handball competition sponsored by the Y. M. H. A. has been allayed by a written statement released today by A. A. U. Handball Chairman J. Rogers Flannery.

Flannery's declaration makes no mention of Kern's status in the light of the latter's affiliation with the Green Bay Packers and present tieup with the Panther coaching staff, but rather goes to the fundamental of the situation, namely, that the Bellefielders, by not obtaining an A. A. U. tournament sanction, were precluded from staging any such event as the Junior Allegheny Mountain Association championship in either singles or doubles. The statement:

"The Junior Handball Tournament that the Y. M. H. A. has just completed was not under A. A. U. auspices because the Y. M. H. A. had not requested nor secured a permit from the A. A. U. for such a tournament.

"No A. A. U. championship tournament can be conducted in any branch of amateur sport in this district, which is known as the A. M. A. district of the A. A. U., unless a sanction or permit is obtained from the A. M. A. for said tournament and unless all participating athletes are registered by the club or association obtaining the permit with the A. M. A. registration department, prior to the tournament, in order that all questions of eligibility of individual participating athletes may be ruled upon beforehand. These rules are for the protection of the club conducting the tournament and insurance of the eligibility of all the participating athletes.

"The Y. M. H. A. did not request a permit nor submit a list of the participating athletes to the A. M. A. for the handball tournament and, therefore, the latter did not come under the jurisdiction of the A. A. U., but was a city junior handball championship tournament under the auspices of the Y. M. H. A."

Chickie's Daughter

By ELENORE MEHERIN

CHAPTER XXIX

In March Vivian's aunt went away, leaving Vivian in charge of the apartment house. In the middle of June, Sue Gordon, Alice Steele and Vivian moved into the little home. The girls helped them. They gave a little dinner party. It was very merry.

Pippin bade Vivian goodby:

"When you finish the quarter, Vivian, you and Sherry will have a week on the lake. Early September is beautiful there."

Vivian answered in a dream:

"We're planning on it, Pippin. You make it sound so wonderful. I'd love to stand on one of those sheer granite peaks. Tell me more about the lake in the moonlight and the way the mountains rise, so forbidding, yet so beautiful. Did you read that story of Bromfield's where he tells of the lover who was killed in a plunge over an iceberg—preserved forever in his young glory? I've often wanted to die in a moment of supreme beauty."

She closed her eyes, seeing herself and Sherry drifting on the dim waters, alone in the wonder of the mountains.

Synopsis

Pippin, pretty daughter of Chickie, falls in love with Kevin McPike. Pippin and Kevin's sister, Kathie, are fast friends. Pippin is thrilled by the first real kiss she ever had—from Kevin. When Kevin goes to Europe to pursue his studies, Pippin meets Bill Lodge, a young ensign. He says he loves her, but Kevin is first in her thoughts. At a friend's home, Chickie meets Barry Dunne, the man who caused her so much sorrow. Chickie is afraid she will have to tell Pippin of her past. Pippin goes to a party with Bill, but after returning seems unhappy. She tells her father what she heard about her mother, and that she thought him responsible. David explains to her what really happened and Pippin is again happy. Chickie tells Pippin the real story of her life. Pippin goes on hikes with Gregg McClintock, senior at college. She then returns to college and has Vivian Drake as a room mate. Vivian's love affair with Sherry wanes.

Now Go On

Decides to Live On

Pippin said:

"There are no icebergs to preserve your Egyptian beauty."

"I think I'll live on for a few more of my great moments. They're precious."

In the middle of July she wrote Pippin a glowing letter:

"I've bought a pair of hiking boots today and am all set to wear the bold Sierra down. As you know, Sherry is working on that accountant job, but he'll be free in another month and we'll be with you for that tryst by the golden harvest moon. It's a luring prospect, though I don't feel at all deprived, Pippin."

The wonderful hikes over the mountains; the rides on a moonlit lake never materialized. Vivian had a paper to finish for the quarter's credit and Sherry was still employed on the accounting job.

"I guess we'll have to wait for another summer," Vivian wrote, "and pray that it may be as sweet."

In the middle of September Pippin returned for her third year of college. She was past 19. She felt mature—all her growing up finished. She and Vivian were getting the house ready for the fall quarter. The two other girls were home for the week.

Often Pippin stayed over night in Vivian's apartment. They cooked little dinners and afterwards went to the movies. Pippin felt gay and very free.

She said: 'You've gotten thin, Vivian. Did you study very hard?"

"Yes. I played hard, too. It was a warm, glorious summer. We had a joyous time."

"Just you and Sherry?"

"Just Sherry and I."

"Is he away now?"

"No—he's here."

"You're wondering why he hasn't been around, Pippin? We decided not to see quite so much of each other. No sense in getting too serious. Sherry is seeing other girls, I'm also free."

Pippin said softly:

"You don't want to be free, Vivian?"

No Time for Love

"I think it's better. This is my last quarter. I've got to study hard. I'm keeping charge here until Audrey returns. It means a little money for me, but it keeps me very busy." She gave an odd, twisted smile: "I haven't really time for love."

"Don't you care for Sherry as you did?"

"Yes, I care for him. But he's awfully young. So am I. We should meet new people."

"If Sherry starts going around with other girls, isn't it the beginning of the end?"

Vivian's lip quivered ever so slightly. She raised her cup and took a long gulp. She set it down with a crisp:

"If two people really love each other, they shouldn't be afraid of losing that feeling. If I can't hold Sherry against the other girls here, then I can't hold him at all. I might as well know it."

"That's not true. People are fickle. They like new experience. They could probably get the same joy, even the same stimulation, from the old relation if they searched for it. But we're not born with much loyalty or stability. It's something you've got to work for.

"If you want Sherry, why should you turn him free for all the worthless girls to have a fling at him?"

Vivian gave a little shrug and opened her hands in a faint gesture. She covered immediately:

"I saw Sherry this morning. I'll probably see him again tomorrow. Don't look so worried. He's very fond of me, I'm sure."

New Term Opens

"I've really got to wind up my course with flying colors," she insisted when Pippin importuned her.

"But Dick Hazlitt has been phoning three times a day and Harry Wagner begged me to give him the telephone number here. I think Hazlitt is a peach. He's crazy about you. Why don't you be a little kind?"

"Sherry is stepping out. I saw him last night."

Vivian's eyes narrowed. She said on a tight breath:

"I don't know. You're grieving for Sherry!"

"I'm not grieving. I don't think it means anything that he goes out occasionally with others. We've agreed on it."

She turned with abnormal quiet to her books. She sat there utterly still and didn't say a word.

A few days later Pippin went down to the apartment where she and Vivian often studied together. The door was unlatched. She walked in. Vivian wasn't there, so she went to the kitchen and got a little feast ready.

When she heard someone enter, she crossed through the small dinette. Vivian was closing the door softly. She was leaning against it, both hands bearing hard on the knob, her head flung back. Her face was haggard. It looked stark and white. She said, dully:

"What's the matter, Veev?"

Her eyes had a black fixity. She moved her hand through her hair and said:

"How did you get in?"

Given Great Shock

She gave Pippin a blank look, walked to the davenport and sat down, her hands clasped in her lap. She looked straight before her and said, dully:

"I've had a shock. Get the tea. Bring it here."

"Is it about Sherry, Veev?"

"Sherry?"

Vivian glanced up as though she had never heard the name before.

"No. It's not about Sherry. My mother. Some bad luck to my mother. A really terrible misfortune. I can't tell you right now, I can't talk about it."

She wanted to be alone. She was tired and felt like sleeping. She begged Pippin to go.

"You can't help me in this, Pippin."

"Wouldn't it relieve you to talk of it? I'm awfully fond of my own mother, you know."

Tears came into Vivian's eyes. She said, biting her lips:

"Mine has never had much sweetness. Nothing but a hope in me. It's nothing to be tragic about—just that she's losing her home. It's the last thing we have. I don't know what she'll do. Well—money's not important.

"Please go, Pippin. I want awfully to be alone."

Loan Arranged

In the evening Vivian phoned:

"I know you're worrying about me, Pippin. I've just heard from my mother. It may not be so bad. I'm going to see her tomorrow. I feel better. Thanks awfully."

"I wish I hadn't inflicted you with my woes, Pippin. It's going to be all right. The lawyer has arranged a loan. I spent the whole day with my mother. She's not downed. An awfully wonderful person, Pippin. You'll have to know her."

Pippin said:

"I thought you were breaking on account of Sherry."

"I wouldn't break on account of that. I'd be rather tragically done in for a while. But after all, if it has to end, I've had a rich, happy, beautiful experience. I'll be glad and grateful for that. Even if I were deserted I would feel this way. I'd battle hard to feel this way," Vivian went on. "Love is a unique experience which two people share. It's complete only when both equally give and equally take. I'm sure, Pippin, that even then I'd be glad for every minute I gave Sherry—humble and proud for every moment he gave me."

"You sound tragic, Vivian."

"I'm not though. I saw Sherry today. He seems to feel as he did for me. I think I've been wise, Pippin. Sherry isn't lost. He wants a picnic to wind up the summer properly."

The next day Vivian called:

"Let's have the picnic tonight, Pippin." Pippin had a date. "Oh, break it," Vivian urged. "It means a great deal to me."

She was insistent about it. . . . So the picnic was on. . . .

OCCUPATION OF FORT DUQUESNE—FOUNDING OF FORT PITT—FRENCH, INDIAN WAR

While the British Gens. Amherst and Wolfe were campaigning against the French at Louisburg, Nova Scotia and Gens. Abercrombie and Howe in the Great Lakes regions, Gen. John Forbes, Cols. George Washington and Bouquet started from Fort Cumberland, Md., against Fort DuQuesne. Gen. Forbes becoming ill, proceded slowly. In November, Washington received permission to advance and on the 24th he came within 10 miles of the fort. The same night the French set the fort aflame, and escaped down the Ohio. Washington next morning planted the American flag upon the destroyed Fort DuQuesne, renaming it Fort Pitt in honor of the English "Commoner" statesman whose sympathy and abundant help brought English-American success over the French. From scattered settlements around Fort Pitt developed Pittsburgh. (United States History)

WARS OF REPUBLICAN ROME—CORIOLANUS

The young Roman republic starting (509 B. C.) under a consul as chief executive, continued the fights of regal Rome for supremacy mainly against Etruscans and Volscians. Internally the plebeians (commons) struggled against the patricians, latters clinging to their old privileges of reserving for their Senate the right to confirm or reject measures of the plebs' assembly. The plebs succeeded in establishing the plebeian tribunate, a rival in power to the patrician consulate.

The legend of Gaius Marcius Coriolanus is one characterizing the social discord in Rome at that time. A haughty patrician, proud of his military success against the Volscians, Coriolanus, opposed the distribution of corn among the plebs in famine. He was banished. Returning at the head of a Volscian army, sweeping away resistance, the Romans approached him in his camp through his mother and wife Volumnia leading her two children. Their tears softened his revengeful heart and he led the Volscians away.

TISSUES OF A LEAF

Leaves convert inorganic matter, absorbed by roots, with CO_2 and H_2O of the air into sugars, proteins, under influence of light (photosynthesis) making the food for the plant and for the rest of the living world. Chief agent of photosynthesis is the green chlorophyll, contained in the disc shaped chloroplastides of cells of pallisade-and spongy tissues. Stomata (openings) in the impervious epidermis admit air, vapor. (Gen Science)

THE JEWELS OF CORNELIA

By Permission of the Book of Knowledge and of the Grolier Society

Cornelia, beautiful and educated Roman matron, had a lady visitor who proudly displayed gorgeous jewels. Cornelia, asked to show her most valuable gems, brought in her two sons: "These are the only ones." The boys—the Gracchi—became famous for their character and heroism. Jewels fade where a heart shines. (Charact. Bldg.)

ASSEMBLY AND PARTS OF DIFFERENTIAL GEAR

The differential gear conveys power to the rear wheels of the car, enabling these to turn at different speeds. The bevel pinion drives the ring gear attached to the differential case. The axle shafts of the rear wheels project into the differential case having a bevel gear at their end, which mesh with three or four bevel pinions on a star or cross shaped spider (at top one pinion is shown for simplicity). In a curve the inner wheel turns slower, the outer faster; the difference is equalized by the turning of the pinions on the spider rotating with the case.

BOYLE'S LAW, CHARLES' LAW—SOME MOST IMPORTANT GAS LAWS

Matter is composed of molecules, these of atoms (atomic theory), which in turn are built of electrical particles (electronic theory): protons, electrons and (according to latest research) also neutrons, positrons and deutons.

According to closeness of molecules, matter is in solid state, when attraction of molecules (cohesion) resists change of form. It is liquid when molecules are less closely packed, their cohesion not enough to prevent their sliding. It is gaseous when molecules are widely separated so they can move about freely. 43-III-B

Some important laws for gases: 1, Boyle's law (1660), volume of any sample of gas varies inversely with its pressure at constant temperature. $P/P'=V'/V$ and $PV=P'V'$. Product of pressure and volume of gas at the same temperature is a constant. 2, Charles' law (1801), volume of a gas varies directly as absolute temperature, if pressure is constant; similarly, pressure, if volume is constant: $V/v=T/t=P/p$ (verification experiments and comparison of Fahrenheit, Celsius and Absolute temperature scales above). The Slogan Is, "Chip or Git"

Up until 1928 it was something to be dodged.

Now we admire it. Everybody wants it.

There was a time when society wouldn't handle you if your grandpop had been in trade.

Now, if your old man is working you are the most popular debutante at Newport, South Hampton and Kerry Patch.

In the last 30 years we have avoided our share of it. Now, we keep busy just to be stylish.

Work is tough when you start. After a while you get to like it. If you can't earn your own living these days you are like sardines in the ice box. The folks knock you off the first time they get together.

Nobody wants a bum around the shack. The society favorite with the beautiful tenor voice is now singing to 'em in the village nickelodeon. The old cotillion leader is leading the grand march from the hay pile to the silo. And the famous lad who won the annual steeplechase has hitched his star-jumper to a wagon.

Probably this feeling may wear away. In another 10 years we may snork and sniff at the busy little bee improving each glistening hour. But, at present, we are voting for the ant who carries the biggest crumb.

Notice that college graduates are no longer becoming bond salesmen. They are going in for the more noble existence featuring the perspiration on the brow and the callouses on the mitts.

That's the spirit. Start in as office boy. Work your way through the firm until you are president. And, 30 years later, another office boy will point you out to the investigating committee.

That's what we call an earned run. No more scoring on errors and pop flies. You were catapulted into this world to do your share.

A Gain for Justice

The Civil Service Commission Has Done Well in Requiring Specific Charges.

Justice has triumphed in the Civil Service Commission's decision that hereafter when a city employe under Civil Service protection is discharged for cause the discharging authority shall state specifically the charge on which the action is based.

This puts an end, it is to be hoped, to the custom of getting rid of a city employe on the vague ground that dismissing him is "for the good of the service."

Permitting department heads and others in authority to ignore the Civil Service rule that specifications shall be filed has tended to make a mockery of Civil Service and made it possible to treat as the spoils of victory at the polls jobs that were not supposed to be political.

The Civil Service Commission's latest ruling came up in connection with the appeal of a Public Works Department employe who had been discharged on the general charge of "insubordination and indifference to his duties." He has been reinstated because specific acts were not cited.

The commission's attitude will strengthen confidence in its fairness.

In Union, Economy

Consolidation of Certain Governmental Units Would Save Money for the Taxpayers.

Philadelphia has a situation somewhat similar to ours, in that some of the county offices are housed in the City Hall. In connection with a difficulty that has arisen in this arrangement Mayor Moore, of Philadelphia, has recommended consolidation of city and county governments as an "aid in maintaining a balanced budget."

There is much to be said in favor of combining certain governmental functions now exercised independently by the City of Pittsburgh and the County of Allegheny—the assessment of real estate for taxation purposes, for instance, and the inspection of weights and measures. The taxpayers would be saved money by the elimination of duplicating and overlapping services.

It is gratifying to find the voters alert to this possibility of economy. Several civic organizations are asking candidates for offices for which nominations are to be made in the May primary if they favor consolidation of administrative units, particularly small townships and school districts.

It is a timely question and one which, if frankly answered by the candidates, will help the people to vote in such a manner as to promote their own best interests.

A Safer City

The Agencies Working to Reduce Auto Accidents Have Done Good Work.

The luncheon given by the Chamber of Commerce and the Congress of Women's Clubs today in honor of the agencies that have been working to reduce automobile accidents in Pittsburgh is a well deserved tribute.

The Better Traffic Committee, the Bureau of Traffic Planning, the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council, the Traffic Police Division, the automobile clubs and the other organizations that have co-operated in the campaign to make Pittsburgh's streets safer have done good work. The National Safety Council has taken recognition of it by giving Pittsburgh for the second successive year an award in its safety contest.

Pittsburgh received the first place award for cities of more than 500,000 in the National Traffic Safety Contest of 1932 and the second place award for its efforts last year. In the last four years our annual loss of life through traffic accidents has been cut from 198 to 120—a reduction of 35 per cent.

While we may well take satisfaction from this creditable achievement, we must not, of course, be too complacent. We still have a long way to go before we will cease to have cause for concern over the toll of lives lost through the carelessness of motorists and pedestrians.

Gunmen Outnumber Army

Congress Is to Blame for the Nation's Lack of Preparedness.

"There are more people under arms in the underworld today than in the Army and Navy of the United States."

When Attorney General Cummings made this statement before the Senate Committee on the Judiciary, he drew a grave indictment against the Congress of the United States.

Under the Federal Constitution, Congress is charged with the obligation to provide for the common defense. It is given the exclusive power "to raise and support armies" and to provide and maintain a Navy.

Because the Congress has failed in recent years to exercise this power and to discharge this duty, the Army has sunk to seventeenth place and the Navy to third place among the armies and navies of the world.

By authorizing the building up of the Navy to equality with the strongest, the present Congress has taken the first step toward making appropriations for that purpose, but appropriations must follow if this authorization is to prove more than an empty gesture.

This neglect is chiefly due to the Democratic chairman of the House Committee on Military Affairs, Congressman McSwain, of South Carolina.

More than a month ago, Secretary Dern submitted to Chairman McSwain's committee a defense measure of the most urgent importance.

This measure provides the necessary authorization for Congress to appropriate whatever amount may be required to increase the effectiveness and efficiency of the Army Air Corps.

Enactment of this bill at this session would clear the way for the War Department to equip, organize and maintain what the air corps has long needed and what the General Staff urgently recommends—a GHQ air force of five wings.

Such a force would increase the strength of the air corps to 3,800 planes, with the necessary personnel to man them as soon as Congress votes the appropriations and American manufacturers can carry out the contracts for this construction.

Instead of reporting this measure to the House, Chairman McSwain persisted in squandering the time of his committee in various and sundry investigations for political purposes.

Instead of reporting this measure to the House and pressing for its passage, Chairman McSwain solicits personal publicity by introducing a miscellaneous assortment of measures that have neither the indorsement of the Secretary of War and the General Staff nor the support of intelligently patriotic members of the Senate or the House.

Europe's Load

(Copyright, 1934.)

In one of the solar myths of ancient Hellas, Hercules, while wandering on his 12 labors, visited Atlas, the towering giant whose task it was to hold the sky upon his shoulders.

Tempted by Atlas, who was weary of his never-ceasing burden, Hercules took the load upon himself, just to prove that he could—and Atlas, freed, was about to leave the hero there forever.

As it happened, however, Atlas was dumb and Hercules was crafty. So Hercules persuaded Atlas to take the load back again while Hercules made a cushion for his shoulders of his lion-skin garment.

And as soon as Atlas had done so Hercules betook himself out of the region.

If Uncle Sam is foolish enough to do so he will be very much worse off than Hercules was. For Europe is not dumb, and will never take back its own load again.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 28.—Memories: Eugene Walter, who had been a reporter among us, coming back to Cincinnati with his Broadway hit, "The Easiest Way," and a silver headed cane! T. E. Powers' dove of peace eggs in Bryan's hair. Max Marx, the Broadway tailor. Solly, the Hammerstein doorman.

Listening to Dean Inge's invocation at St. Paul's in London. The first comic strip—James Montgomery Flagg's "Nervy Nat." Slivers' pantomime baseball clowning at the Hippodrome. Veranda dining tables at the Savoy. Valeska Suratt's back. Grace La Rue's wide hats. Mannie Chappelle, the wine agent.

All the serious thinkers who cried up America as hostile to the artist and that Paris was the place, have drifted back. In the last humiliating days when their remittances shrank to almost nothing they found gay Paree in reverse, its vaunted hospitality a myth. Many, incidentally, have lit out for La Jolla, Cal., which has become an enchanting and sympathetic center for creative artists.

Lee Posner, Boswell of the Black Belt, tells about the Harlem boy stopped by a Forty-second street cop who decided to hold him on suspicion. "Lissen," said the Negro, reaching for his razor pocket, "I got a mammy in heaven, a pappy in hell and a gal on Lennox avenue, and I 'tends to see one of 'em tonight."

Although known as scrappy, the late John McGraw was only so baiting umpires. Among cronies he was free going and easy to get along with. About the only off-diamond battle he had was when he came out second best in an exchange of punches with Bill Boyd, the stage actor, in the grill of the Lambs years ago. There was one epithet he loathed, so much so sports writers dropped it in later years, and that was "Muggsy." On nights out McGraw was, in his day, one of the liveliest spenders on the Big Apple. He liked a large evening at Rector's now and then. And a dawn windup in the Battling Nelson Grill at Jack's.

I thrill to the small bit actor—the capable forthright performer who does his part and almost runs away with the show, strolls to his boarding house afterward smoking a five-cent cigar to read a detective magazine. They look for no plaudits or names in lights, but do more to keep the stage alive than many stars. Best I think is the Plattsburgh (Mo.) born Sidney Toler, now drafted by Hollywood. Still another is Harlan Briggs, who as a country doctor, banker or merchant seems always to express a one foot hanging out the buggy side realism. There is another whose first or last name is Ettienne—or something like that. My failure to remember after seeing so many of his grand performances illustrates the common fate of all small bit players. E. G. Robinson was one until the movies grabbed him and made him a star. They are all star material.

The most earnest devotee of the six-day bicycle race continues to be Jim Barton, the dancer. For many years he has canceled theatrical engagements during this grind and spends 20 hours out of 24 at the Garden, sleeping only four hours daily at his hotel. Al Jolson is another addict whose passion is not quite so pronounced but is generally around for several hours daily.

The other late evening I met the fictionized type of gunman's moll in real life. She was arranging with a ghost writer for her memoirs. Turned out glossily by a select school, precise in her English and exploiting all the little graces of refinement, she had nevertheless cast her lot with a crook—a real desperado. But most astonishing was her shamelessness over the affair.

LISTEN, WORLD!

It's the Day After That Counts

In a talk to salesmen I came across this little story.

"Certain officers on Napoleon's staff came to him one day to recommend a young captain for promotion. The great general asked: 'Why do you suggest THIS man?'

"It was explained that the candidate, by unusual courage and strategy, had won an important engagement a few days back. 'Good,' said Napoleon, 'but what did he do the next day?'

"Napoleon's great Marshals were not once-in-a-whilers. They were rugged old war dogs, riding from battle to battle, week after week and month after month. What did they do the next day?

"THEY KEPT ON FIGHTING."

IT'S THE NEXT DAY THAT COUNTS.

Most of us can be heroic in emergency — resourceful, generous, industrious, ambitious, tolerant in spirits. But we fall down under the test of sustained performance.

Why do we fall down?

Is it because we're indifferent? Deliberately careless?

No. We're sincerely desirous of making a constantly admirable record. We're humiliated and exasperated when we don't. We're disgusted with our own stupidity—make vow upon vow that we'll do better next time. Yet again and again we fail.

Why? WHY? Because we have the wrong expectations concerning life, and the wrong training for it.

Too often we carry with us, into mature years, our childish attitudes. Children think of life in terms of melodrama. Children are always "killing Injuns"—shooting gangsters—discovering hidden treasures—achieving heroic rescues, spectacular victories.

CHILDREN ARE ALWAYS LIVING ON PEAKS.

They fret and fade out, if possible, under the drab routine of discipline. They have no interest in "the day after." They exist vividly, avidly, in the present moment.

So, unless they have wise guidance, children grow into adults with the same "killing Injuns" attitude. To make the Big Splash—achieve the swift and sensational record—that seems to them to be sufficient.

Nor is this the attitude of isolated individuals. During the last 30 chaotic years, this infantile attitude became the attitude of all America. We were a Big Splash nation.

So what?

So the Big Splash became the Big Thud!

We made a lot of noise while the battle was at its height.

BUT THE DAY AFTER WASN'T SO GOOD!

Little boys "killing Injuns"—but whining because they had to bring in the kindling the next morning!

Why don't we make sustained records? BECAUSE WE'RE STILL LITTLE CHILDREN.

Little children are delightful things, while they are little children. Their pranks are amusing. We view their impatience and vacillation tenderly.

But little children aren't delightful when they have whiskers and double chins, nor are their flops and flutters any longer amusing. They then become exasperating nuisances, a downright menace to all those who trust them.

It's the day after—not the fireworks on the night before—that rates us, partner.

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

'Understanding' a Man

A bachelor will never consider taking a "steady job" as a husband so long as he can go through life panhandling a little love here, and a few kisses there, and still hang on to his freedom.

Funny, how a flirtations woman will go to all sorts of trouble to purloin another woman's husband, when she might have had him just for the asking if she would only promise his wife not to send him back. C. O. D.

* * *

Keeping tabs on a man is the last word in wasted energy. If a man is the sort who has eyes for other women no jealousy and no espionage will ever stop him from LOOKING at them.

* * *

Judging from some ex-husbands the loss of a wife leaves such great open spaces in a man's heart that it takes half a dozen other women to fill it.

* * *

After a woman has devoured all the summer-resort advertisements and her husband has wistfully glanced over all the automobile ads this year, they'll probably get together and compromise on a new porch-swing and a rock-garden.

* * *

You can usually tell when a man has found a new heart-interest, by the fresh crease in his trousers and the DEcrease in the contents of his pockets.

* * *

Fashions in lovers seem to change, just like the fashions in figures. The Romeos of yesterday are the jokes of today; and the Cassanovas of today will be the Big Laughs of tomorrow.

When a man admits to a pretty girl that he "loves his wife," it is difficult to tell whether he is apologizing or merely daring her to make him change his mind.

* * *

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Blackbird

Oh, blackbird, how can you be sure
That spring draws near again?
Drifts there some message on the wind,
Some whisper through the rain?

The air is chill and gusts of snow
Upon the blast are borne;
How dare you venture to a land
So barren, so forlorn?

These heavens overcast and dim
Touch mortals to dismay.
While you with strong and glossy wing
Have braved the bleakest way.

For you and all your inky kin
The voiceless call have heard.
The sky is spattered with your ranks,
As spring's unspoken word!

Roosevelt Puts Recovery Ahead of League Court

By James T. Williams, Jr.

There can be no greater error than to expect or calculate upon real favors from nation to nation. It is an illusion, which experience must cure, which a just pride ought to discard.—George Washington.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has again let it be known that he is opposed to jeopardizing his legislative program for national recovery with any attempt to dispose at this session of the League Court protocols.

Ratification of these protocols would plunge the United States into the League of Nations through the trapdoor of its private court.

A prolonged debate on a foreign question of this importance would indefinitely postpone the enactment of many legislative proposals which the administration insists are essential to aid that recovery which the country has the faith to believe is on the way.

If Mr. Hoover had been willing to accept the example of President Coolidge, the League Court protocols would not now be plaguing the Committee on Foreign Relations.

* * *

Reservation Not Accepted

THESE protocols were revived in the Senate after the League powers had refused to accept the most important of the conditions upon which the Senate, during the Coolidge administration, reluctantly advised and consented to their ratification.

This was reservation No. 5. It read as follows:

"That the court shall not render any advisory opinion except publicly after due notice to all states adhering to the court and to all interested states and after public hearing or opportunity for hearing given to any state concerned; nor shall it, without the consent of the United States, entertain any request for an advisory opinion touching any dispute or question in which the United States has or claims an interest."

At the time this reservation was adopted, it was believed by the supporters of the League Court to be absolutely essential to the protection of the rights and interests of the United States.

When the League powers refused to accept this reservation, they in effect rejected the terms upon which the Senate originally and reluctantly considered to conditional membership.

There the matter rested and there it would have continued to rest had it not been for the insistence of Mr. Hoover, soon after the election and before his inauguration, that the Senate should reconsider and revise its conditions to meet the objections of the League powers.

These were the circumstances under which the question was reopened. And the movement to stampede the Senate into ratification of the League Court on Europe's terms is still led by Hoover Republicans and League Democrats, who from the beginning have advocated the entrance of the United States into the League.

* * *

League Drive Will Not Succeed

FOR years they tried to lure this country into the League through its front door—that is, by ratifying the League covenant.

When they were balked in that attempt by a public sentiment which expressed itself in several national presidential elections and in many senatorial primaries and elections, these League advocates then organized a drive to plunge the United States into the League through the trapdoor of its private court.

This is the drive which is now on. It will fail of success during the present session for two reasons.

First, because the President and the Democratic leaders of the Senate know that to start a debate over the League Court during this session would prevent adjournment of Congress in May, and would imperil the recovery program of the administration.

Second, because few Senators who come up for re-election this year wish to go on record in favor of entrance into the League Court on the eve of their campaign. They know how many Senators in the past have been defeated for renomination or re-election because they advocated the entrance of this country into the League either by its front door or its trapdoor.

The Senators also know how fatuous the American people would regard the pretense that membership in the League or the League Court will bring the United States any "real favors" from foreign nations that control both the League and its Court.

Two Girls of Good Breeding, Accused of Murder, Are Likened to Notorious Western Gunwomen

By Edwin C. Hill

BEHIND bars, in the beautiful and historic town of Dedham, Mass., held as accessory to one of the most puzzling crimes in the history of the Old Bay State, is an almost classically beautiful, 19-year-old girl, golden-haired and violet-eyed. In default of $50,000 bail, she is held for investigation in connection with the charges against her husband, Merton Millen, for robbery and murder.

Only the West Furnishes Parallels

ONE has to go back many years, back to the criminal history of the old West, the wild women of the old West, to find anything like parallels for Norma Millen and Rose Knellar. And instantly one comes upon a curious analogy, for the two wild women of the old West, who gained blazing notoriety, Virginia Slade and Belle Starr, plunged gayly into bloody violence because of love for bad men.

Virginia Slade was the wife of Jack Slade of the Overland Stage Line, and an outlaw. A bold-eyed, black-eyed, dashing woman was Virginia Slade, who shared the life of her gunman-husband and stood by him until the fatal end.

It was she who came galloping upon a big horse when the Vigilantes had their rope around Jack Slade's neck and were about to string him up. Whipping out two guns, she passed one to Slade, cowed the lynchers and led him to safety at full gallop. And when he was caught again at Virginia City, and sentenced to hang for more murders than the prosecutor could roll off his tongue, Virginia rode in again, guns in hand. But this time she was too late. The hangman had finished his job.

The other wild woman of the old West, who took the outlaw trail because of love for a bad man, was Myra Belle Shirley, who became Belle Starr, the Outlaw Queen. Her home was in Carthage, Mo. Her father was a judge of a fine old family. A courtly gentleman of the old school, Judge Shirley. And then Myra Belle eloped with Jim Reed, one of Quantrell's guerillas, and when the judge brought her home and put her in boarding school, she eloped with him again. There was no stopping her when she headed into the wild life. Where Reed rode and robbed and killed, there rode Belle, his wife, among horse thieves and train robbers.

A Mannish Woman, Severely Plain

A STRANGE woman. She had the energy and daring that would have carried her far on the right road. She had a passion for books, horses and money. She was not the Bandit Queen of romance, not the handsome, haughty creature for whom outlaws fight and die. She was a thin, high-shouldered woman, with sharp, weathered face, severely plain, relieved only by hard, blue eyes. A mannish woman, a superb horsewoman, a dead shot with rifle or pistol, as much to be feared as a tigress, for when crossed she would kill. Yet she had a soft side for loyalty and for children. A strange mixture of character and wickedness, of good and evil.

Reed went out in gun smoke, and Belle married Sam Starr. His partner, Blue Duck, borrowed $2,000 from her and lost it at the faro table. Swearing vigorously, Belle went after the money like a fury. Into the gambling room she charged, gun in hand, raked $7,000 in gambling money from the table and shouted:

"If you want your change, gentlemen, you'll have to come down into the Indian Territory for it."

She went to live in the Cherokee Nation, along the Canadian River. Her log house was luxurious with rugs, books, a piano, but out she rode on the outlaw trail. The end came when she was 43. Ed Watson, an outlaw whose company she had spurned, shot her from ambush as she was riding past him on her thoroughbred horse Venus. Belle Starr, who had lived the wild life beyond the civil law, died by a higher law. A victim of romance gone wrong.

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

Do you criticize in a helpful or in a fault-finding spirit?

Every sensible person welcomes beneficial criticism, but becomes antagonistic to the sort suggested by a wrong impulse.

Too often, those who make complaints are not in a position to exercise good judgment in the matters of which they complain.

It is not often that practical or workable ideas are advanced by the person who is not well versed in the matters upon which he offers suggestions.

It is easy to think that you could do the other fellow's job better.

But in general, when you suggest a procedure for something of which you have little or no knowledge, your ideas are impractical.

You may think otherwise because you do not know the relative connection between the matter criticized and the other cooperative units.

WISE WORDS

ISN'T IT SO?
